TWO SIDES TO THIS WAR STORY

TURKS REPORT ENEMY ARE ON THE RUN

Bulgarians Say Dispatches
From Mussulman Sources
Are Quite Unreliable

Constantinople, Nov. 20.—The position at the Tchatalja lines was described by Nazim Pasha, the Turkish commander-in-chief, in a telegram to the Turkish war office, timed 12.15 p.m. today, as follows:

"Reports received at this moment state that the enemy facing our left wing withdrew completely last night in the direction of the slopes of Pajos Burgas. Our reconnoitering parties counted 500 dead Bulgarians on the slopes in the environs of Tchatalja railroad station. From their epaulettes it was established that the dead soldiers belonged to the First Infantry Regiment of Sofia. A number of rifles, caps and officers' swords were brought in by our troops.

"According to statements made by Bulgarian prisoners, the enemy has been without food for three days and is retreating. The Bulgarians were unable to carry away all their wounded. The moral of our troops is very good."

A wireless dispatch from the commander of the Turkish battleship Torgut Reis, timed 1 a.m., November 20, reports a Turkish detachment operating from Derkos, aided by the fire of the ships' guns, drove back the Bulgarians in the direction of Ormanlia and Karabun for a distance of ten miles.

Bulgarian Version.

Sofia, Nov. 20.—All the reports emanating from Turkish sources alleging that the Turkish troops had gained victories over the Bulgarians along the line of fortifications at Tchatalja are said to be untrue by the Bulgarian war office today.

To Fight Cholera.

Vienna, Nov. 20.—Prof. Krauss and five other bacteriologists started for Sofia today to fight the cholera and typhoid fever that have broken out in the Bulgarian army.

BANK PRESIDENT'S SUICIDE.

CONDITIONS IN CONSTANTINOPLE

ARRESTS IN CAPITAL CAUSE UNEASINESS

Movement for Upsetting Cabinet Reason for Action of the Sultan

London, Nov. 20.—Both Ottoman and foreign interests in Constantinople, while awaiting the publication there of definite news regarding the progress of the war, are chiefly concerned in the large number of arrests of politicians and writers belonging to the party of Union and Progress.

According to a special dispatch from the Turkish capital, the Ottoman government, through a local press agency, has issued a statement that only forty arrests have been made and that the sole reason for these was the organization of a demonstration by university students in front of the government offices on October 7.

Diplomatic circles, however, attribute the arrests to a very different reason. They believe they were due to the nomination by the sultan, at the behest of the Unionists, of Mahmoud Shekfat Pasha as inspector-general of the army. This action was intended to cause the fall of the Ottoman cabinet.

City Reported Tranquil.
New York, Nov. 20.—Cleveland H. Dodge, one of the trustees of Robert College at Constantinople, received the following cablegram from the president of that institution today: "Constantinople, Nov. 19.—Be reassured. The city is quiet. The school is crowded with students and is fully guarded."
(Signed) "GATES."

TAXI-CAB RESPONSIBLE.

London, Nov. 20.—The spacious show window at the Canadian offices at Charing Cross was smashed to smithereens this afternoon by a skidding taxi-cab. One passenger was hurried clean through the broken window, but escaped unscathed.

NE TEMERE DECREE ON DECK AGAIN

CONDEMNED AT IMMENSE MEETING IN LONDON

Dr. Hincks, of Toronto, Moves Resolution and Delivers
Impassioned Speech

London, Nov. 20.—Great enthusiasm attended the meeting of the campaign of protest against the "ne temere" decree by the World's Evangelical Alliance last evening in the vast new Central Hall at Westminster. The hall was taxed to its utmost capacity.

The chair was occupied by Right Hon. Lord Kinnaird, and he was supported by Dr. Hincks, of Toronto, Dr. Montgomery, Presbyterian moderator in Ireland; Rev. Chancellor O'Connor, Christ Church cathedral, Dublin; Rev. Webb Pepploe, Sir Robert Parks, Sir Robert Anderson and Rev. Fuller Gough.

Dr. Hincks, whose address was awaited with special interest, moved a resolution which expressed sympathy with the Protestants of the Dominion in their determination to resist the papal decree and prevent its legal enforcement. Dr. Hincks said the Canadian Protestants were absolutely unanimous against the decree.

After citing several instances where the decree's operations caused hardship under the marriage laws in Manitoba, Quebec and Ontario, the speaker went on to say that Canada was at the present moment passing through a critical period in the unification of races, creeds and people. The people of Canada were determined to have ultimately one uniform marriage law. No government could refuse the united request and no political party could survive six months which openly endorsed this infamous decree, yet for day Romanism on the banks of the St. Lawrence was stronger than on the banks of the Tiber in Italy.

Dr. Hincks afterward showed that the main reason of the objection of the German Emperor to the papal decree was that he had the same problem for Germany which the Dominion had, namely, the unification of the different sects, and, to a certain extent, different races. His appeal to the audience was received with the greatest enthusiasm, the resolution being carried unanimously.

Sir Robert Parks, who followed Dr. Hincks, proposed the following resolution, which was adopted: "That, as His Majesty's government takes no action to protect the civil and religious rights of His Majesty's subjects who contract legal marriages, this meeting calls upon the Imperial parliament to take steps to give the necessary relief to those who, while lawfully married, are subjected to suffering in consequence of the terms of the 'ne temere' decree."

BRIDGE OR BABIES.

Actor Declared Women Cannot Attend to Both.

Pittsburg, Nov. 20.—Women must give up either bridge or babies; the two are incompatible, declares John Drew, who is appearing here this week. "A woman cannot devote herself to bridge-playing and at the same time perform her maternal duties," said Drew. "Bridge certainly is a cause of race suicide. In England the bridge craze has become so violent, they tell me, as to be actually hurting the business of the theatres."

LONDON VIEW OF NAVAL QUESTION

Premier Borden Should Frame a Policy and Nail
It Down

London, Nov. 20.—More discussion of the Canadian naval programme says Premier Borden ought to insure a policy which is not liable to be reversed by future governments. The idea should also be enforced of a Canadian contribution in addition, not in substitution for a British contribution. The question of the Dominion providing a national unit should be left open.

Manchester Guardian's Opinion.
London, Nov. 20.—The Manchester Guardian, the most influential Liberal paper in England, in discussing the probability of Premier Borden offering £8,000,000 for naval purposes, says that it involves a principle which many Canadians will certainly dislike, it will prove to be Premier Borden's own idea and not the result of suggestions from the home authorities. "We ought to make clear," says the Guardian, "that the idea of benevolence is as repugnant to us as it can be to them."

HIS SEVENTY-FIRST BIRTHDAY

To-day, Canada's greatest statesman celebrates his seventy-first birthday. Right Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, G.C.M.G., former prime minister and now leader of the Opposition, was born on November 20, 1841, at St. Lin, Quebec. To-morrow the Canadian parliament opens, and Sir Wilfrid will return to battle, as vigorous a fighter for the principles of Liberalism as he was sixteen years ago, when he succeeded to the highest honor to which a Canadian can aspire. With him go the good wishes and true regard of the whole country. Hail to the chief!

FOUR MORE FOR ELECTRIC CHAIR

NEW YORK DESPERADOES TO GET DEATH SENTENCE

Their Doom on November 26

New York, Nov. 20.—Sentences of death on the four gunmen convicted yesterday of murdering Herman Rosenthal will be pronounced by Justice Goff on November 26, he announced today, when the prisoners were arraigned before him. After sentence is passed the men will be taken to Sing Sing, where former Police Lieut. Charles Becker is awaiting death for instigating the shooting.

Pedigree of the gunmen were taken today at the arraignment. "Whitely" Lewis said his real name was Frank Sideschue, born in Russia, twenty-four years old, and a bookbinder by trade. Both his parents are living and he has served two jail sentences.

"Dago Frank" gave his correct name as Frank Cirofici, 27 years old, a native of Italy and a steamfitter by occupation. He has served one jail sentence and described himself as a moderate drinker.

"Lefty Louie" said he was christened Louis Rosenberg, was 21 years old, a native of Austria and married. His vocation was salesmanship, he said. He was temperate and had served one jail sentence.

"Gyp the Blood" was recorded as Harry Horowitz, a clerk, twenty-four years old, a native of New York city, married and temperate.

The state's informers, Rose, Vallon, Weber and Scheppe, who have been held in prison during the trial, will be released this afternoon. The district attorney agreed today that there was no further need of keeping them behind the bars. It is thought they will leave the city.

William Shapiro, driver of the "murder car," and jointly indicted with the gunmen and Becker, also will go free. In return for his testimony for the state the district attorney's office will move that the indictment against him be quashed.

METHODIST ASSOCIATIONS.

Toronto, Ont., Nov. 20.—One thousand associations, with a membership aggregating probably over one hundred thousand, are represented in a new society organized here this morning. The new organization is the Ontario Methodist Men's Association. It will stand behind moral issues, religious principles, clean sport, an international system of transferring members. It also aims at nothing short of provincial prohibition.

TRANSPORTATION MERGER FORMED

LONDON TRAINS AND TUBES AMALGAMATED

Big Deal Negotiated by American—Capitalization Forty-Six Million Sterling

London, Nov. 20.—Sir Edgar Speyer, carrying on the work begun by the late Charles T. Yerkes, has achieved another master stroke of finance in pursuance of his policy of controlling the traffic facilities of London. To the huge combination of practically all the newer tubes of London, the General Omnibus Company and the United Tramways Company, there has now been added the Central London railway, the City and South London railway and the Metropolitan Electric Tramways Company.

The two railways are to be taken over bodily, and the new company is to be formed to combine the two tramway companies. The total issued capital of the combined groups exceeds £46,000,000 sterling and the combined receipts for the first half of 1912 exceeds £2,250,000 sterling.

Under the new management the tramway, omnibuses and railways will complement instead of compete with respective companies.

TRANSPORTATION OF WESTERN CROPS

C. P. R. ENDEAVORING TO PREVENT CONGESTION

Reason for Order Restricting Movements of Railway Company's Cars

Winnipeg, Nov. 20.—The C. P. R. announced today a general embargo on grain shipments on all lines west. Elevator incapacity is given as the reason. The railroad management also has issued orders that foreign cars loaded with Canadian grain shall be routed to Minneapolis and to Duluth, but that no C. P. R. cars shall go farther south.

Port William, Ont., Nov. 20.—It is denied that the C. P. R. has placed any embargo on grain, with the exception of the temporary embargo on flax. The reason for the latter move is to enable the elevators to handle the wheat, for flax takes twice as much time to unload as the other grains.

To move the grain crop of the West is the slogan of the C.P.R. officials. It was for this reason that a conference was held here today between the officials of the railway company and terminal elevator managers.

How to provide means to prevent a possible congestion at this point, which is the whole secret of relieving the farmer, was the object of the conference. It was attended by the managers of the different elevators at the lake front and by George J. Bury, vice-president of the C. P. R.; W. B. Langlan, assistant traffic manager, and D. C. Coleman, general superintendent of the Manitoba division. The C. P. R. has made a world's record movement of the grain to the lake for this season, and the vice-president and his officers are anxious to help the farmers to keep the water outlet open.

MINISTER RE-ELECTED.

Montreal, Nov. 20.—Hon. Louis Coderre was re-elected by his constituents today with the decisive majority of 2296 over his opponent, Louis Doyon, the choice of the Nationalists. Doyon will lose his deposit.

SCHOONER WRECKED; CREW RESCUED

WILLIAM JOLLIFFE PICKS UP NINE SAILORS

Ship E. K. Wood Meets Her
Doom Off Coast of Vancouver Island

Vancouver, Nov. 20.—Five days and nights without sleep, three days without water to drink, wet to the skin during the whole of that period on a helpless, waterlogged, dismantled schooner, and then, when hope had been abandoned and the men crowded into the remaining small boat with huge seas carrying them into the rugged shores of Vancouver Island, the welcome smoke of the Canadian fisheries cutter William Jolliffe hove in sight and nine sailors were snatched from the jaws of death.

This has been the experience of the crew of the American schooner E. K. Wood, wrecked off Vancouver Island, and who arrived here this morning on board the steamer Chelohsin from Situla, to which point the William Jolliffe conveyed them.

Standing in clothing, mostly consisting of shirts and trousers, weather beaten and showing unmistakable signs of the hardships through which they went, the crew of the lost schooner were taken today to the office of the American consul-general, Mr. David Wilbur, and will be shipped to Seattle on the steamer Morning Star.

The men talked seriously of their adventures, but the indomitable spirit of the sailor was evident throughout, although they are of various nationalities. How William Buckland, an unassuming Englishman, went overboard and rescued Seaman Morris is only one of the many incidents in the story of the loss of the E. K. Wood.

The schooner sailed from Tacoma on Wednesday, November 8, bound for San Francisco, and she cleared from Port Townsend on Friday, November 9. The crew of this American schooner was composed of men of various nationalities, and the full roster was:

J. Holquist, master; F. W. Wood, mate; Henry Mitchell, second mate; William Buckland, A. B.; H. Morris, A. B.; V. Madec, A. B.; Otto Anderson, A. B.; Alfred Diller, A. B.; Morika, Japanese cook.

As the schooner cleared Cape Flattery she ran into the dirty weather which has prevailed off and on for weeks, and carrying as she did a huge deckload of lumber, she made head against it. Towards Sunday the weather grew worse and on Tuesday it was discovered that the vessel was straining badly. The well was sounded and it was found that the E. K. Wood was rapidly taking water. All hands were put on to the pumps and from that time until they abandoned the ship the men had no sleep.

Lower and lower in the water sank the schooner, and then the pumps choked. When this was discovered Captain Holquist and his men could see that there was big trouble ahead.

Groaning and creaking as she rose sluggishly to the huge seas, the schooner soon showed signs of breaking up. Lower and lower she went, and soon she was just awash. By this time a terrific gale had sprung up, and while at first it was from the north-west, and the crew made an effort to work back into the straits, yet the schooner was not under control and entirely unmanageable.

Then, chopping suddenly to the northeast, the gale blew the schooner away from shore, while the set of the tide drifted her up toward the dangerous and rock-ribbed coast of Vancouver Island.

Early on Sunday, November 17, the schooner lurched and groaned, and it was seen that her back was broken. Then came a call for all hands to cut away the deckload, for with this on deck it was feared she would capsize. The wind then was blowing a hurricane. (Concluded on page 17.)

FAVORS INDEPENDENCE OF THE PHILIPPINES

Speaker Champ Clark Places
Himself on Record on Important Question

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20.—Speaker Champ Clark favors the independence of the Philippines. In yesterday's number of the Philippine People, published as an independent organ by Senator Quezon, delegate from the Philippines, Clark says: "The Philippines should be given their independence, guaranteed by the United States and such other powers as are willing to join us in the neutralization of the islands. I think our own guarantee would be sufficient, but I favor freeing them, regardless of what the other powers do. I desire to see the islands free and shall use every endeavor to bring it about for their good and our own."

RECIPROCITY IN SASKATCHEWAN

SUBJECT OF DEBATE IN LEGISLATURE

Speaker Declares It Will Be an Issue Until Market is Secured

Regina, Sask., Nov. 20.—The floor of the House throughout most of yesterday afternoon's sitting of the legislature was held by Hon. George Langley and J. E. Bradshaw of Prince Albert, both of whom made characteristic addresses in reply to the speech from the throne.

Mr. Bradshaw, after congratulating the new speaker on the honor conferred upon him and Premier Scott upon his return to the House in restored health, in a good-humored manner proceeded to criticize the government in regard to its shortcomings. He objected to the manner in which their good roads policy was being carried out, and to the fact that the cheap money problem was to be the subject of an investigation previous to legislation.

The speaker's strongest references were towards the voters' lists, which he largely blamed for the Conservative defeat in the last elections. The list, he said, on which Mr. Langley had been returned were the worst ever prepared in the Empire. In regard to the lands question he asked the Scott government to come down from the act and make a clear-cut representation of Saskatchewan's claims to Mr. Borden.

Hon. George Langley (Redberry) in reply, denied that there was anything wrong with the lists in his constituency. He himself had nothing to do with their preparation and he was prepared to state that no one had voted for him who had not the right to.

On the contrary, Mr. Langley charged, strong efforts had been made by his opponents to defeat him by the importation of a number of workers from Manitoba, who, he said, had busied themselves in debauching the electorate with whisky.

Referring to Mr. Willoughby's reference to reciprocity, Mr. Langley said that that would continue to be an issue in every election until such time as the market to the south was opened up. Mr. Langley contended that a blockade was already in existence and complained that Saskatchewan growers of low-grade wheat last year lost six million dollars by being shut out of the Minneapolis market.

He held that the present overwhelming Liberal membership of the House was a protest against Premier Borden's position on such matters as the public demand, terminal elevators and reciprocity.

FRENCH CONVICTS RISE IN REVOLT

WARDEN OF PRISON AND HIS WIFE SLAIN

Soldiers Subdue Mutineers, Whose Ringleaders Shoot Themselves

Richefort, France, Nov. 20.—Five persons were killed and three wounded in a revolt which took place in the prison here yesterday. Prisoners overpowered their guards and shot to death the warden and his wife. An officer and sailor who went to the assistance of the officers were dangerously wounded. The revolt occurred at the noon hour, when several prisoners suddenly jumped on the officer, wrenched his revolver from him and shot him through the head.

Troops were hurriedly summoned, who after surrounding the building drove the mutinous prisoners to the top floor of the prison and killed one of them. Two ringleaders barricaded themselves in a cell, which they defended desperately with a hatchet. They finally committed suicide with the warden's revolver.

Several of the prisoners succeeded in making their escape during the affray.

A MEXICAN MELEE.

Fight Between Rurale Guards and Rebels.

Mexico City, Nov. 20.—A fight yesterday between rurale guards and rebels for the control of a railroad train cost the lives of a lieutenant and three rurale guards and two civilian passengers in the vicinity of Panajuelo, state of Guanajuato. The train, travelling along the Guadalupe branch of the Mexican Central Railroad, ran into a bridge from which the rails had been removed and the entire and two cars fell through. A large force of rebels then ran down the hillside toward the wreck, not knowing of the presence of 24 rurale guards in one of the cars. The guards took up positions and held the rebels off. The fight around the wrecked train lasted about an hour, the rebels retreated to the hills.

MAN WITH THE INFERNAL MACHINELOS ANGELES FANATIC
EXPLAINS HIS PURPOSE

Wanted to "Get" Head of Pacific Electric Company—Skull Fractured

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 20.—Strapped to a cot in the receiving hospital, Carl Warr, the German pattern-maker who terrorized the Central police station yesterday by threatening to destroy the building with an infernal machine unless Paul Shoup, president of the Pacific Electric Company, was brought to him, told a weird tale to-day.

"I didn't want to hurt anyone about the police station," declared Warr. "All I was after was the head of the Pacific Electric. I did not even know his name was Paul Shoup until after I was arrested. I did not even want to hurt him. I merely was going to show him my machine, and tell him I was going to blow him up unless he raised the wages of his workmen and otherwise improved their condition."

"If he had given me his promise to do as I wanted I would have released him. If he had failed me later, I would have cornered him again, and either would have forced him to do as I wanted or would have killed him."

"I figured that the best way to get him to promise to do what I wanted was to go to the police station and get the officers to co-operate with me in order to save their own lives."

"I had intended to blow them all to pieces at any attempt to thwart me. They were fools to try to capture me. If they had been killed it would have been no fault of mine. You cannot call that murder."

Warr told of having placed his grotesque mask over his face behind a bulletin board about half a block from the police station. At that place he also adjusted the trigger of the infernal machine to his false fingers.

"I wore false fingers for the same reason that I wore the mask," Warr continued. "I wanted to escape detection."

"The machine would positively have exploded before the police could have prevented it if I had not used some dynamite to keep powder from the cartridge from running out before the dynamite cap was in place."

"The machine is my own invention. I never heard of one like it. I do not want a description of the thing to get into the newspapers for fear others will steal it away. The finest feature of the machine is that instead of pulling the trigger to set the machine off, one has to hold the three triggers to keep it from going off."

The would-be dynamiter is believed to have suffered a basal fracture of the skull as the result of the blows dealt him on the head by Detective James Hossick, who prevented the explosion. Warr varied his recital to-day by begging to be shot, and declaring himself both an atheist and a vegetarian.

Police Surgeon W. E. Carter said the man did not impress him as being what was ordinarily known as a lunatic. "Warr is obsessed with one idea," said Dr. Carter. "He comes under the term 'monomaniac.' His speech is rational, his physical condition good, and there is every indication he is as sane as many persons called 'cranks.' He is of a morbid turn of mind, and undoubtedly would kill himself if given an opportunity."

Chief Sebastian issued a statement commending Detectives Hossick, Fitzgerald and Browne for their bravery in attacking Warr and rushing his infernal machine outside the police station when the natural expectation was that such an attack meant death to those who attempted it.

How He Was Captured.

The man became excited after he had been in Sebastian's office for a time. He moved his seat near to the door to watch all approaches and announced: "If any of you dare to come within five feet of me, I'll hurl you all into eternity."

Once Hossick inadvertently stepped close to the man. "Stop," the maniac commanded. "I will blow the first man into eternity that lays a hand on me. Get back."

Hossick hastily stepped back. Just then a newspaperman stepped into the door. "Young man get back," said the maniac: "You were never closer to eternity than you are now."

The reporter fled.

Chief Sebastian gave orders for two street cars to be brought in front of the jail, and lining up all available officers and newspapermen a lane was formed through which the hundred or more prisoners walked from the jail to their places in the cars.

Buildings within a radius of a hundred feet on either side of the station were ordered vacated.

Just as the last of the prisoners were entering the cars, Detective Brown burst through the door of the chief's office.

"We got him. Look out," he yelled, and rushed into the middle of the street with the box held high over his head. He let it fall to the pavement. Watchers expected an explosion, but the box fell harmlessly open, and the sticks of dynamite were scattered. Four caps also fell to the pavement.

Watchers expected an explosion, but the box fell harmlessly open, and the sticks of dynamite were scattered. Four caps also fell to the pavement.

At the receiving hospital, after the man had regained consciousness he gave his name as Albert Davis of Long Beach. The police said they identified him as a member of the Industrial Workers of the World, who had given them considerable trouble in the past.

He was about 55 years old. All of the fingers and the thumb on his left hand had been cut off, and in their place he wore a set of false fingers.

FRENCH POLITICS
BECOME INTERESTINGPremier May Succeed President
Fallieres Shortly

Paris, Nov. 20.—The French presidential election in January is at last beginning to arouse some little interest in Paris. With the forthcoming change in the head executive, since it is now certain that M. Fallieres will not offer himself for re-election, discussion is going on as to whether the idea of the president as a mere figure-head, or, as M. Castimir Perier himself said, "A master of ceremonies," should not be abolished in favor of wider powers and more initiative.

Public opinion is much divided on this point, some even maintaining that certain of the president's privileges, such as the right of commuting capital punishment into imprisonment, have been too much used in the past. Others point out that the powers which he already has under the Constitution would, if he wielded them, make a French president as important a factor in the government of the country as an American one, and a far more responsible ruler than the King of England, but that through the timidity and lack of force or recent presidents, most of whom have been elected for their harmlessness, these powers have been so neglected as to make them a dead letter.

It is urged that much might be done to increase the dignity and importance of this office by taking a few hints from American methods, and the custom of sending a message to Parliament—one which, it is hoped here, will be revived by M. Fallieres successor.

As to who that successor will be, indifference continues to be shown by the great mass of the public, and it is only here and there that the problem is discussed with any real interest.

Now that Leon Bourgeois has definitely announced that he will not stand, Alexandre Ribot, senator and member of the Institute, is, on the whole, the most favored candidate.

Premier Poincare has, up to the present, refused even to consider the idea of running for the presidency, but his friends are urging him so persistently to do so that it is thought possible that he may enter the lists at the eleventh hour, in which case he would, it is thought, almost certainly be sent to the Elysee Palace by the General Assembly.

Paul Deschanel, who is a very popular politician, has also not yet put himself forward, but it is understood that he will do so in good time.

Antonin Dubost, the president of the senate, is certain of a number of votes.

Finally, there is Jules Pams, the minister of agriculture, who, although an outsider at present, is thought to have a good chance if a candidate of a neutral tint be required. M. Pams is regarded as a typical conciliatory politician, who has always taken care not to offend any party, and by his tact has won friends of every shade of opinion.

Up to the very eve of the election, however, the public will have no inkling of the respective prospects of the candidates, which are in the hands of small political cliques. Needless to say that such a thing as a presidential campaign is utterly unknown in this country.

El Paso, Tex., Nov. 19.—John Brooks, a former Texas state ranger, died to-day at his contracting camp at Colonia Chuchupa, southwest of Juarez, from wounds received in a fight with Mexican rebels. On Sunday Enrique Portilla, rebel leader, whom federal troops have been pursuing, demanded money from Brooks. Brooks fired, killing Portilla and wounding two of his followers and receiving wounds in return which proved fatal.

Farrer, of New Orleans, to-day telegraphed to Chairman Pujo his resignation as associate counsel for the House public banking and currency committee in the conduct of the so-called "money-trust" investigation. His reason was that he was unable to spare time from his own affairs to serve the committee.

DOMINION'S DEBT

CAUSE OF PEOPLE

Party Speaks on Historical Record

Montreal, Nov. 20.—Speaking before the members of the Montreal Reform Club recently, Mr. N. W. Rowell, leader of the Ontario Liberals, reviewed the contributions of Liberalism to the Dominion and to the Empire. In a clear, concise manner, he treated the struggle for responsible government in Canada, the confederation of the Provinces, the evolution of Canada from a colony to a self-governing nation, and the creation of the Imperial organization known as the Imperial Conference.

He showed that Liberals had stood for freedom, for progressive measures, for autonomy, and for everything that tended to bind Canada closer to the motherland.

Dealing with the early struggles for responsible government, Mr. Rowell pointed out that prior to 1841, the Family Compact, a band of Conservatives, was opposed by Baldwin and Lafontaine, leaders of Liberals. The Conservative attitude was that the country must maintain a system of authority from Downing street or the country would be ruined. The attitude of the Liberals was, according to the Conservatives, "one favoring separation from Great Britain and favoring annexation to the United States, a story we have had repeated very recently," said Mr. Rowell, amid laughter. The result of the Conservative policy was the rebellion of 1837, but the Liberal principles triumphed ten years later, when Lord Elgin came to Canada. He signed the Rebellion Losses Bill, and the loyal Tories burned the Parliament buildings. "The responsible government then granted to Canada is the cornerstone of the British government to-day," said the speaker.

First Federal Movement.
Coming to Confederation Mr. Rowell showed that the first resolution in favor of Federal union was made by Dorion. The Brown-Dorion administration went down to defeat fighting the Federal union. In 1864 Hon. George Brown moved for the appointment of a committee to consider the constitutional question of Federal union and to report on it. This passed the House, and was the commencement of Confederation. This was opposed by Sir John A. Macdonald, who wanted one Parliament for all Canada. Brown wanted the Federal principle adopted, with a central Parliament and local Parliaments for the provinces, which gave the greatest possible autonomy. "The triumph of Liberal principles in giving autonomy to provinces is what has made this Dominion great and is what will make the Empire and the self-governing Dominion great," declared the speaker amid applause.

Canada's Development.
Dealing with the change in the status of Canada from a colony to a self-governing nation, Mr. Rowell paid a splendid tribute to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who brought about the change. He taught that there can be no permanent union except upon the basis of equality. All the people in the Empire must be on an equality. "The Conservative press declared that Laurier was separatist, and predicted the downfall of the Empire, but it made the units more closely welded. In the development of the Imperial organization, the Liberals acted and created while the Conservatives were thinking and dreaming."

In Matters of Defence.
It was the Liberals who took the lead in matters of defence. Apart from the assumption of the land defences of the Dominion, which was taken up by the coalition government, every measure adopted has been put through by Liberals. They took over the naval bases at Halifax and Esquimaux. They agreed to build a fleet which would co-operate with the Imperial fleet in time of need. "If the Liberal party," said he, "were in power in Canada to-day they would be building the ships. We are not doing so because the Liberal party, which believes in action, has gone out of power and is succeeded by a party which cannot make up its mind. When it only requires profession our opponents are with us, but when it comes to action they do not measure up."

Under Sir John A. Macdonald, Canada refused to help Great Britain in Egypt. It was reserved for Canada under Laurier to take her place on the plains of South Africa. The constitution of South Africa which followed that was a splendid example of the spread of Liberal principles. Let us be worthy sons of our most illustrious sire so that our children may be proud of us."

The Imperial Conference.
Mr. Rowell also addressed the Montreal Canadian Club on "The Imperial Conference and Committee of Imperial Defence."

In an able address he treated the gradual development of the Imperial idea, and the growing part played by the overseas Dominions in the conference, and urged upon Canadians the necessity of assuming the duties and responsibilities of nationhood.

"We aspire to be a nation," said he, "and we must shirk a nation's responsibilities. We aspire to take our place among the free nations of the Empire, and we must prove ourselves worthy of being prepared to bear the burdens, to make up for the privileges which we have in this country. Upon that point I think we are all agreed."

Mr. Rowell described the formation and growth of the Imperial Conference, emphasizing its representative character and its responsibility, being composed of prime ministers, and its recognition of autonomy, because a ratification is necessary. In closing, Mr. Rowell made an eloquent appeal to Canadians to do their share in "meeting the obligations of Empire, despite differences of race, of religion, of party, and paid a glowing tribute to the Empire whose traditions, history and institutions we have inherited."

TO TRAIN UP
IMMIGRANTSPREPARING CHILDREN FOR LIFE IN COLONIESAustralian Agent-General Has Plan He Thinks Britain Should Adopt

London, Nov. 19.—A scheme has been put forward by the agent-general for Victoria, Australia, Sir John Taverne, for the education of boys and girls to fit them for emigration to the overseas Dominions.

The scheme contemplates the renting of a farm by the Imperial government within fifty miles of London, at which one thousand boys and girls could be taught the entire work of farm life. The cost would be at first charged on the poor rate, and the boys and girls would be procured from those who are now under the local government board administrations from the ages of 3 to 14. With two years of practical training, they would be fit either to stay in England or to emigrate.

Sir John considers that it is not the work of the overseas governments to fit the emigrant out for the new life which he is going to lead. These governments have to see to the shipping and the settling of the emigrant when he is ready to start. Even less is it a work for philanthropic agencies, for it is not a question of charity, but of practical imperialism and as such belongs entirely to the home government, he maintains.

MYSTERIOUS POISONING CASE.

Toronto Lad Dies From Dose Administered in Candy.

Toronto, Ont., Nov. 19.—Twelve-year-old Archie Duncan is dead in his father's home, 57 Melville street, and search is being made for an unknown boy, who gave the little fellow several poisonous pills yesterday, which resulted in his death at 2.30 this morning.

All that is known about the matter is the meagre details which the boy's parents were able to gather from him after he returned to his home complaining of dizziness and thirst. Later he was seized with vomiting spells. For five hours two physicians worked over the boy, but without avail. Detectives have been assigned to the case, and will endeavor to locate the boy who gave the little lad the deadly pills.

GREAT NORTHERN EXTENSION.

Bellingham, Wash., Nov. 19.—Announcement of the Great Northern's intention to build across the Cascades from Pateros, making use of the Methow Valley, means that Bellingham will likely be the terminus of the line. At the present time Mr. Hill is building from Wenatchee north to Pateros, which is at the junction of Methow and Columbia rivers. The Great Northern's announcement, coming at this time, is believed to be an attempt to forestall the Milwaukee making use of the Methow Valley route. The road is now rapidly pushing its construction. On Neppel into Wenatchee, and its intention is believed to be to cross the Cascades and reach Bellingham, where it recently purchased the Bellingham Bay & British Columbia railway, together with terminal facilities. The construction from Pateros to the Great Northern's present terminus of its Rockport line will only involve its building eighty miles of road, while the Milwaukee will be forced to build over two hundred miles to get from Neppel to this city.

BROKEN CABLE TROUBLESOME.

Seattle, Nov. 19.—Difficulty is being experienced by the United States cable ship Burnside in repairing the Seattle-Ketchikan cable, which is broken at a point about ten miles north of Wrangell, in the shallow dry straits, inaccessible to vessels of any great draught. All the work must be done in small boats and the nasty weather prevailing up and down the coast makes it a ticklish proposition. The cable has not been in operation for more than a month and all communications received here from Ketchikan or Wrangell have been by wireless relayed from southbound vessels.

INVESTIGATING STEEL TRUST.

Stormy Session Which Results in Adjournment.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—After a stormy session to-day of the government's dissolution suit against the United States Steel Corporation before Examiner Henry B. Brown, an adjournment was taken on request of the steel company's attorneys, who protested that the circuit judges now sitting at Philadelphia should pass on the admissibility of evidence offered by Dr. Francis Walker, United States deputy commissioner of corporations. The evidence was designed to show "an artificial control of prices" of steel rails. While Examiner Brown ruled that the steel corporation's rights were protected without such a course, it was agreed that to-morrow should be set aside for arguing the question before the judges at Philadelphia.

CANADA OBJECTS.

Construction of Dam Would Lower Level of Lakes.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—Through Hon. C. J. Doherty, minister of justice, the Canadian government filed objections to-day before the International Joint Commission to the proposed construction of an international dam at Kettle Falls, the outlet of Rainy Lake on the Minnesota-Manitoba boundary. The Canadian government protested that the dam would affect the levels of the Lake of the Woods, which are now a matter of arbitration between the two governments.

AMERICAN WEDS COUNTESS.

London, Nov. 20.—Great interest was taken in the marriage to-day of Charles Wilkins Short, Jr., whose family comes from Cincinnati, Ohio, and the Countess Camilla Hoyos, at the Holy Trinity church, Sloane street, as it was one of the very few instances in which an American man has married a titled foreigner. The gathering at the church comprised many people prominent in society, and included the Austro-Hungarian ambassador, Count Albert Manzoroff-Pouilly-Dietrichstein, Countess Hoyos, the mother of the bride, subsequently held a reception at the residence of her brother, Sir James Beetham Whitehead. Mrs. Short resides in Boston.

MANCHUS PLOTTING.

Chicago, Nov. 19.—A special dispatch to the Chicago Daily News from Peking, China, says: "A reactionary plot has been discovered among the troops at Tai Yuan Fu, Shan Si province. Letters found among the soldiers give the clue. Despite a presidential order forbidding the practice, the prisoners were tortured until they confessed. They then were executed. The authorities are stamping out the movement, in which several high Manchus are said to be implicated."

BANKER ON TRIAL.

Mount Vernon, Wash., Nov. 19.—W. E. Schriker, who was president of the W. E. Schriker &amp; Co., Bank of La Conner, which failed last April, was placed on trial in the Superior court here to-day on a charge of receiving deposits when he knew the bank to be insolvent. A special venire of sixty was on hand this morning when the work of empanelling a jury was started. The trial will likely consume two weeks.

HILL ON AGRICULTURE.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 20.—That the first business of real conservation is to lift agriculture to the rank of science well understood and practically applied, was the declaration of James J. Hill at Minnesota's annual conservation and agricultural congress which opened here to-day.

PAUPERISM IN CANADA.

It is not "nice" to advertise the adversity of a sister city. Nor is it charitable or magnanimous to magnify the pitiable conditions existing in another country excepting when the object sought is to elicit such practical expression of sympathy as will result in the amelioration of these conditions. These not insignificant distinctions as evidence of good breeding are, however, lost sight of by demagogic politicians when their childish imaginations conjure up prospects of partisan success. An unpardonable instance of this lack of good breeding was prominent in the campaign speeches of Mr. G. M. Barnard, M. P., when he was opposing reciprocity a year ago. Mr. Barnard on every hustings drew exaggerated caricatures of the stricken lot of the British working classes because of the free trade policy of Great Britain. Mr. Barnard would have his simple audiences believe that if Canada adopted a policy of reciprocal trade with the United States, or abandoned the policy of high protection for the privileged interests, the same conditions as exist in England would soon become prevalent in Canada. There is no doubt that Mr. Barnard's feverish eloquence persuaded more than one uninformed elector that there is no poverty in Canada and that there could be no pauperism in the electorate stand by the Tory policy of high protection. In doing this he was but following the time-honored Tory practice, a practice in vogue in every country where it is to the interests of the demagogue to delude the working classes who hold the balance of power at the polls.

We are surprised, therefore, to find the Toronto News describing the social conditions in the city of Toronto in language which would have done good service to Mr. Barnard had he learned of it in time to adapt the words to the social conditions of Great Britain. The News says:

"Thousands of people are living in Toronto in abject misery. They are herded together in noisome slum dwellings where their health is undermined, their moral stamina weakened and their zest for work destroyed. The most pitiable aspect of the situation is that children are being brought up in these surroundings so that every difficulty is placed in the way of their becoming good citizens. They have but little chance of developing sufficient physical and mental strength to fit them for the struggle of life. Toronto is raising a class of unemployed, while clamoring for immigrants. We do little to save the lives of our native-born children. The rate of infant mortality is abnormal, and when thousands of babies die for want of care, cleanliness and healthful surroundings, other thousands grow to imperfect manhood."

Toronto, be it remembered, is the most Tory city in Canada. It is one of the strongholds of the policy of high protection, reaping, as it does in its immense manufacturing interests, the chief benefits of the protective policy. It has landlordism, combine, trust and merger, with all the other legitimate offspring of the tariff, developed to the highest degree of perfection. If there is any place in Canada where the benefits of a protective tariff should accrue to the working classes and to society as a whole it is the city of Toronto. Yet the chief organ of the "Interests" and the most pathetic pleader for the maintenance of the National Policy of protection confesses that conditions exist in Toronto for which there should be no excuse in any part of the prosperous Dominion of Canada. We do not know but we feel fairly safe in saying that if the conditions described by the News could be traced back to those directly responsible the blame could be fastened upon corporations or other "Interests" which spent fortunes in securing the defeat of reciprocity.

What we have to suggest to Mr. Barnard is that when next it becomes necessary for him to paint a picture of woe and misery as a result of a political policy he select the city of Toronto for his illustrative material.

HOCHELAGA.

"Well done Hochelaga!" ejaculates our esteemed morning contemporary, the chief government organ. And pray, for what? As though a constituency which has been Conservative could be expected to desert its party in the teeth of a ministerial crisis and when there was no authorized opposition in the field! Verily, "Well done Hochelaga!" The proud boast of a political party that has vanquished an opponent who was not even a man of straw. For these things the great Conservative party breathes a sigh of relief.

The fact is, Sir Wilfrid Laurier put one over on his political opponents in a manner that speaks more eloquently of moral victory than would a victory at the polls. If the Conservative machinators could have enticed the Liberals into putting a candidate in the field as a protest against an unknown navy policy or on any other grounds, the clamor about factious opposition would have been deafening. As it was they attempted the suggestion that the Nationalists and Liberals had entered into a confederacy. Very anxious they were to shift the burden of the Nationalist odium to the shoulders of the Liberal party. From the first the sinister suggestion did not go down with the public and when Sir Wilfrid Laurier advised that no Liberal candidate be placed in the field the game was up.

It was then that Henri Bourassa made his great anti-naval speech to the students of McGill University, most of whom have no vote. But why did not Mr. Bourassa put a candidate in the field to oppose the government naval policy? Why did he not run himself? Why did he not go into the constituency and support the self-nominated candidate whose only platform was a protest against an unannounced naval policy? The reason is obvious; Mr. Bourassa is a humbug and his opposition to the Borden government is a sham. Why did not Mr. Monk go into Hochelaga and oppose the government? For similar reasons. The alliance between the Nationalist factionists in Canada and the Borden government is as strong and faithful as it ever was and Hochelaga has demonstrated that fact beyond dubiety. Also, we say "Well done Hochelaga."

ORGANIZED CRIME.

Only occasionally, when organized crime breaks through its self-imposed bounds, do the public obtain a glimpse of what is going on in the underground world. Even then it is probably nothing more than a glimpse. But those who have followed the trial of the conspirators in the Rosenthal murder case in New York city have learned enough of the ways of the submerged tenth of society in great cities to be shocked at the condition of affairs. There must be, also, the element of mystery as to how these conditions can exist when the law provides adequate machinery for the suppression if not the prevention of such crime. The submerged tenth of society which is involved in the revelations of the New York gamblers is not that submerged tenth toward which moral reforms are so often directed. Lincoln Steffens in a recent interview said that police Lieutenant Becker is to be sacrificed for the sins of society, and he went on with this startling statement: "Becker may be electrocuted and sooner or later another Becker will spring up. In other words, we will kill the man and do nothing to correct the conditions that are responsible for him. The conditions that made Becker were exposed in New York 20 years ago. We imprisoned the McNamara and are doing nothing to change the conditions that made the McNamara. The acts of Becker and the McNamara are perfectly natural phenomena."

The statement that the acts of the Beckers and McNamara are perfectly natural phenomena is a strong indictment of society in its present state of organization. It is wholly Socialistic and naturally, therefore, somewhat exaggerated. So broad and sweeping an indictment of society cannot excuse the crimes of the McNamara or the Beckers. The moral responsibility of the individual cannot be successfully evaded nor can any indictment of society even if it is indirectly the result of inability on the part of the individual to withstand the pressure of social conditions. It is not society as a whole that will send Becker to the electric chair—supposing that he will be sent—but that section of society which is sacrificing Becker to protect itself. No greater sum of earth can be found than the gamblers and gun men who turn states evidence to protect their own skins after they have been years steeped in the organized crime which their testimony revealed. It is not the respectable element in society that will sacrifice Becker; it is the criminal element to which he succumbed and by whose machinations he probably was led astray at first.

Let us be just to that section of society which is not submerged. The practice of laying every foul act of man at the door of society is subversive of morality. It makes martyrs of many men who are human beings. It festers and cultures the seeds in the body social—of which we know there are too many not traceable to human weakness or smug hypocrisy—by fostering the belief in weak and childish minds that evil would be banished from human hearts if the upper crust of society were leavened and wholesome. Riot-prowoking as are the wrongs under which the submerged suffer the submerged tenth will never be made better by proclaiming to them the excuse that they are the victims of social wrongs; that they would be moral and good if they only had a chance. The path of wrongdoing and guilt never leads to honor or success. This is as true of high places as it is of low. Right and wrong are inevitably opposed. To stand by the right often leads to crucifixion, but to stand by, defend, champion, practice or excuse the wrong always does. Sane, calm, deliberative people reckon all this out and choose. When they choose wrongly and risk the evil way the consequences cannot be palliated by laying the blame at the door of society. Human nature is never made better when one section of society says to another section "the crime was your fault." Social reformation, requires the combined and organized activities of every section, yet in such a scheme the predatory gambler or his allies has no legitimate place.

Sir Richard McBride has been pointing out that the Pacific coast is locally undefended. The Prince Albert Times points out that so it might be remarked are the public order and the British constitution, and expresses the opinion that it is a pity his anxiety regarding defense will not allow him to trust that matter to Hon. Col. Hughes and Hazen, in order that he might devote himself to his own duties.

Hon. W. J. Bowser is back from Ottawa flushed with victory and exuberant about his various accomplishments. We tender our congratulations. This is the twentieth time Hon. Mr. Bowser has settled the same difficulties and we hope they will stay laid this time. Nothing doing, of course, about the Asiatic exclusion bill nor any troubles about labor problems now that the Borden government is in power. Friends must not embarrass each other. It is much cheaper and easier to humbug the public. It is costing the country a pretty penny too to pay for these delightful holiday jaunts to Ottawa in which the Attorney-General accomplishes so much. Perhaps now that he is home from the strenuous and trying ordeal of bullying the federal ministers into his way of thinking he will have time to give some attention to the administration of his department which rumor has it is sadly out of working order.

WOMEN WHO SMOKE.

Montreal Gazette.
At the same time smoking among women is on the increase, and drinking, too, for that matter. In New York there has been a bar opened especially for women and it is being well patronized, according to the newspapers. Some of the hotels there have women attendants to look after females who get intoxicated and their task is by no means a light one. There is drinking by women in the big restaurants also, and in other cities than New York—in Montreal, for instance. Certainly there is enough to attract attention. As for smoking, that is generally indulged in private by the female smokers of American cities. It may soon be practised in public as it is in Europe.

NO POLITICS IN CIVIC AFFAIRS.

Stratford Beacon.
In Stratford politics has not the place in civic affairs that it has had in Kingston, where one year there was for a time a deadlock in regard to the selection of the council committees on this account, but occasionally the evil manifests itself here, and it ought to be put upon every where. We want the best men, irrespective of politics, in the city council and we also want men who, when appointments are to be made, will not allow politics to influence them in their choice.

AN IRISH RETRACTION.

Christian Guardian.
A noted Irish member of the House of Commons rose to denounce a speech, and his impetuosity led him to speak rather strongly. "Order, order," said the Speaker, in the majesty of full-bottomed wig and silken gown. "It was a critical moment. Nevertheless the indignant yet good-humored honorable member recognized the command of the chair and sat down, delivering this Partisan ditty: "Vary, vary, vary your ruling, and I beg to retract what I was about to say." That one touch of Irish gravity took the House by storm.

WHAT THE BOYS' DEPARTMENT HAS TO OFFER

SHOULD BE ENOUGH TO TEMPT THE MOST CAREFUL PARENT

SPACE is at a premium in this department and our specially low prices are the result of our inconvenience in handling the huge stock now on hand.

Although the price inducement is a strong one, we are confident that the quality of the goods will be the most important matter that most parents will consider, and will prove a greater selling factor than the reduced prices.

To get the very best quality of garment that your money will buy is the only way to economize, the boy's activity will soon prove poorly made clothing to be expensive at any price.

BLUE SERGE-SAILOR SUITS are to be had in sizes for boys from 2 to 6 years old. They are finished with either white or blue braids, also a cord and whistle. Only 50 suits are to be sold and they will soon find their way to new homes. Special clearance price ..... $1.75

BLACK OILSKIN CAPES for boys and youths. These are substantial and well made, are finished with a corduroy collar and fasten with a clasp. A very big value at, each ..... $1.50

BROKEN LINES OF BOYS' SUITS are to be had in the Norfolk, double and single breasted styles. They range from sizes from 4 to 16 years old and come in a variety of shades and patterns. All are made of excellent tweeds and are well tailored. Prices, $2.90 and ..... $3.75

To-Day We Commenced the Most Sensational Sale of Costumes FOR THIS SEASON

Regular Values up to $67.50 are marked down for rapid selling at. . . . . $25.00

Quality and style are the leading features of this line of costumes, and there is such an enormous variety of colors, materials and different styles to choose from that the woman who cannot find a garment to her liking will be a very hard person to please.

Prominent amongst the materials are beautiful velvets, velvet corduroys, fine serges, diagonal serges, chiffon broadcloths, and Bedford cords, etc., in all the latest and most popular colors and patterns.

This line is entirely composed of our best imported models with the exception of the strictly plain tailored costumes. There are attractive Norfolk styles, many charming novelty costumes, some with the new Robespierre collar, and many other lines that show excellent taste in design and great skill in tailoring.

Think of the very best values that you have ever seen at $25.00 and then come with the expectation of getting a value that will give your ideal a long start. You'll not be disappointed.

The goods are their best advertisement, why not see them?

A Good Delaine or Flannelette Waist

IS A SPLENDID INVESTMENT

QUITE a blunt statement, to be sure, but there is absolute truth in it all the same. They are so serviceable, always look fresh and new when they come from the laundry, and are so light and warm that they quickly win for themselves a favorite place in a woman's wardrobe.

A specially fine line of these garments is now to be seen in the waist department, on the first floor and although we have made an attempt to describe the garments in the following items we cannot do justice to the goods and skillful tailoring. You should be a good judge of values, and will appreciate these lines when you see them.

A VERY SPECIAL LINE OF FRENCH DELAINE WAISTS are to be had in the strictly tailored style. They come in a variety of stripes and are finished with soft turn-down collars and soft cuffs. All sizes, at, per garment ..... $1.75

ANOTHER GOOD VALUE is a line of neatly tailored delaine waists that come in various colored stripes. All sizes. At..... $2.50

NEW AND NEAT are two words that go a long way toward describing the virtues of a special line that is marked at $3.50. It is a little unusual in its style. Although it is plain tailored, it is finished with a satin collar and cuffs in either navy blue or sky blue, and is trimmed down the front with a band of material with the stripes running the opposite way to the rest of the garment and a row of fancy buttons.

Skating Boots That Stand a Severe Test and Give Entire Satisfaction

THE reputation of the "Macpherson Lightning Hitch" Skating Boots is well established, and the excellence of their special ankle support is now a well proven fact. Even without being laced up, the "Lightning Hitch" is, in itself, quite sufficient support for even the weakest of ankles. This shoe is well built from the best of stock and are to be had with, or without heels, in models for men and women. As soon as you see this style of boot, you'll be convinced that it is the most practical style that has been placed on the market. If interested in skating you may as well have the best boots your money will buy.

Death by Accident.—That Charles E. Dickinson, who met his death while engaged in working the elevator at the store of Davies & Sons, 569 Yates street, Monday, died as the result of an accident, was determined by a coroner's jury which sat yesterday afternoon at the city hall. The jury consisted of H. Worwick (foreman),
S. Wilkinson, J. C. Deblin, J. Bolger,
F. Colvert and J. M. Findlay.

Fire Brigade Parade.—The parade of the Victoria Fire Brigade will be held at 3 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, at the intersection of Yates and View streets. There will be every class of exhibition given, including aerial ladder work. After the parade the companies will be re-arranged for the execution of drills, sufficient men being returned to the fire halls to deal with an emergency.

Carnegie Library.—Miss Helen Stewart, librarian at the Carnegie library, announced this morning that about three hundred and fifty fictional works had been replaced on the shelves after being tastefully rebound. A great amount of work has been necessary at the library in keeping the shelves replenished, for in the past few months the number of patrons of the library has grown so rapidly that it has been difficult to keep pace with the influx. Every week fresh consignments of books are being received.

Waiver Forms.—The attention of agreement holders should be called to the fact that several are presenting at the city hall waivers in connection with their municipal franchise which are valueless in that they are signed by persons assuming to be registered owners, but of whom the assessor's office has no knowledge. The reason is that these properties have been changed hands in the frequent transfer of realty values here, and the land registry office being behind in work, it is impossible for the city officials to have a record showing the latest changes. Five out of six handed in this morning were in this shape.

Pound Committee.—There will be a meeting of the pound committee of the city council, on Friday afternoon previous to the streets committee, as further consideration has to be given to the two new by-laws going through the council dealing with the pound and dog regulations.

Ontario Street.—The city engineer points out with regard to the condition of Ontario street at the outer wharf, to which the Times made reference, that it is private property, and the city cannot be held responsible till the owners turn it over. This applies to all the land west of the Dallas road, although there are shown on the maps six lots facing on the street near the Chemical Works. The matter is one for the attention of the wharf owners exclusively.

Meeting Cancelled.—St. Columba, Strawberry Vale.—Owing to unavoidable circumstances it has been found necessary to cancel the monthly social gathering on Friday next.

Architect Busy.—Capt. Rouss Cullin, architect, who recently transferred his offices to the Hibben block, Government street, is advertising for tenders for two schools, a four-room building at Cedar Hill, and a two-room building at Keatings. Next week tenders for three more will be called for, and the following week tenders for an eight-room brick building, which is to be erected on Boleskin road will be called for. The tender for a two-story brick laundry on Quadra street has been allotted by this firm, and building will commence on this next week.

Concert at St. John's Schoolroom.—
A large audience was present to enjoy the delightful concert given last evening at St. John's schoolroom by Mrs. Murray and A. L. Hickling, under the auspices of the Women's Auxiliary and the Church of England Men's Society of St. John's church. Mrs.
Murray's various songs and recitations were very much appreciated, and a delightful feature of the programme was the violinello playing of Mr.
Hickling, Miss Shields acting as accompanied in a very capable manner.
A vote of thanks was accorded the performers at the conclusion of the programme, the proceeds from which are to be devoted to providing a new piano for the schoolroom.

BUSY SCENES AT LOCAL SHIPYARDS

MANY VESSELS BERTHED FOR ANNUAL OVERHAULS

B. C. Marine, Victoria Machinery and Turpel's Are Working to Their Limit

Which of Victoria's shipbuilding yards is at present working to its capacity in repairing and overhauling coasting vessels and also in constructing new craft for the local trade. From now on many of the steamers which have been withdrawn from their runs for the winter months will be taken to the shipyards to undergo their annual overhaul. Many of the coasting boats will be converted into oil burners this winter and prospects are that the season will be one of the best the local plants have experienced, for many years.

At the B. C. Marine Railway yards, Esquimalt, much work is now in hand, and the whirr of the compressed air riveters, the clink of the caulking hammers and the bang-bang of the boiler-makers' sledgehammers are almost deafening. The greatest work under way at the Esquimalt yards is the construction of the new C. P. R. steamer Princess Maquinna, which is being built for the west coast service. Officials of the B. C. Marine Railway, seen yesterday, said that the work on the new vessel was progressing satisfactorily and that it would be some time before she is ready to take the water. Her hull has been completed and the upperworks are now being built. The boiler and engine casings are being riveted together and the decks will soon be laid.

It is expected that the Princess Adelaide will be able to leave the yards to-night to return to the Vancouver run. The C. P. R. steamer has been having about 20 feet of her bulwarks on the port quarter and a number of stanchions replaced. The Newington, of the marine department, is also at Esquimalt having her deck planking renewed and a second mast installed. The vessel is to be equipped with wireless telegraphy and needs two masts in order to straining the antennae. Prior to this time the Newington has been equipped with only a receiving apparatus. The Sandhead Lightship is now on the ways having her hull repaired.

At the Machinery Depot, the ten whaling steamers are now undergoing extensive overhauls at the Victoria Machinery Depot. The steamers are also being outfitted for their trip to Honolulu and it is expected that the depot will be finished with her by the middle of next week. The tug Bute is completing repairs to her hull, which was seriously damaged when she was wrecked at Albert Head a few weeks ago.

Turpel's yards are taking care of several scoops and tow-boats and their slip is booked ahead for some time. There is a great demand at present among the towboat owners for berths on the ways. Most of the tugs have been working continuously during the summer and need their hulls cleaned.

HANDSOME FREIGHTER IS
ARABIAN, OF DANISH LINE
The handsome freighter Arabian, of the Danish line, is looking for a berth at Tacoma for given date. The Danish freighter, which is a new ship, is a fine specimen of the class. Her rate is $175 a day. The Arabian has attracted considerable attention because of her neat appearance and the accommodation with which she is fitted. The officers' quarters are equal to those found on passenger liners and throughout the huge freighter boasts every modern device seen on vessels of this class.
The Norwegian steamer Artemis, which has arrived in Australia with lumber from this coast, had just been chartered by Hind, Rolph & Co. for another similar voyage. She will load coal at Newcastle for South America and come up here in ballast.
The Artemis' rate on time charter is $6, 6d; being rather lower than usual on account of having no capacity for deckload. The regular time charter rate for one voyage from this coast to Australia is about $8.

THOUGHT LONSDALE HAD CONTRABAND

SOLDIERS GUARD SHIP AT MEXICAN PORTS

Closely Watched at Acapulco and Salina Cruz—Makes Her Last Trip

Believed to be a vessel carrying contraband, a regiment of soldiers watched the unloading operations of the Canadian-Mexican liner Lonsdale, Capt. Bate, both at Acapulco and Salina Cruz. The authorities at these ports had been tipped off that the Lonsdale was bringing south from Victoria and Vancouver arms and ammunition for the revolutionists in Mexico. When the steamship entered these ports soldiers were at once placed on guard to see that nothing was landed that appeared to resemble firearms or ammunition. The soldiers did their work well but were unable to discover any contraband amongst the cargo.

The officers of the Lonsdale, which came into port at noon today, were greatly amused over the little incidents at the two Mexican ports. If any one went ashore from the ship he was watched. When the Lonsdale was lying in the stream at Acapulco a boat with soldiers in it watched the movements of everyone aboard the steamship. Nothing, however, developed.

Bad Weather Coming North.
During the run north from Salina Cruz the Lonsdale encountered fair weather to Cape Mendocino. After passing that point, however, the steamship fell in with bad weather. The wind was not very strong but there was a fierce sea running. The Lonsdale rolled her rails under and some of her cargo below shifted. Her decks were continually awash but none of the deckload broke from its lashings. The heavy weather delayed the Lonsdale in making port yesterday.

Capt. Bate said this morning that the Lonsdale missed all the terrible weather which was reported here as prevailing in the south. When the storms were blowing the steamship was in port discharging cargo. Much rain was experienced while in southern waters.

Lonsdale's Last Trip.
The Lonsdale has completed her last trip in the Mexican service and after discharging her cargo will tie up at Vancouver. The steamship brought north the largest cargo she ever had from Salina Cruz. She had about 4,000 tons of freight aboard, her holds being full of much steel and iron being stowed on deck. She will put off 600 tons of cargo here before proceeding to Vancouver and it will more than likely be late to-morrow night before she sails. The Lonsdale has 30,000 cases of canned goods from Montreal, which were shipped via the Tehuantepec railway.

SUGAR BOAT PASSES UP AFTER ROUGH RUN
Auchendale Out 29 Days From Moji—Shipping Men Fear for the Lord Curzon

After a fierce trip across the Pacific the British steamship Auchendale, loaded with sugar from Java, passed up this morning bound for Vancouver. Some anxiety was felt amongst shipping men for the safety of the craft as she was out 29 days to-day from Moji, where she sailed. The steamship encountered fierce weather all the way across, and her speed was reduced many times in order that she might ride out the storms without any damage being done.

Anxiety For Lord Curzon.
Anxiety is felt in shipping circles for the safety of the British steamship Lord Curzon, Captain A. E. Henryson, under charter to Waterhouse & Co., which sailed from Seattle for the Orient October 5 with a cargo of 5,000 tons of wheat from Seattle and Tacoma.

Although the Lord Curzon has been out 46 days, and should have arrived at Moji 16 days ago, not a word has been received from her, and it is believed she has either been blown far off her course by the recent gales which have swept the North Pacific, or has suffered a serious accident to her machinery.

The steamer Lord Derby, under charter to the same company, sailed for the Orient 11 days after the Lord Curzon left port, and arrived at Moji six days ago without having sighted the Lord Curzon.

The Norwegian steamer Christian Bors, Captain Hille, arrived in the Fraser river yesterday morning to load a part cargo of lumber at the Fraser river mills. She will complete the cargo at Chemung and the shipment is for Sydney.

Bound for Holberg and other West Coast points the C. P. R. steamer Tees, Capt. Gillam, will get away late to-night with a full list of passengers and much freight.

ONE OF DESERTERS WAS A POLICEMAN

ANOTHER WAS MEMBER OF FIRE DEPARTMENT

Former Sailors on Shearwater Had Lucrative Positions—Police Scored

It may seem strange, but it is nevertheless a fact, that one of the three deserters from H. M. S. Shearwater, whose capture was reported in last night's paper, was a member of the Victoria police force. Wm. T. Elder, at the time of his arrest, was wearing not the blue uniform of his country, but the blue clothes of a guardian of the peace. Reginald Coleman was also found wearing a blue uniform and was also in the employ of the city of Victoria, being one of the fire-fighters. The third deserter, Albert Courcha, was working at the B. C. Marine Railway.

The three deserters were all arrested by the naval police on Monday night last. There has been considerable comment in naval circles on the apathy displayed by the local police authorities in this connection. Warrants for the deserters were issued as long ago as June 22 and were never executed by the Victoria force. It is rather a strange fact that one of the deserters should be able to recommend himself so strongly to the local authorities that he was given a position as a policeman. This is one of the most interesting cases of desertions that has ever been brought to the notice of the naval police.

Coleman, who was employed as a fireman, has been wearing the blue uniform for some time and no one ever thought he was one of the men sought by the naval authorities. Both the blue uniforms worn by Elder and Coleman will have to be fitted to new men, as the deserters are to be sent back to England for trial.

DREAD DISEASE AMONG THE PICTURE BRIDES

Duodenum Worm Stops Immigration of Japanese Girls to America

Considerable discussion has arisen in Japan over the strengthening of the immigration restrictions imposed by United States officials against Japanese suffering with the duodenum worm, or the terrible disease of ankylostomiasis. This disease is caused by the presence of the parasites of the Ancylostoma duodenale in the small intestine, and causes anaemia in the patient. Several cases have occurred recently in the parties of Japanese coming to Victoria en route to Seattle and Tacoma by the Nippon and Osaka boats respectively, and there were an exceptional number held by the immigration authorities in Tacoma off the Mexican Maru last July.

Now the imposition of a penalty for bringing immigrants to the American ports has been the cause of making the shipping companies more careful at Oriental ports, and the latest departure of the Chiyu Maru of the Toyo Kisen Kaisha line from Kobe was the occasion of one dozen being turned back at the port of embarkation, out of 173 examined.

Most of these cases are supposed to be caused from work in the rice fields barefooted, and the infection being taken through abrasions in the skin. Many of the girls who come to American shores are what are known as picture brides, and they belong largely to this class. The physical appearance of the girls indicated to the medical officers the symptoms, and in consequence numbers have been detained. They are generally allowed a couple of weeks at the detention sheds to see if they get better before being deported. The disease is very prevalent in Korea, Japan, and Manchuria, and its eradication is far from easy. The prevalence of hookworm among miners has also been a subject of careful attention by royal commission, the consumption of food and grimy surroundings being the direct cause of inoculation in their cases.

Connaught Park, Alberni

The Alberni Advocate Says:

Among the recent additions to the suburban subdivisions in the vicinity of Alberni is to be noted that of Connaught Park. This property is located on the upper end of the Creamery Road, and has a very commanding situation on the crest of the first hill that fringes the edge of the great Alberni valley. Now that the intervening timber is being taken down there is a grand view of the city, and the head of the canal from this property and this will improve as the clearing of the valley in front progresses.

It is to be noted with satisfaction that the Connaught subdivision is being sold in half-acre blocks, and that these are well within the reach financially of the man who is looking for a little home within easy distance of Alberni, and who at the same time desires more land than the absurd 33 feet lots that are on the market, often miles away from the city. The park is very little further from the B. & N. depot than the business centre of the city, and as the Canadian Northern will also run along the base of the same land Connaught Park will have excellent railway facilities in addition to the first-class wagon road that connects it with Alberni.

That the property is being handled by the well known firm of R. V. Winch & Co., of Victoria and Vancouver, is a sufficient guarantee of a square deal to those who do business in the new subdivision. This firm sent in an expert to carefully examine the property before they would undertake the sale of the land, and it was only after this expert had become convinced that the park possessed the elements of a high-class residential subdivision that the firm took the matter in hand.

TO SURVEY DAMAGE TO THE STRATHDENE

Freighter Creeped Back Into Port After Bad Battering Off This Coast

Before anything is done in regard to repairing the steamship Strathdene, Capt. Durdin, which limped into port yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock, having been forced to return to this coast owing to the damage affected by heavy weather, a survey of the vessel will have to be held. It is expected that Capt. Mitchell, of Vancouver, who is one of Lloyd's surveyors, will conduct the survey.

This morning a number of shipping men interested in the Strathdene went off to the vessel, which is riding out anchor in the Royal Roads, to look her over. Capt. Gibb, representing the San Francisco Insurance Company, with which concern the lumber cargo is insured, and Norman Waterhouse, representing Hind, Rolph & Co., the charterers of the Strathdene were among those who went out on the launch.

The Strathdene, loaded with 2,545,000 feet of lumber loaded at Portland, ran into a fierce storm when 400 miles off Cape Flattery, and she was so severely damaged that Capt. Durdin decided to run back to Victoria for repairs. Part of the steamship's deckload was carried overboard, and when the Strathdene arrived here the remainder of the deckload was badly disarranged, much of it protruding over the side of the ship. A section of the bridge, on the starboard side, one of the fireboats and the chief engineer's cabin were smashed by a great sea which broke over the vessel. The engineer, who was asleep at the time, was thrown out of bed, and the great iron plating was bent and twisted badly. The foremast was buckled and much of her bulwarks severely battered. The storm once threw the Strathdene over on her beam ends, and the crew wondered whether she would right herself again. Slowly she came back to an even keel. When the storm subsided Capt. Durdin saw that it was useless to proceed with his vessel in such a condition as additional heavy weather might be encountered.

CREW OF WATERLOGGED CRAFT FORCED MASTER TO TAKE TOW

Seattle, Nov. 20.—Waterlogged and storm-swept off Gray's Harbor, the steam schooner Oceania Vance was taken in tow by the steamship Riverside after the crew had forced Capt. Charles Olson to accept aid. The battered vessel arrived at Port Townsend Sunday afternoon, badly crippled, with her main and mizzen masts gone by the board, her rigging destroyed, seams parted, hull strained, leaking badly, and without her deckload, which now

HEALTH TOUR ENDS IN DEATH

NOTABLE AUSTRALIAN IN CITY RECENTLY

Mr. Justice O'Connor Was Great Constitutional Jurist

The news of the death is conveyed by cable of Mr. Justice O'Connor, of the federal High Court of Australia, who was here recently after a trip to England.

Hon. Richard Edward O'Connor, who had held high offices of state in the Commonwealth, and was at one time vice-president of the senate and leader of the government in the Upper House, was one of the leading jurists in the Antipodes, and had a prominent share in drafting the constitution of the Commonwealth, the technicalities of which he had later to interpret as a high court judge, as the bulk of the cases before the court are disputes between the Commonwealth and state administrations. He was also charged with industrial disputes, as the first president of the Commonwealth Conciliation Arbitration Court.

He arrived here on July 7 with his son, sailing on the steamer Zealandia that week, and had at that time, he told the Times, been on a health tour round the world.

Mutual Trade.

Always a believer in greater trade development between the two countries, the most important of the British chain of dominions, the judge expressed the opinion on the occasion of his visit that there was a large field for the exchange of products between the two peoples. A faster passenger service, and the exchange of products, such as the soft lumber of this province with the hard woods of Australia, and similar openings for commerce would all tend to the development of the business, and create better feeling between the two peoples under a common flag.

Australians hoped, he said, the establishment of these conditions would be promoted by the visit of Hon. G. E. Foster, Minister of Commerce, to the Commonwealth with a mission to devise a scheme for reciprocal trade between the two dominions. With the centre of trade in the twentieth century moving from the Atlantic to the Pacific, the British influence in the Pacific must be safeguarded and protected by every means in their power. The awakening of China must result in a great change in the situation in the Orient, and united as all Australians were in favor of a "White Australia," the situation was of the gravest importance to the Commonwealth. At the present time the federal government, since the transfer of the northern territory to them, were seriously taking into consideration means of developing it, recognizing the temptation to a vast Oriental population of waste spaces like tropical Australia. White people could live there, he was satisfied, but what form of industry they could best be engaged in had not been settled.

American Cases.

His lordship did not discuss political issues, saying it would be improper for a judge to do so, but speaking of his own particular court, in its relations with the courts of the Commonwealth, he remarked that owing to the Commonwealth Act having been founded to a large extent on the United States model the decisions of the great American judges, Chief Justice John Marshall, and Melville Fuller, were frequently quoted in his court in deciding issues rather than other federal examples of the world. They had the Swiss and Canadian models as well to guide them, but probably only the American example could have passed the test of the States to yield their power to a central authority.

He was a member of the legislative council of New South Wales from 1887 to 1890, and was minister of justice from 1891 to 1893. At the first election for the senate after confederation he was chosen for his native state, and was vice-president of the executive council and leader of the senate in the ministry of Sir Edmund Barton.

Why French Women Always Look Young

("Aurilla" in Society World.)

In France mothers and daughters look like sisters. I tried to find out how the women were able to retain their youthful looks until long past middle age. I learned that they were much given to the use of mercurized wax. This wax possesses a remarkable absorbent property which quickly removes the fine particles of cuticle which are constantly dying and which are the immediate cause of an old-looking complexion. Thus the livelier, healthier, younger skin beneath is given a chance to breathe and show itself. In less than two weeks my complexion has become as clear, soft and beautiful as a young girl's. Just one ounce of mercurized wax (all American druggists have it) did the work. The wax is put on nights like cold cream and washed off mornings.

Another valuable secret I learned from the French was how to quickly remove wrinkles. One ounce of powdered salicylic acid dissolved in a half pint of water, makes a remarkably effective, astringent lotion. The face should be bathed in this daily until the deepest lines have entirely disappeared.

EVER MEET ONE?

"That get-rich-quick man is as busy as a bee."
"Yes," replied Mr. Cumrox. He's one of those busy bees who can't manage to gather honey without incidentally stinging somebody."—Washington Star.

A GREAT CHANCE FOR THE FEDERAL PREMIER

Can Now Appoint Commissions to End of the Chapter
—Lots of Jobs in Sight

The visit of Sir Richard McBride, Attorney-General Bowser and party, to Ottawa, must have been regarded by Rt. Hon. R. L. Borden as a blessing direct from Providence, because it provided him with the opportunity of appointing two royal commissions, one to inquire into better terms and the other to investigate the question of Indian reserves in the province. More commissions will come as soon as he and Sir Richard have time to work them out.

Mr. Borden has been governing Canada by commission ever since he was entrusted with power. He has simply flooded the country with commissions. He finds them excellent openings for stopping the importunities of the long line of "eligibles" who haunt his waking moments and do not even respect his slumbers.

The two British Columbia commissions will help him out somewhat, the one on Better Terms particularly, as the other provinces are bound to demand a commission and soon there will be nine commissions of three members each working right merrily and incidentally consuming big bunches of the taxpayers' money.

FIRST MEETING OF THE WINTER SESSION

Overseas Club Held Well-Attended Session Yesterday Evening

The first meeting of the winter session of the Overseas Club was held last evening in the K. of P. hall, William Blakemore, the president occupying the chair.

A number of interesting matters came up for discussion, and it was decided that all members be asked to contribute $5 a year towards the renting of permanent club room for the Overseas organization. The president made the announcement that he had received letters from different branches throughout the province regarding the matter of forming a provincial council, and as it had been found impossible to hold a joint meeting this body will be nominated by mail, and will consist of a president, two vice-presidents, five members and a secretary-treasurer.

A resolution was passed commending the action of Manager Denham, of the Victoria theatre, in bringing all-British films to Victoria, and in this connection the chairman pointed out that it was in reality the Overseas Club who had started the agitation for British made films from the first, and which had been instrumental in eliminating the exhibition of many American films from the theatres of the Dominion.

The offer of Mr. Geitton to give magic lantern lectures was accepted with thanks. The secretary, D. B. MacLaren, was asked to write a letter of condolence to Mrs. Mohun on the recent death of her husband, who was an active member of the club. The proceedings closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

UNITY IS STRENGTH.

Presbyterian and Methodist Denominations Unite to Select Sites and Organize Missions.

Last evening was held in the Metropolitan church a meeting of the Church Extension committees of the Presbyterian and Methodist denominations to discuss the principles of extending Christian work in this city, selecting church sites and organizing missions, etc., in such a way that the work of all should be for the common benefit.

After some discussion a special committee of three members of each denomination was appointed to survey the city and report to the general committee the sites on which in their opinion missions might be established with advantage.

It is estimated that there will be economy in both time and money if this project is well carried out. It is expected also to encourage the growth of harmony and good will among the Christian workers in the city and be a step nearer towards that great ideal of Universal Brotherhood which all are seeking.

PARADE OF MOTOR APPARATUS.

Will Be Arranged for Saturday—Test of Chassis Made Yesterday.

A parade of the motor and other fire apparatus will be held on Saturday, to which the members of the city council and the citizens will be invited. This is to be the first general turnout of the brigade since Chief Davis came here, and will be a demonstration of the advantage of motor over horse drawn vehicles. At the same time the annual test of the salt water pressure will be made.

A test was made of the chassis, which recently arrived, at the trial run out yesterday. The engine was attached to one chassis, and the apparatus was pulled up the steep grades at Moss street, and Fernwood hill, near the fire hall. On Hillside avenue, on the permanent paving recently laid, the apparatus made about 50 miles an hour. Several members of the fire wardens committee accompanied the party.

THEY ASKED BUT DID NOT RECEIVE

NO FREE POWDER FOR THE AGRICULTURISTS

Hon. Price Ellison Deals Smashing Blow to the Farmer's Hopes

The announcement in the government press some time ago that it was decided to furnish free stumping powder to the farmers of the province, was hailed with unfeigned delight by the agricultural interest, who felt that with this concession half their troubles were at an end. They invoked blessings on the head of Hon. Price Ellison, minister of agriculture, who, practical farmer that he is, they were sure was behind this beneficent decision.

They attributed the reform to the fact that being also minister of finance and in touch with the expanding revenues of the country and that fat sum of seven million dollars in the bank Mr. Ellison saw that it could readily be carried out without causing the slightest ripple of financial embarrassment to the government. Mr. Ellison's stock rose one hundred per cent, and the mental picture of him in the cabinet council fighting determinedly for the interests of the agricultural industry against unsympathetic colleagues was one the farmers delighted to contemplate. So they flooded the department with applications for the free powder, some of the letters containing touching references to the public spirit and statesmanship underlying the reform and commenting joyously on the imminent dawn of a new era for the agriculture of the province.

But alas for the vanity of human hopes! Also, for the dawn of a new era and their confidence in the minister of agriculture! The government press was wrong in its announcement. No free powder was decided upon after all, and the picture of the heroic fight of Mr. Ellison in council for the overburdened farmers must be turned to the wall. The minister now denies it was ever intended to distribute free powder to the settlers. Here is what he says:

"My attention has been directed to a statement attributed to Mr. Fred Goldsmith, of Stillwater, who is reported to have said that he received a letter from this department, with my official signature, telling him that if he wished to obtain powder at $5.00 a box it would be necessary for him to join the Conservative Association. Such a statement, I need hardly say, has no foundation in fact, and I do not believe that Mr. Goldsmith ever said anything of the kind."

"The writer of that yarn simply got things badly mixed. The benefit of the lower price is confined to members of farmers' institutes, for the reason that the government must have proper and adequate security, but there is no question of politics entering into it at all. No member of a farmers' institute is ever asked whether he is a Conservative or otherwise inclined politically."

"The letter from Mr. Goldsmith asking about free stumping powder was received here during my absence, and the secretary of the department replied to him briefly in these words: 'In the absence of the hon. the minister of agriculture, I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 21st instant and to enclose, in reply thereto, a circular issued by the department in contradiction of the erroneous newspaper announcement respecting the supply of free stumping powder.'"

"The circular referred to and enclosed consisted simply of a statement over the signature of the deputy minister to the effect that stumping powder could not be had gratuitously, but might be obtained at a rate of $5.00 per box."

The farmers are now beginning to suspect that the minister of agriculture is no longer the sturdy champion of their industry he said he was in the last election campaign. As minister of finance he knows to a cent how much they contribute to the provincial exchequer in taxes; that there is a big surplus in the bank; that this province has the largest revenue in all Canada and yet he has neither the influence nor the inclination to inaugurate a much-needed departure in policy.

KEEN COMPETITION FOR LEAD IN OLD COUNTRY LEAGUES

Aston Villa and Crystal Palace Head the First and Southern Divisions—Lincoln City and Notts Fighting Hard in the Second League—Saturday's Games Reviewed

Aston Villa still keep forging ahead in division 1 of the English league and on Saturday gained another victory at the expense of Manchester United. Blackburn Rovers were unable to play owing to weather, thus affording Manchester City and Sheffield Wednesday an opportunity of drawing level by defeating Sunderland and Chelsea, respectively, whilst Bolton also got on the same mark by getting the odd goal over Middlesbrough.

The big surprise of the day was the defeat of the great Newcastle before their own crowd by Derby County, by the score of 4 to 2, and the latter team are well placed as the leaders. The extreme keenness of the competition may well be observed from the fact that there are four teams tied with 17 points and two more teams on each of the 16 and 15 point marks.

Tied in Second.
In division 2 there is a change in the leadership, Lincoln City and Notts Forest, being tied with 17 points each, with goal average a little in favor of the former. Birmingham, as a result of their defeat by Notts, drop to third place, but they have a game in hand and can go top again if they win it.

Wolverhampton and Clapton both kept pace with the leaders by registering wins, as also did Hull City and Preston, the latter team showing considerably improved form by putting four goals into Barnsley, the cup-holders.

Crystal Palace Lead.
In the Southern league there was also a change in the leadership. Crystal Palace, by scoring 8 goals to nil against the unfortunate Southampton, can claim a better goal average than Swindon, who have the same points, and Londoners no doubt hope they will keep on the top. Plymouth move into third place by defeating Stoke 2 to 0, while the Rangers go forth as they were beaten by their local rivals, West Ham. Millwall were again beaten and they appear to have struck a bad patch lately, but it is like old times again to see Portsmouth in the upper half of the table and they helped themselves to two more points at the expense of the "Lions."

The surprise of the day was undoubtedly the Bristol Rovers' draw at Swindon.

EMPIRE ATHLETIC SQUAD TO REPRESENT ENGLAND AT BERLIN

On the eve of the recent Olympic games, it was predicted that one of the features of the Stockholm festival would be the improvement and advance shown by European athletes. That a European nation would actually score more points in all events than either the United States or the British Empire was never anticipated, and the result shows how the revival of the festival has "boomed" sports and pastimes. This is going on and it may be taken for granted that athletes will be greatly developed in Germany during the next few years, in consequence of the 1916 Berlin games, always providing Germany has not challenged the British Empire to another sort of contest before then.

Indian Athletics.
The fact that Indians and negroes have represented the United States in the Olympic games has led many Britishers to ask why the British Empire does not take steps to seek out talent among the natives of India and South Africa. It is a very big problem, indeed, and needs some thinking over. Considering that there was great opposition to the proposed boxing match between Bomb. Billy Wells and the colored champion, Jack Johnson, it would hardly seem logical to enrol colored athletes to assist the British Empire, though strictly speaking, they would be eligible. This color question may yet crop up in connection with the Olympic games and there is a strong feeling in many quarters that the festival should be restricted to white races.

These thoughts are called to mind by the movement to organize an Indian team for the 1916 games. The project was mooted in London of doing something to further the idea.

BROWN IS BUSY.

During the National Association convention at Milwaukee, Bob Brown grabbed a couple of batteries and last night he wired from Chicago that he had purchased the release of Third Baseman Gooseette from the Columbia American Association club. Gooseette was the leading third sacker of the Ohio State League last season and was drafted by Columbus.

DRISCOLL WILL MEET OWEN MORAN SHORTLY

National Sporting Club Has Offered a Purse of $5,000 to Crack Featherweights

London, Nov. 20.—A match has been clinched in England between Owen Moran and Jim Driscoll, the English boxers. They will come together in a 20-round bout at the National Sporting Club of London within four weeks for a purse of $5,000 and the featherweight title. Moran is also signed up for a battle with Hughie McEneaney at the same club two weeks after he boxes Driscoll.

Kilbane to Meet Morgan.
Johnny Kilbane, the Cleveland featherweight champion, and Eddie Morgan of England, will meet soon in a 20-round bout for the championship. Terms and the date have not been decided upon, but it is said the match will take place on the Pacific Coast within a couple of months. Morgan has been in this country but ten weeks and has won from several boxers who have given Kilbane hard fights.

Deserved a Fire-Iky.—Rosenblatt had a terrible fire last week. "Moses" Yell, he's a nice fellow—he deserves it. Printer's Pie.

JOE MANDOT HAS HAD STEADY CLIMB

Ad. Wolgast's Near-Conqueror Started at Bottom and Fought Steadily to the Top

New York, Nov. 19.—Joe Mandot, who apparently had something on Ad. Wolgast, the lightweight champion, in their bout at New Orleans, is of French descent, and was born in New Orleans in 1891. He began boxing as a professional four years ago, but it was not until 1910 that he began to take the measure of prominent opponents. He defeated Tommy Dixon in eight rounds at Memphis, where he also boxed a draw with Charley White. He stopped Johnny Regan in three rounds at New Orleans, after which he lost a verdict on points to Frankie Conley in ten rounds.

Mandot in the fall of that year invaded New York City, and rimmed Mickey Sheridan and Patsy Hughes, the latter in a round. Then he scored another victory over Tommy Dixon in ten rounds at the Crescent City.

Last year Mandot took part in fourteen bouts, all but one decided in Memphis. He was outpointed by Yankee Schwartz, but subsequently boxed a draw with him. Mandot defeated Charley White again; also Jack White, Schwartz, Joe Coster, Boye Driscoll, Benny Kaufman and Tommy Kilbane on points. He knocked out Joe Theil and Young Saylor, and got a draw with Matty Baldwin, the Boston lightweight.

It was not until he whipped Joe Rivers in Los Angeles, last summer, in twenty rounds, that Mandot became a real contender for the lightweight championship. He earned a clean-cut decision over Rivers, who, it will be recalled, gave Wolgast a terrific argument in California on July 4.

SKATING MARVEL.

Mrs. Isabel Butler, Champion Lady Skater of the World, who will assist Norval Baptie, the Speed Champion of the Universe, in their fancy, trick and speed skating, which will be given every night next week at the Arena.

CONLEY OUTCLASSED.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 20.—Johnny Dundee, the New York featherweight, completely outclassed Frankie Conley, of Kenosha, Wis., to-night at the Vernon arena. After using the Wisconsin lad as a human punching bag for 18 rounds Dundee sent in a blow to the jaw at the beginning of the nineteenth that put Conley virtually out. Referee Eaton stopped the bout and gave Dundee the decision.

THOMAS LOST OUT.

Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 20.—Jimmy Duffy, of Buffalo, received the decision on points over Harry Thomas, English lightweight, at the close of their 12-round fight here last night.

DEMAREST A WINNER.

New York, Nov. 20.—Only one billiard game was played yesterday afternoon, that being between Demarest and Sutton, which the former won by a score of 500 to 160. Sutton still is off his game. Demarest played pretty billiards and ran out in the 21st inning with 120. Score: Demarest, 500; high runs, 120, 61, 54. Sutton, high runs, 49, 47, 11.

FAVORED THE PRESS

At a recent meeting of the minor league magnates some of the delegates averred the "secret stuff" as to salary limit, so it was put to a vote. In the showdown the men who favored giving the news to the press won by a mile. Possibly some day club owners will understand that baseball depends on the newspapers and that it is to their interest to make as much public as they possibly can.

REMARKED ON THE SIDE

Bayley and Hyland to Fight Once More.

It will be a pleasant surprise to Victoria fight fans to learn that Joe Bayley and Fighting Dick Hyland have at last agreed upon terms for a bout with the Canadian title at stake. After all the hot air that Burns has "shot" in an effort to belittle the Canadian title-holder before the Middle West fight fans, the one-time heavyweight pug will now have to square himself with the Calgary sporting public. Bayley and Hyland look to be the two best matched men in the Dominion to-day, and it would be a pity if the twain could not be brought together in a second bout. When Condon refused to fight because of the poor terms Burns offered him, the Victoria manager was quite within his rights. Burns growled a lot, but now that other promoters have been found who are ready and willing to stage the bout, Noah Brusso will have to step out of the calcium, as the premier boxing promoter in Western Canada. Now that Mr. Burns is out of this bout, the promoters should take steps to see that he is kept on the outside. Pay him a rental for his arena and keep him in his place. Condon has accepted terms offered by A. H. E. Beckett, sporting editor of the Calgary News-Telegram, and the bout is assured. Everything appears rosy unless Burns steps into the proceedings and spills the beans by an apparent oratorical outburst, as ill-timed as his statement that the Bayley-Alton bout was fixed.

Slipped One Over on the N. H. A.

Already the effects of the hockey war is being felt by the Eastern clubs. Fred Taylor is now reclining in a Pullman, speeding westward, while Pitre and Laviolette are booked to follow before the end of the week. Other Eastern stars, whom the Coast clubs have under cover, are carrying around fat contracts, and within forty-eight hours the Coast fans should be able to secure a pretty fair line on the talent that will wear the jerseys of the P. C. H. A. teams this winter. The decision of the league to fight the Eastern clubs means the expenditure of a lot of money; at the same time, however, it will prove to the hockey enthusiasts hereabouts that the Patrick boys and their associates are in earnest in their desire to provide the fastest hockey obtainable on the Coast. Not only are they retaining the high standard which they set for the Coast fans last winter, but they are strengthening the weaker clubs. New Westminster will be bolstered up on the defence by the addition of Pitre and Laviolette, a better pair assuredly than Johnson and McLean. Victoria will be able to gloat over the addition of Dubbie Kerr and Marty Walsh to their forward line, while Fred Taylor and one other forward will wear Vancouver sweaters. The N. H. A. will worry along with joke clubs in Toronto, with Ottawa and Wanderers, also Quebec standing head and shoulders over the remainder of the clubs.

Definite Amateur Rule is Needed.

It seems rather funny that the British Columbia Rugby Union should refuse to allow such a Rugby star as Dal Thomas to take part in the games for the McKee Cup, when it will allow the same player to participate in the matches against the Australian Waratahs. Surely the latter team are just as particular whom they play against as the Vancouver Rugby players, and are every bit as strict on the question of amateurs as the Terminal City fifteen. The whole affair looks to be a matter for the B. C. A. U. to take up and give a clear and definite ruling as to who can and who cannot take part in amateur Rugby features throughout the province. A sensation is promised at the next meeting of the local A. U. committee, when certain matters will be brought before the committee that are in direct contravention of the laws of the Amateur Athletic Union.

Need of an Amateur Lacrosse Commission.

Every time one hears of a commission, the dismal failures that greeted the efforts of the pro. hockey and lacrosse magnates to form controlling bodies in those branches of sport are brought to mind. It is hoped that the amateur clubs are more serious than were the professional teams. The latter were too much concerned with the benefits they would derive to pay any attention to the work necessary before such a commission would be a success, and that these bodies failed to materialize might be expected when monied interests began to jockey for supremacy. There is considerable work for the proposed commission to control amateur lacrosse. The immense amount of harm the entry of professional clubs worked and the failure of the amateur teams to maintain their enthusiasm in Canada's national game has resulted in lacrosse dropping to a low ebb. A commission must begin its work among the younger teams, re-organize the school clubs that are the nursery for lacrosse and promote leagues that will give the youngsters something to think about. Lacrosse is not dead, just a little dormant because of the refusal of the senior clubs to stimulate interest amongst the juniors. This is the first work of a commission, if such is ever realized.

TIRELESS TINKER TRIUMPHANT IN TRADE.

JOSEPH TINKER

After much manoeuvring and exchanges of compliments Garry Herrmann of the Cincinnati Reds and Charles Murphy, of the Chicago Cubs, reach an agreement on terms of a trade by which Joe Tinker shall go to Cincinnati as manager succeeding Hank O'Day. Tinker's own tireless efforts make the transfer possible. Murphy gave Tinker permission to negotiate for the place with the Reds, but it proved only an empty bluff, for when Tinker had landed the job, Murphy raised such impossible conditions for the transfer that it appeared to be blocked. Tinker kept at it, however, and Herrmann also worked a few moves, one of them being the claiming of Frank Chance when Chicago asked waivers on him. The Tinker case has threatened to raise an issue in organized base ball as to the rights of a player to demand under the National Agreement a mutually satisfactory deal when he has opportunity for advancement, and out of it may come a decision that will be a precedent in other cases similar.

of the Vernon club, has the highest average. He participated in twelve games and closed the season with a perfect average. Among the regular second basemen Roy Brashear of Vernon stands first with 93. Metzger of Los Angeles has the highest percentage of the regular third basemen. He closed the season with an average of 95, with Sheehan of Sacramento trailing with 91. Of the shortstops, Berger of Los Angeles leads, closing the season with a percentage of 93. Corhan of San Francisco is second with 93 and O'Rourke of Sacramento third with 90. Of the regular outfielders, Chadbourne of Portland is first with 94 and Coy of Oakland second with 92. ### BURNS' BELT MUST BE AWARDED TO WINNER OF BAYLEY'S FIGHT

Morris Condon's Terms Accepted by Calgary Promoter—Burns is Not Handling the Bout—Bayley is Confident That He Can Defeat 'Frisco Title Seeker

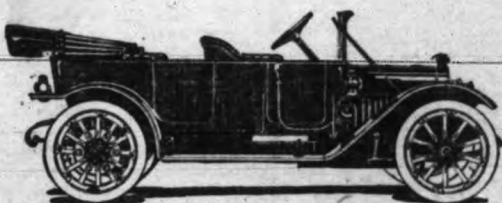

"Of course we will make it a provision that the Burns 'Championship' belt be awarded to the winner of the fight, and if the Calgary sports are anxious to wager their money on Hyland, there will be any amount of cash available that Bayley will defend his title against the Battling Richard." Speaking to the Times this morning, Morris Condon, manager for the Canadian Champion, stated that arrangements had practically been completed for the return bout between Hyland and Bayley. An interchange of telegrams yesterday resulted in the acceptance of Condon's terms of a $2,000 guarantee and three round trip tickets. Bayley agreed to fight on December 20, and the bout will be staged in Calgary, at Tommy Burns' Arena, under the management of A. H. E. Beckett.

Sporting Editor of the Calgary News-Telegram.

Bayley is Confident.

Bayley was tickled that he is to get another chance at Hyland, and declares that he will put over the slumber punch in his next engagement with the 'Frisco veteran. The men will fight clean-break, and it is at this style of boxing that Bayley expects to outpoint his man, and win on points, if Hyland stalls off that terrible right of the champion. Manager Condon, together with Bayley's trainer, Cyclone Scott, will leave about the second week in December for the prairie metropolis, and expect to return before Xmas, laden with the Burns' belt and a couple of thousand iron men that the bout will bring the champion.

COAST HOCKEY CLUBS ALMOST COMPLETED FOR SEASON'S START

Taylor Will Give Vancouver a Grand Septette—Royals Need a Defence Man—Victoria Team Looks to Be the Pick—Latest Hockey Dope

As the hockey season approaches, the interest in the coming series for the championship of the Coast League and possession of the Patterson Cup increases. The "war" that has been declared between the National Hockey Association and the Pacific Coast Hockey Association, has only added to the excitement, and the one best bet is that the coming season will set a new mark for attendance figures. Lester Patrick is awaiting word from Ottawa as to several players whom he has been in communication with and two or three other stars may be expected to pack up and hike for these regions ere long.

After Quebec Players.

The acquisition of Taylor rounds out the Vancouver team in the league, and now only the Westminster team remains to be completed. Indications are that the vacancies on the Royal City lineup will be filled in a day or so. Frank Patrick is after several of the Quebec champions and falling them will have Jack Laviolette and Didier Pitre to fall back upon.

Lineups of the Teams.

The coast hockey fans will be able to figure out the chances of the various teams by looking over the lineups. Right now Victoria appears to have the strongest combination, but the Vancouver team is a very powerful aggregation. Here is the roster of the various clubs:

Vancouver.
Goal—Allan Parr.
Point—Frank Patrick.
Coverpoint—St. Griffin.
Rover—Fred Taylor.
Centre—Carl Kendall.

Spares—McAuliffe.

New Westminster.
Goal—Hugh Lehman.
Point—Jack Laviolette.
Coverpoint—To be filled.
Rover—Didier Pitre.
Centre—Ken Mallen.
Right wing—Jimmy Gardner.
Spares—George Treherne.

The end of next week will see all the players who are to perform in the Coast League this season on the job for the preliminary training.

WORLD'S CHAMPION SPEED SKATER WILL PERFORM HERE

Norval Baptie and Mrs. Butler to Be Seen in Action at the Arena All Next Week—Pro. Skaters Refuse to Challenge for Baptie's Title

To be the champion speed skater of the world and yet be unable to secure a race in the last three years, for the title, is the unique experience of Norval Baptie, the North Dakota skating wonder who has signed to appear at the Arena in company with Mrs. Butler in a fancy, speed and trick skating act, all next week. The pair made a big hit last year when they gave their card of ice skating, and their return engagement has been made by Manager Patrick at the special request of a number of Victoria's skating enthusiasts.

Baptie has held the world's title since 1905, when he defeated a grand array of skaters on the M. A. A. rink at Montreal, establishing several records that still stand. Last season he forfeited several weeks of vaudeville engagements to secure a race against Edmund Lamy and Morris Wood, professional Eastern speed skaters, but the pair backed out at the last moment. Baptie is a wonder on skates, and considering that he has been doing fancy skating for two years, his performance is all the more remarkable.

Their contact with the Arena management calls for an exhibition every evening, as a special attraction, between skating periods. Those who witnessed their act last winter will recall the ease and grace with which they went through their performance and a polished skating act may be looked for at the Arena every night next week.

WANT HEWITT TO REFEREE

Morris Condon is Very Anxious to Have Vancouver Sporting Writer to Handle the Bayley-Hyland Bout

Morris Condon is making every effort to have Jimmie Hewitt, the popular Vancouver newspaperman and well known ring authority, to accept the proposition to referee at Calgary when Joe Bayley and Fighting Dick Hyland again meet. The Vancouver sporting writer expressed a willingness to handle Bayley's next bout, when he was here on a visit a few days ago. It was Condon's intention to have him take charge of affairs at Seattle, but when that bout fell through, thought that there would be a chance to have Hewitt go to Calgary. Hyland has given Condon a free hand in the selection of an official, and if Hewitt cannot make the trip to Calgary, Freddie Lowes, of Calgary, will probably be the third man in the ring.

ROTHUS WILL TURN PRO

Sensational Seattle Lightweight Has a Grand Career Ahead of Him—Pat Scott Looking After Rothus' Ring Interests

"Give this youngster another year or two and he will whip 'em all." Enthusiastic as all managers are, Pat Scott, the Seattle boxing instructor, has every reason to believe that the above statement which he made concerning the ring future of Clarence Rothus, will come true. The conqueror of Scotty McKay, though but a youngster of twenty summers, has everything and his clean-cut victory over the local lightweight was one of the prettiest exhibitions that has ever been staged in Victoria.

Rothus is being groomed for a jump to the professional ranks in a year or so, after he has cleaned up all the lightweights who aspire for his amateur laurels.

The possessor of a lightning-like left jab, the Seattle boy has also a terrible "kick" concealed in his right mitt that resulted in the downfall of McKay. Pat Scott declares that his protégé is a harder slugger than Joe Bayley, and with a little more experience in the amateur arena, will be a fit opponent for Wolgast, Mandot and other stars of the padded mitts.

Local boxing promoters intend to have Rothus come over to Victoria again in the near future, when a return bout with McKay will be booked. This pair, with the James Bay entry in shape for a gruelling battle, will provide a terrible mill, one that few pro bouts could equal as a drawing card.

RACKET WIELDERS CLASSED ON TOP

A. E. Crawley, the tennis expert on the other side, has attempted to answer the question, Who are the best lawn tennis players in the world? And these are the men he picks and their classification:
Class 1—Norman E. Brooks and A. H. Gobert.
Class 2—A. F. Wilding.
Class 3—W. A. Larned, Beals C. Wright, C. P. Dixon, M. E. McLoughlin, A. W. Gore, W. J. Clothier and R. N. Williams.

INTERNATIONAL MEET.

Oxford and Cambridge Will Send Team to States Next Summer.

London, Nov. 20.—The prospects of an international university athletic meeting during the coming summer in America have become bright.

The athletes of Oxford and Cambridge Universities are largely in favor of such a contest.

Nothing definite will be done in the matter until the proposal comes formally before the Cambridge University Athletic Clubs.

Bayley is the most widely cultivated of all cereals.

NEW TWIRLER SIGNS WITH VICTORIA CLUB

"Watty" Expected Daily With Big Bundle of Contracts for the 1913 Bees

That Manager Wattelet has succeeded in landing several of the players that he went East with the intention of securing is evident from the information that is being handed out from the baseball headquarters. President T. P. McConnell stated to the Times this morning that he had received the signed contract this morning of Clifford Ruyle, of Warden, Ill., a twirler who made a good record in the "bushes" last year and who had been recommended to the local club very highly.

Wattelet is expected back to-night or to-morrow and he is bringing with him a sheaf of contracts from the 1913 squad and several bearing the John Handcocks of players who will make their debut in Victoria uniforms this season.

LIVE BITS OF SPORT GOSSIP

Hamilton Alerts and Tigers play a city championship match on Saturday November 23.

Dan McEwan will return to London and train Midnight Oro for the Canadian ice track meets.

British Columbia Hockey Clubs are down to practices. The season opens next month.

The Montreal Arena is going to conduct a campaign against rowdy spectators at hockey matches.

Tom Foster, of Montreal, is suggested as an arbitrator between the East and West in the present hockey "war."

Dick Hyland seeks another chance against Joe Bayley. They may meet in the near future at Calgary or on the Coast.

John Kling says he is out of baseball forever, but is carrying around offers from the New York and Chicago National teams.

The Three-I League will open its 1913 season on April 24 and close Labor Day.

"It'll be right there helping Johnny Evers be a successful manager," says "Lefty" Leifield, of the Cubs.

Harry McIntire says of Frank Chance will sign a $1,200 contract with the Cubs he (Harry) will play for Murphy for nothing.

President Johnson announces that he expects the American League December meeting to be held in Chicago instead of New York.

The cradle has again given up its load to Nurse Connie Mack. The latest is Richard Durning, a southpaw. He is nearly 20 years old.

One hundred and twenty-eight bases were stolen on Catcher Syd Smith in the American Association during the last season in 152 games.

Catcher Tom Carson has been made manager of the Waco team, of the Texas League, succeeding Ellis Hardy, who resigned to take up other business.

The heads of the American and the National Leagues have announced April 10 as the starting point for the major league playing schedules next year.

Since there has been a Chicago National League team it has played 4,631 games. Of this number it won 2,712 and lost 1,919, for a winning per cent. of .586.

Olaf Henrikson, of the Boston Red Sox, who played such a prominent part in winning the deciding game, is home talent. His home is in Canton, a suburb of Boston.

Neway Lalonde must have a press agent all his own. One day a report comes over the wires that the peerless Cornwall boy will play on the Coast and the next day he is slated for the N. H. A. It is simply a case of the great speed merchant sticking out for the largest salary he can get. Whatever team gets Neway will grab a wonderful hockey player, but they will have to pay dearly for his services.

It is rumored in hockey circles that if the N. H. A. does not go back to the seven-man game, as demanded by the public, Frank Ahern would sever his connections altogether with the Ottawa Hockey Club.

The Winnipeg Victorias are all ready to meet all comers on the ice for the Allan Cup and the world's championship.

RIVERS IN SHAPE.

Declares That He Will Whip Mandot When They Again Meet.

Joe Rivers, the Mexican lightweight, who meets Joe Mandot in a return match at Los Angeles Thanksgiving Day, contemplates visiting the east, provided that he meets with success against Mandot. River asserts that he will be in proper boxing form when he faces Mandot this time.

PRACTICE TO-NIGHT.

Y. M. C. A. and J. B. A. A. have agreed upon a football match for Saturday. The "Y" hockey club will practice at the rink to-night.

CANADIAN LIGHTWEIGHT STAR ENDING HIS CAREER IN ASYLUM

Eddie Connolly, the St. John, N. B. lightweight, who about ten years ago was the sensation in the 133-pound class, is said to be in an insane asylum in England. The American immigration officials have received notice from the English officials that they intend to deport Connolly as an American citizen. Connolly insists that he was born in Buffalo. Connolly was born in St. John, N. B., Nov. 16, 1874. He made Boston his home for many years and fought some of his best battles there. Friends of Connolly will be very sorry to learn of his misfortune.

STRENUOUS PRACTICE AT ARENA LAST NIGHT

Charlie Burnett and Mike Mitchell Suffer Because of the Lively Workout

Charlie Burnett, the clever rover of the Victoria City hockey team, is sporting a colored optic as a result of the strenuous practice of the pros at the Arena last night. Mike Mitchell, the local net custodian, also was "crowned" and nearly took the count. The squad provided the rail birds with a lot of excitement last night, making up in strenuous play what the work-out lacked in "pép." Bobby Rowe, the Victoria right wing, is spending a couple of days in the country, preparatory to entering the long siege of training for the approaching season.

Frank Patrick, manager of the Vancouver hockey club, has received a wire from Producers, of the Stanley Cup holders, to the effect that he cannot come to the coast. At a workout in Vancouver Monday night, the following took part: Frank Patrick, St. Griffin, Tobin, Ulrich, MacDonald, Mallen, Treherne, "Paddy" Chambers, Foxy Smith and Parr.

PRO SOCCER CLUBS COMING

Toronto, Nov. 20.—Now that British Association professional football teams are allowed to visit Canada and play any club under the jurisdiction of the Dominion Football Association, arrangements are being made here to bring over next summer one English and one Scottish team, and both are expected to accept the invitation. Should both do so they will play exhibition games in the most important cities and teams will be selected to oppose them in each city from Montreal to Vancouver, provided British Columbia has affiliated with the Dominion Association by then.

RIGID REGULATIONS FOR GASOLINE STORAGE

Severe Penalties for Using Low Flash Point Petroleum Products Without Supervision

The fire wardens yesterday reached an arrangement with regard to the new by-law, which has not yet been introduced to the attention of the city council, with regard to the regulation of the storage and use of benzine and gasoline, or other petroleum products used in various industries.

The term "benzine and gasoline" is used to describe all low flash oils below 110 degrees Fahr. It prohibits people maintaining establishments where more than one gallon of liquid is stored, without a permit. No permit is to be granted for any building which is a part of an hotel, apartment house, or lodging house. Not more than one five gallon can of liquid shall be stored above ground, and only up to a gallon must be stored in a tank outside, especially constructed.

A penalty not exceeding $250, or three months, is set for infractions of the by-law.

The residential hotels of the city are shortly to be added to by a handsome hotel in the Elizabethan style of architecture at Foul Bay. The building will contain 100 rooms, and will be erected by a syndicate of which A. E. Craddock & Co., are representatives. The architects have other important work on hand on Richardson street, Newport avenue, Clive Drive and Gonzales Hill.

NEW FREIGHT CARS FOR SAANICH LINE

Forty New Freight Cars Have Been Ordered by B. C. E. Ry. for Use on New Interurban

That the B. C. E. Railway Company expect to participate to no inconsiderable extent in freight transportation on the peninsula when the new Saanich Interurban line is opened, is evidenced by the fact that no less than forty new freight cars have been ordered by the local manager for use on the Saanich line.

Fifteen of these cars are to be of the box type, while twenty-five will be flat cars, and they will be constructed in the company's own sheds, the majority at New Westminster. Not all the cars used by the company are made in the Royal City shops, for the Vancouver branch of the company has just recently ordered one hundred freight cars from the Seattle Carbuilding Company. The shops at New Westminster are used to supplement the car requirements of the company.

Every effort is being made by the B. C. Electric railway in Victoria to be in a position to comply with the regulations drawn up by the attorney-general for the carrying of passengers which comes into force in January next.

It is for this reason that new passenger cars are how on their way to Victoria, and have in fact been overdue for some days. These passenger cars to the number of ten will do much to relieve any overcrowding there may be at busy periods of the day, for the new vehicles will be large and roomy, capable of holding a large number of passengers.

OAK BAY CITIZENS HAVE FORMED LEAGUE

The Objects and Policy of the New Organization—Qualifications Necessary

A meeting of the "Oak Bay Citizens' League" was held yesterday evening at the leagues' offices on Foul Bay road at 8 o'clock, which was well attended. James Drummond presiding.

As moved in a previous meeting, the object of the league is to develop a wider interest in the affairs of the municipality, favoring the following:

1. The policy of bringing, as early as possible an abundant supply of good water to the district.
2. An increase in the number of open spaces which will beautify the municipality and afford healthy recreation.
3. To have a complete system of trunk roads, and to keep the same in good condition.
4. The equalization of taxation.
5. To vigorous action being taken for the establishment of proper sanitary conditions in every part of the municipality.

Resolutions were passed appointing officers and committees for the general business of the league. It was moved, and carried unanimously, that a petition be submitted to the Oak Bay council favoring the erection of a public wharf, which would greatly facilitate the handling of local supplies.

Particular attention was drawn to the fact that no person would be entitled to vote at the forthcoming municipal election unless their road tax be paid on or before the first day of December.

There will be a general meeting of the league on Tuesday next at 8 p.m., November 26, when it is hoped that all those who are interested in the welfare of the municipality will attend.

W. Baugh Allan officiated. The following acted as pallbearers: Messrs. Riddle, Sam Eastman, F. Dangerfield, J. Henley, B. Market and B. Archment.

James Mansell, of 413 Wilson street, died about 8.30 last evening. While incapacitated from work during the past month it was only a few days since his sickness assumed a serious aspect. The deceased was 59 years of age, and leaves a widow in this city, and relatives in England, to mourn his loss. He was a native of Worcester, England, and came to Victoria about 25 years ago. Old-timers will remember him as an employee of the Albion Iron Works for a number of years. Subsequently he was engaged at the Pioneer coffee and spice mills, and later he established a coffee and spice business in the De Cosmos block on Government street, which he disposed of to ex-Mayor Morley. He went to South Africa during the Boer war and enlisted in the Cape Colony Colonial Defence Force, and at the conclusion of the war he was awarded the South African war medal. Later he has been employed at the parliament buildings. The funeral will take place on Friday, at 2.30 p. m., from the residence, 413 Wilson street, and later from the St. Saviour's church, Victoria West, Rev. Connell officiating.

The death took place yesterday at Saanich of Ellen Jonnie, at the age of 16. The funeral will take place tomorrow from the Catholic church at that place, interment to be in the Catholic cemetery.

The funeral of the late Mrs. MacCormack took place this morning from the family residence, 774 Hillside avenue, to the Roman Catholic cathedral, Father Laterne officiating. There was a large attendance, and numerous floral offerings covered the casket. The following acted as pallbearers: J. McKenna, H. J. O'Leary, Frank J. Sehl, A. E. Macdonald, W. H. Harris, and J. A. Bantley.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Gunton took place this morning at 10 o'clock from the B. C. Funeral parlors, and a few minutes later from St. Andrew's cathedral, an exceptionally large number of people being present, and more than fifty floral designs of a very beautiful character being placed on and around the casket. Rev. Father Macdonald officiated, both at the church and at the cemetery, where the remains were interred in the family plot. The following acted as pallbearers: Messrs. H. Lynn, J. Denby, E. G. Hanson, M. Basso, J. Basso and Robert Purser.

Dr. J. W. Lennox has returned after a month's vacation in Toronto.

R. H. Brethour and A. John, of Sidney, accompanied by John Ure, of Vancouver, left on the steamer City of Puebla this morning to spend the winter in Los Angeles.

Victoria College Athletic Club, following the example of McGill, held its annual dance last evening at the Connaught club rooms, which were specially decorated with the McGill colors—red and white—for the occasion, the idea being carried out in the shaded lights, and the decorations of pennants. The supper tables, too, were decorated with the college colors in carnations and chrysanthemums. There was an excellent attendance of young people and grown-ups, about 250 being present, while Miss Thain's four-piece orchestra supplied the music. The following acted as chaperones: Mrs. Alexander Robinson, Mrs. George Jay, Mrs. Elliott, Mrs. Willis, Mrs. Wood, while the staff committee and students' committee, to whom much of the success of the undertaking was due, consisted of Principal Willis, Miss Henry, Mr. Hope, Mr. Wood, and Miss Gonnason, Miss Mess, Messrs. W. Ross, J. Dowler and Gerow. Dancing did not conclude till the "wee sma' hours," when the National Anthem and McGill College yell were given with great enthusiasm as a final touch to this most enjoyable of functions.

AN EMPIRE MISSIONARY.

London, Nov. 20.—Hon. George E. Foster, speaking yesterday at a city luncheon, appealed for a well-arranged system amongst the British people for the exploration and development of the natural resources of the Dominion, keeping them as far as possible, from the hands of foreign interests. They should organize as a united empire. Austen Chamberlain, in thanking Mr. Foster, said that he was in the deepest and truest sense an empire missionary.

BLAMES HORSE FOR CHEWING HIS AUTO

McMartin States It Bit Cover—Owners Say It Is Too Gentle

Whether or not a delivery horse owned by the Melrose Company, Lt. paint and glass manufacturers, of 618 Fort street, had deliberately chewed a hole in the slip cover of an automobile belonging to G. D. McMartin as it stood opposite the premises of the Staneland Company, Ltd., at 336 Fort street, was a question which occupied Judge Lampman's attention in the County court this morning, and incidentally produced some amusing evidence.

Mr. McMartin said he saw the driver of the horse, George Howitt, run back to the animal and drag it away from the rear of his automobile, and that when he hastened to investigate he found not only the hole, but damaging evidence against the horse in the form of moisture on the back of the car. The driver had denied at the time that the horse had chewed the car. It had cost $16 to have a new slip cover made. Howitt stoutly defended the horse's reputation. He declared that during nearly two years of acquaintance with it he had never known it to chew things indiscriminately. It was a fine, docile, orderly animal. He had left it for only one minute and then it was four feet away from the automobile. He was not now the beast's master as he had left the company.

Asked if it would surprise him if he were told that the animal never appeared in public now unless decorated with a muzzle, Howitt replied that nothing would surprise him in these days.

C. B. Deaville, manager of the Melrose Company, explained that the muzzle was necessary merely because the horse playfully "nosed" passersby. Judge Lampman remarked that perhaps the horse resented anybody's going to the Melrose store but its own company.

Judgment was reserved to allow defendant's counsel to put in a written argument on the vexed question.

In his statement the minister says that he has decided, in view of the developments since these sales, to give all purchasers of lots the privilege of withdrawing from their agreements to purchase or proceeding with them, as they themselves may elect.

A DIAMOND

There is probably no other commercial commodity to-day that carries such an established surety of value as the diamond.

As the world becomes more and more aesthetic the demand for perfect diamonds increases and all the time the supply is becoming scarcer.

It is this condition which makes a diamond bought here an indestructible investment.

ARE YOUR HANDS CHAPPED?

Zam-Buk Will Cure Them.

The particular danger of chapped hands and cold cracks (apart altogether from the pain) is that the cold is likely to penetrate and set up inflammation, festering, or blood-poison.

Directly the skin is broken by a cut, graze or scratch, or chafed and cracked by the action of the cold winds and water, the one necessary precaution is to apply Zam-Buk freely.

The pure herbal juices from which Zam-Buk is prepared are so perfectly combined and refined that the immediate effect of these Zam-Buk dressings is soothing, antiseptic and healing.

Pain and inflammation are allayed, disease germs expelled from the wound or sore, and the latter is quickly healed.

Zam-Buk is not only a powerful healer and skin purifier; it is strongly antiseptic and germicidal, and so forms the ideal protection for the skin against disease germs.

It quickly heals cold cracks, chaps, chilblains, cold sores, etc.

Mrs. O. M. Phoenix, Neuchatel, Alta., writes: "I must tell you how pleased I am with Zam-Buk. My husband had an old frostbite on his foot for many years, and had tried almost every known remedy without any effect, but the first application of Zam-Buk seemed to help him so much that he persevered and the sore is now cured. We would not be without Zam-Buk in the house."

Zam-Buk is also a sure cure for piles, eczema, ulcers, abscesses, scalp sores, blood-poison, bad leg, eruptions, etc. Its purely herbal composition makes it the ideal balm for babies and young children. All druggists and stores sell Zam-Buk 50c box or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Try also Zam-Buk Soap, 25c. tablet.

WHO OR WHOM?

The truth is that the employment of the nominative "who" for the accusative in certain forms of interrogation has become so imbedded in common usage that resort, even now, to the strictly orthodox practice frequently requires, on the part of educated men, positive effort or prolonged training. It, somehow, does not seem natural.

In the past, assuredly this nominative form, where precise grammar would require the accusative, turns up with almost invariable regularity in works which set out to represent colloquial speech. "Who is it from?" says the mother, in Jane Austen's "Pride and Prejudice," to her daughter, who has just received a letter. "Who is it like?" says the heroine of "Jane Eyre" to St. John Rivers, as she shows him the picture of Rosamund Oliver. Such examples could be multiplied by hundreds. There are cases, indeed, when the use of "whom" would strike upon the ears of most of us as painfully pedantic.

"Who the devil is talking to?" says Sir Luchan O'Trigger in Sheridan's "Rivals" as he notices Captain Absolute soliloquizing. To tolerate "whom" in place of "who" in such a sentence as the last would require the speaker to be so thoroughly steeped in grammar that the sense of traditional usage, which has been hardening into idiom, has at last been completely overcome. That height of linguistic virtue few of us there are who attain.—Thomas R. Lounsbury in Harper's Magazine.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By Ruth Cameron

There are many well-to-do and wealthy people in this country who don't bother much with the ordinary ten commandments, but appear to take a certain sentence in the Bible for their special command, and that sentence is, "To him that hath shall be given."

One of the families in our neighborhood is very well-to-do and owns a beautiful touring car. Their neighbors on one side are also well-to-day and certainly could own an automobile if they wished. Their neighbors on the other side are lovely people, but not at all well off. The people with the touring car appear to be an equally friendly terms with both families, and yet five times out of six if they take anyone with them in the car it is the people who can afford to own or hire a machine for themselves.

Isn't it queer? And yet you will see this same tendency repeated again and again.

"Really we haven't taken out our car for a week," I heard a wealthy woman say the other day. "Oh yes, I know its lovely weather, it isn't that, but the Crowell's insisted that we come in their car so we didn't use our own."

"To him that hath shall be given."

Think how much it would have meant to some of the automobileless friends of both of these families to have been taken out into the country in these lovely autumn days.

Again some rich people who were going to an athletic event proudly displayed passes some influential friend had given them. It is a queer little quirk in human nature by the way that the average man is crazy about a pass of any kind. It doesn't matter if he is a millionaire and the pass is worth only a quarter, he is as elated as a child to obtain it—I suppose because rich or poor we all feel that we have fooled the fates when we get something for nothing. But to return to my theme, I happen to know that the influential friend knew half a dozen people—I wasn't one of them—who were wild to attend that event and couldn't afford to buy tickets.

A rich old woman whose only relatives were two families of cousins died the other day. One of the families was already wealthy, the other poor. Of course you know what happened. She left the bulk of her wealth to the family that was already wealthy, and bequeathed a few trinkets to those to whom a little of her money could have meant so much. And yet she had been on equally friendly terms with both families.

It's a very queer old world, isn't it? I don't think if we were wealthy we'd do the same, do you?

Still you never can tell till you try.

SHORTSIGHTED.

Mrs. De Troop (who is shortsighted)—"Good morning, Mrs. Simkins. Your husband must be very fond of gardening. I saw him the first time this morning down in the bottom of the garden. And how well he looks, to be sure." Mrs. Simkins turned her back and slammed the door in her neighbor's face. The latter, aghast, went to tell her daughter. "And you told her, mother, that the thing in the onion-bed was her husband." "Of course I did."

"Well, that's not her husband; that's a scarecrow."

THROUGH EGYPT AND HOLY LAND

INFORMING LECTURE
BY MISS HUGHES

World's Missioner of W. C. T. U. Gave Interesting Account of Travels in Historic Lands

A large audience were present at the Metropolitan Methodist church last evening to hear the illustrated lecture on "Egypt and Palestine," given by Miss Anderson Hughes, World's Missioner of the W. C. T. U., who spoke for nearly three hours on the subject of the beautiful slides thrown on the screen. The pyramids in Egypt naturally came into the lecture, the Great Pyramid—the largest of the thirty which are still to be found in various parts of Egypt—being specially described, as being the oldest of all. This, despite its age, had none of the markings and drawings of an idolatrous character which were to be found in the others.

The various passages seemed to have a certain prophetic relation to the history of the Israelites, a diagram of the interior showing the system of galleries which might be traversed by the tourist to-day. An exterior view of the Great Pyramid, with a distant glimpse of the Sphinx and two other pyramids, showed something of the huge proportions of this relic of the early Egyptian dynasties. A nearer view, showing the entrance to the pyramid, gave one the impression of a wall composed of jutting blocks of stone, and retreating toward the distant apex so slowly that at first it seemed almost sheer. A wonderful photograph, taken quite near the summit, showed two bare-footed Arabs sitting on the great rough hewn blocks, blocks which even after the lapse of many thousand years have suffered little denudation. Beyond this near view of summit and dark-skinned Arab was the distant valley of the Nile, with its fertile fields and dark-sailed dhows, or the burning waste of sand, which stretched on either side, dotted with the oases which are the travellers' blessing.

Arabs Unpredictable. Miss Hughes warned ladies who had any intention of ever visiting the pyramids to be certain to go accompanied by some masculine friend, as the Arab guides were most unpredictable, and would often leave one standing in a dark passage where they would have to give whatever baksheesh in the way of money or ornaments might be demanded by the mercenary fellow who came to their rescue. In describing the Sphinx, Miss Hughes called attention to some lightly traced lines on the breast, pointing out that these indicated the presence of a beard at one time, but which had since been cut off. It is surmised that the Sphinx had the face of one of the great Shepherd Kings, and that it was a sculptured memorial of one of the early worshippers of God.

In Palestine.

Leaving Egypt the lecturer took her audience to Palestine, describing the unjust treatment which is meted out to passengers travelling from Port Said to Jaffa, the former an Egyptian, the latter a Turkish, sea-port. Quarantine for small-pox gave the officials at the first port an opportunity of exacting a toll before the passengers were allowed to go aboard the boat, and the same excuse afforded the officials at Jaffa an opportunity to extract a second toll before the passengers were allowed to land—the third class passengers who had huddled on the deck with their mules, camels, chickens, and what not, being copiously sprinkled with a weak solution of carbolic acid to disinfect them before landing. "The injustice of these exactions," said the speaker, "make one appreciate the liberty which is to be found under the Union Jack, and whenever I hear of people who are discontented under British rule, I think that people in such countries as Turkey have to suffer, and realize why people from those places appreciate the liberty which they enjoy under the British flag when they come to our colonies to live."

Jaffa.

The landing at Jaffa showed the crowded street, with its turbaned Arabs, and its groups of Russian peasant women. There was always, said the speaker, a keen rivalry among the Arab carriers to get the luggage of the passengers as they arrived, and it was a startling sight to see a little, wiry, bare-legged man weighted down with trunks and bags in such a way that nothing but head and feet were visible. Fitz availed nothing, for the men preferred a big load—and exacted their charge accordingly. Travelling inland, pictures of the still primitive peasant life were shown, the crude plough, as used in Biblical times, drawn by a team of ox and ass, or—as in one instance shown—of camel and ass. At Jerusalem railway station a group of Russian peasant women making their way to the Holy City, were shown, and later pictures gave further evidence of the ubiquity of these pilgrims in the old Jewish capital.

Jerusalem at Last.

The views of Jerusalem were intensely interesting, and gave an excellent idea of the quaint, twisting, narrow streets into which the little bazaars open, and through which the visitor slowly passes. No wheeled vehicle can pass here, as the majority of the ways are terraced with steps where the streets ascend or descend to a new level. Camels and donkeys, however, laden with merchandise, amble through the crowded ways, and contributed to the picturesque. A street in the Jewish quarter, with its huddled mass of human beings, called attention once more to the growing numbers of Jews who are entering the city. Five or six years ago a petition had been circulated asking that the Jews be allowed to return to Jerusalem, the old law only permitting 3,000 to remain in the city at a time. The old Sultan refused the petition, but since he was deposed the law had been changed, and to-day there are 65,000 in the city.

A view of Queen Helena's convent, behind the altar of which excavators found a piece of an old wall with Roman doorway and arch which has since been proved almost beyond the shadow of doubt to have been the door through which Jesus passed to come before Pilate, was shown. Miss Hughes said that on the mosaic pavement could still be seen the markings of the old Roman games with which the people of the day whiled away an idle hour. A picture of the Church of the Holy Sepulchre was given, with the rich interior decorations, and a crowd of Russian pilgrims within bearing palm leaves from the nearby hills. In the Greek section of the church she was ostentatiously shown a font which they told her makes the centre of the world—because, as the priest explained with dignity when she questioned, it was on the spot where Adam was created. A costly and magnificent tomb with a marble slab on which the body of Christ is represented to have lain, is the scene of many touching acts of devotion on the part of the pilgrims who crowd thither, men, women and children placing their little token of handkerchief, flower, or book on the slab, where the priest sprinkles them with holy water. They are then taken back to Russia—a memorial of the sacred spot.

General Gordon's Discovery.

The tradition of this being the burial place of Our Lord, however, is not correct, and the lecturer afterwards described the freshly excavated Chapel of the Resurrection, discovered about thirty years ago by General Gordon underneath a quiet little garden near Skull Hill, outside the modern walls. Twenty feet below the surface the excavators found the rock-hewn tomb, with its slanting doorway, against which the great stone was rolled. Inside was the slab of stone at which the angels sat, and on the wall is still the trace of a cross engraved in the stone, with the letters A. O. (Alpha and Omega) in Greek. This tomb is believed by most scholars to be the very tomb in which the Saviour was laid.

Other interesting views showed the quiet little town of Bethlehem, much as it had been in Christ's time—unchanged by depredation such as Jerusalem had suffered in its eighteen sieges—and with Rachel's tomb lit by a single swinging taper, and guarded by a Jewish watchman. Bethlehem is a Christian city even to-day, and is jealously guarded as such by those who live there. Absalom's pillar, with the holes worn through the solid masonry by the jiding stones of scornful Jews; Gethsemane and the sun-bathed Mount of Olives with its plantations of olive trees, and the winding road lined with blind beggars and lepers; Bethany; the monastery of St. John the Baptist, with the Mountains of Moab in the distance; and a view on the Jordan on Epiphany Day when the Russian pilgrims come down in great crowds to be baptized; and, finally, the Dead Sea with its great salt cliffs.

During the evening Rev. W. Leslie Clay made an appeal for the fund which is being collected in behalf of the Men's Mission in this city, saying that the W. C. T. U. (who control this) have a payment of $5,000 to make on December 1 on the new site which they are purchasing, and that those who contributed would be doing a good thing in giving to so noble a cause. The collection to be taken, he said, was not for the lantern lecture, but was a voluntary offering for the Men's Mission alone. The gathering dispersed after the pronouncing of the Benediction by Rev. Mr. Warnicker.

"THE SECRET OF SUZANNE."
Chicago Grand Opera Company Here on Saturday.

"The Secret of Suzanne," one of the most successful novelties of the operatic decade, whose rights are owned by Andreas Dippel, manager of the Chicago Grand Opera Company, was presented in the four leading American cities last season and made such a marked impression that the management has been prevailed upon to make another brief tour this year. This exquisite work of Ermanno Wolf-Ferrari will be presented with complete mise en scene, a fine string orchestra complying with all the original demands of the composer's score, and an enlistment of singers drawn from the artists of the Chicago Grand Opera Company. There is a soucie cast, so that those engaged in the preliminary concert will consequently not appear in the opera that immediately follows. The orchestra, under the direction of Sig. Attilio Parelli, is spoken of as the most carefully chosen and thoroughly proficient bodies of instrumentalists that has ever visited the West. That such is the case may be well believed when one notes that the personnel includes such artists as Albin Steindel, E. Hoffmeyer, C. L. Lurvey, Alexander Levey, Julius Brander, Hans

YOUR SOUR, GASSY, UPSET STOMACH WILL FEEL FINE IN FIVE MINUTES

"Really does" put bad stomachs in order—"really does" overcome indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, heartburn and sourness in five minutes—that—just that—makes Pape's Diapepsin the latest selling stomach regulator in the world. If what you eat ferments into stubborn lumps, you belch gas and eructate sour undigested food and acid; head is dizzy and aches; breath foul; tongue coated; your insides filled with bile and indigestible waste, remember the moment Diapepsin comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. It's truly astonishing—almost marvelous, and the joy is its harmlessness.

IMPORTANT TO SHOPKEEPERS

It is only a few weeks until Christmas. The holiday trade has already started. The dark evenings are upon us, and now, if ever, is the time to give consideration to the question of window illumination. Many up-to-date shopkeepers in this city can testify to the splendid results they have achieved by bright store premises. Place your orders for extra window and store illumination early.

Don't Admit Light-Decayed Beer Into Your House

You must drink beer not only made pure, but kept pure.

Purity exceeds all other costs in our brewery. We even filter the air in which Schlitz is cooled. We scald every tub, keg and barrel, every pipe and pump, every time we use it.

Then, instead of putting pure beer in light glass bottles we use Brown Bottles.

Light starts decay even in pure beer. Dark glass gives the best protection against light. The Brown Bottle protects Schlitz purity from the brewery to your glass.

We began in a hut, sixty years ago. Today our agencies dot the earth. Our output exceeds a million barrels a year.
More and more people each year are drinking Schlitz.

Why don't you, too, drink only pure beer—Schlitz in Brown Bottles.

MORE EVIDENCE IN AUTO CASE

WITNESS SAYS THAT LIGHTS WERE BRIGHT

Business Transaction at New England Cited to Show Evidence of Sobriety

In contradiction of the statement of Patrol Driver Walton at the preliminary hearing of the manslaughter charge against J. A. Rithet, one of the occupants of the machine, Napier Gowen, was called this morning and swore that the search-lights of the automobile were lit when the machine was brought from the scene of the accident to the police station. The witness, when asked if he would contradict the patrol driver's statement that the latter turned on the lights, said he would, as the fact that the lights were on was impressed on his mind. Mr. Gowen confirmed the statement of Mr. Stevenson that the automobile on Fisguard street was slightly to the left of the centre of the road, which would bring it on the legal side of that thoroughfare, and he with Frederick White confirmed the statement of Mr. Stevenson that the machine at the time of the accident was not exceeding a speed of ten miles an hour.

Witnesses contradicted the prosecution that Mr. Rithet was intoxicated. These were members of the party, and George H. Haynes, dentist, who told of having had a business transaction with Mr. Rithet in the New England hotel at about 1 o'clock. Mr. Haynes had done some dentistry for Mr. Rithet previously, and when Mr. Rithet entered the restaurant he reminded Mr. Haynes that he owed him something, and there and then wrote a cheque for the amount. Mr. Haynes said Mr. Rithet was quite sober at the time.

There was considerable disputing between Mr. Maclean and Mr. Alkman on the one side, and Mr. Harrison, the lawyer, on the other side. On one occasion Mr. Harrison referred to the legal talent opposing him as "my friend." Mr. Maclean immediately got to his feet and enquired, "whose friend? friend indeed!" and on another occasion when Mr. Harrison had to repeat a question, Mr. Maclean requested him not to choke over it. On these occasions Mr. Harrison generally replied in kind, and much amusement was occasioned those in court by the sparring. The case had not concluded at the lunch adjournment, there being one other witness for the defence who, it was mentioned, is a champagne expert being brought to testify that the strength of champagne is not what it is generally supposed. It was also given in evidence that at the club the party opened four bottles, and at the restaurant, one.

Napier Gowen said that in his judgment the machine did not travel at any time over ten miles an hour, and did not skid in turning into Fisguard street. The machine was slightly to the left of the centre of the roadway. He and Mr. Stevenson and a Chinese put the injured man in the alley. The man's head was toward the north, the walk and his feet straight across the road. He thought Mr. Rithet perfectly capable and was sober himself, for at his age he did not drink. He had nothing but soda water that night. While in the car he did not see Mr. Rithet do anything negligent in driving.

The witness was willing to deny that Patrol Driver Walton turned on the lights of accused's automobile at the station. He said the lights were lit when the machine drew up at the station. The fact was impressed on his mind. He remembered that four bottles of champagne were opened at the Pacific club but did not know how much of it Mr. Rithet drank. At the New England restaurant one bottle of champagne was opened between Mr. Rithet and two others. He did not hear a suggestion that the party should go to the Four-Mile House, but Mr. Rithet offered to take the party home.

There was no hilarity as the car was being pushed along Government street. The party was "jolly" as two of them pushed the machine.

Frederick White remembered hearing Mr. Stevenson say "look out" and looked ahead, but there was no one in front of the car. He then looked to the side and saw a man about two feet from the side of the car. He did not think the car struck the man, but if it did the man was about half way down the length of the car. He would say that as far as he saw, Mr. Rithet was in no way intoxicated.

At the police station he discussed the game act with Mr. Rithet, who walked to a copy of it on the wall and turned up the clause in the act to show that his contention was correct. Mr. Rithet then went to the telephone and telephoned his house that he would not be home that night. He did not have to refer to the telephone book and when at the telephone repeated the message. He then asked that Patrol Driver Walton be allowed to take the men home and asked that the car be taken to the garage. Mr. White said that he resided at 351 Michigan street, but many people believed he still lived in Victoria West. When going down Government street he told Mr. Rithet that he lived in James Bay and Mr. Rithet said they would turn down Fisguard street to go back to the bay district. In his opinion the speed of the car was not over ten miles an hour.

DOG GOES TO COURT.

Appears Before Judge Lampman and is Retained by C. B. Schreiber, Defendant.

A curly brown dog brought Crawford Coates, C. B. Schreiber and seven witnesses to the county court this morning. The legal way of expressing the cause of the trouble was that Mr. Schreiber had wrongfully converted to his own use, one dog. Mr. Coates had claimed that the defendant had detained the animal and he asked the return of it and $25. Counsel for the defendant pointed out that seven people had come to support Mr. Schreiber's view of the matter but that not even one person had appeared for Mr. Coates. Judge Lampman dismissed the case.

To Mr. Schreiber's counsel's request that he set the costs, the judge replied with a query as to whether it was merely because it was a dog case that the barrister considered him any more qualified to decide upon the costs than the registrar. He set the costs at $30 and the amount of the disbursements. The dog, very lively at the end of a chain, and not at all impressed with the dignity of the court, was present and occupied a position in the public portion of the room.

RELEASED UNTIL HIS TRIAL.

William Macdonald Granted Bail of $1,000 in Two Sureties This Morning.

William Macdonald, who was committed recently for trial on a charge of theft laid by Frank A. Jackson, a mining prospector, was granted bail of $1,000 in two sureties of $500 by Judge Lampman this forenoon. Jackson, who is in the habit of spending part of his winters in the city, alleges that Macdonald, who was the driver of an automobile in which he was a passenger, took a diamond pin, valued at $225, and some money from his clothing.

SUFFRAGETTE SPLIT.

Jealousy Between Two Women Cause of Rift in Party Lute.

London, Nov. 20.—If it were not for the stirring times we are passing through at present with the Balkan war, and Home Rule excitement, the split among the leaders of the suffragette movement would certainly have caused much more excitement than it did, but even as it is there has been and still is much speculation as to the real reason which parted the ways of the Pankhursts and the Lawrences and enriched the English newspaper world with a new political paper, "The Suffragette." The reason of the rupture was not, as many people supposed, the well-known fact that Mr. Lawrence, though a firm believer in woman's right to vote, strongly disapproved of all the violent methods advocated by Mrs. Pankhurst. The real reason was the same which some years ago caused a split among the Christian Scientists in New York, petty jealousies between two women. In this case the two women are Miss Christabel Pankhurst and Mrs. Lawrence. The "mother of Christabel" naturally sided with her daughter, and frequently Mr. Lawrence found himself in an uncomfortable position through having to support his wife in her resistance to the Pankhursts. Now that the latter are editing the Suffragette, their new paper, they may be expected to carry with them that extreme section of women who honestly believe that to smash windows and endanger their own lives and that of others is the best way to secure "the vote." Already mother and daughter have outlined a programme, which is being considered in secret. Indeed this same programme, so wild and outrageous in its scope, was made up with plenty of ginger for the purpose of causing the Lawrences to withdraw. It simply means that very shortly numbers of hysterical women who accept the word of the Pankhursts as law and gospel will be loosed upon society at large to commit outrages likely to result in loss of life. Moreover, certain cabinet ministers have been marked down for a series of carefully thought out annoyances that it will necessitate the utmost vigilance of the police to circumvent.

KAISER FINE HUNTSMAN.

Over 70,000 Pieces of Game Victim of His Gun.

Germany boasts that its statistical office is the most thorough-going and highly organized in the world. It does, indeed, keep an eye on things of which easy-going commonwealths in other climes take no account. So nobody was surprised to read statistics issued apropos of the Kaiser's 40th anniversary as a huntsman. It seems he has been a Jager since September 30, 1872. Over 70,000 pieces of game of all descriptions, including a whale, have fallen victim to his unerring aim. There are tens of thousands of partridges and pheasants, hundreds of wild boar and stags, a few grouse and several bears.

SIZING HIM UP.

A certain man was being sized up by two "friends," one of whom described him at length. The other spoke more briefly, but much to the point. "I'll tell you what kind of man he is," said this one. "He's the kind that won't do his share of shoving in a revolving door."

PREMIER OF ITALY'S ATTITUDE TO STRIKES

Decreases in Industrial Disputes Since the Year 1907

Rome—Italy has been for the last dozen years a good field for strike experiments, and should be a salutary example for the working classes in other countries. Until the end of the last century strikes, although not contemplated by any article of the penal code, were practically considered crimes, and were treated accordingly. That was an exaggeration which led to most unpleasant results.

Signor Giolitti, the premier, with that common sense and balance of mind which distinguishes him, changed all this, proclaiming entire liberty to strike on the part of workmen, together, however, with the most energetic protection of the workmen who do not wish to join the movement. He realized that the agitation for better conditions for the workmen cannot be suppressed, and that any attempt in this direction might have brought about riots of a revolutionary character. The results he attained are most interesting. There was at first an absolute epidemic of strikes. The workmen could hardly believe in their new-found liberty, and struck for any and every reason, and, in some cases, for no reason at all.

The disease, however, cured itself, as had happened a few years before in the turbulent and republican province of Romagna, where the people were on the verge of revolution because they insisted on playing the "Hymn of Garibaldi," which the government authorities considered a "sedition music," which they put down with such violence as to cause daily imprisonments, rebellious and loss of life. Still no law prohibited the playing of the "Hymn of Garibaldi." Finally a wise prefect was sent to Romagna, whose first proclamation on assuming office was that no band, whether military or municipal, whether governmental or private, could play beginning and ending with the "Hymn of Garibaldi," and repeating it as many times as the public desired or the players wished. The effect was magical. In a few days the indigestion of the "Hymn of Garibaldi" was such that another proclamation was almost called for in order to stop it.

Almost the same thing has taken place in the case of strikes, which reached their climax in 1907, after which year they gradually decreased, as appears from the statistics of last year just issued, in which the greatest number of strikes, reaching 110, with 28,000 strikers, occurred in the building trade, followed by 92 strikes with 12,000 strikers among navies, and 65 strikes and 8,800 strikers in the brickfields. It must, however, be remembered that these workmen only a relatively short time ago received in Italy wages rising from one to two shillings a day, which are now doubled and in some cases trebled. The greatest number of strikes, 45 per cent., took place in the most prosperous part of the kingdom, the north, 39 per cent. in the centre, and only 16 per cent. in Southern Italy and the islands which comprise the poorest and most suffering provinces.

Taking the strikes as a whole, over 32 per cent. ended with the complete defeat of the strikers, and only about 19 per cent. with their complete victory, while the remainder were successful or unsuccessful in varying degrees. In these strikes the employees lost 2,958,000 days' work, besides 61,709 days' work lost by trades dependent on the strikers, making a total in wages of £400,000.

A German authority computes that of the world's total railroad mileage of 639,621 miles, 70 per cent. is company-owned and 30 per cent. is state-owned.

TRADE SUPPLIED BY J. S. FRY & SONS, LIMITED—VICTORIA, B. C.

TURKS KNOW HOW TO FACE DEATH

The Allies may have beaten the Turkish army, but they have not conquered the Turkish soldier. He has all the docility of a child, yet his courage is unsurpassed.

So writes Mr. Honohoe, whose account of the retreat of the Ottoman troops from Lule Burgas is quoted from elsewhere. One is compelled, he says, to pay a tribute of respect and of admiration to their stoicism—such fortitude in such circumstances may well excite the envy of European soldiers of all nations.

The Ottoman soldier as I have seen him during those awful five days of torture, suffering starvation and defeat, has always faced death cheerfully and uncomplainingly.

He went for days without food, and no murmur of reproach crossed his lips. When his weary, benumbed legs longer refused to support his emaciated body, he lay down and died complacently as if death from starvation was part of his every-day duty.

Meeting Death Calmly. No fear of his approaching end could be seen on his pain-racked features. In the firing-line he stood—seldom caring to take cover—with folded arms, his cartridge-pouch empty, his rifle useless, and took the fearful punishment meted out to him without wincing, and meeting death with calm composure.

Properly fed, properly fed, treated as an ordinary human being, he would go anywhere and do anything. He would easily conquer fresh worlds for Islam. It is comparatively easy to write panegyrics about the clan of soldiers in the flush of victory, but what of those who died during Abdullah's terrible retreat? What of those whose cup of bitterness overflowed with gallant humiliation?

Every soldier during this awful retreat was ten times a hero. Thousands of these brave fellows were sacrificed to the exigencies of war. Desolate homes in Anatolia and European Turkey bewail their loss.

They sleep their last sleep on the wide Thracian plain. May Allah, the Compassionate, look with pitying eye upon his dead children, and receive their souls in Paradise.

QUITE MISUNDERSTOOD.

A woman went to the Orient, and, coming back, was caught trying to smuggle in a lot of choice silks. She had to pay duty and a fine. Then there was talk of a criminal action to follow. Her son-in-law called on the customs officials.

"Is it possible," he asked in a severe tone, "after my mother-in-law has paid the duty on the stuff and her fine that you contemplate criminal action?"

"We are considering it," the customs official replied gravely.

"And if my mother-in-law were to be convicted, as she probably would be, she would have to go to jail?"

"I think so."

"Do you mean to tell me you intend to do this to a woman—a woman who has already expiated her fault and recompensed the government?"

"I do. But look here, old chap, don't take this too hard. I've got to do my duty, you know. Don't feel so badly about it."

"Badly!" shouted the son-in-law. "Why, my dear sir, this is the first gleam of sunshine that has entered my home in twenty years."

DARING ESCAPE OF PRISONER FROM TRAIN

One of Four Who Was Being Conveyed to Kamloops Jail

Port Hammond, Nov. 20.—One of four prisoners being conveyed to the Kamloops jail on Monday escaped from custody by jumping from a moving C. P. R. train as it was slowing up to pass some construction work between Port Hammond and Port Haney. One of the guards in charge of the prisoners, and Constable Pope, of Maple Ridge, are scouring the country for the prisoner. Permission being given the prisoner to go to the washroom, he ran to the platform at the end of the car, and, gaining it, jumped, handcuffed, from the train, and made a dash for liberty into the dense woods in the locality. New Westminster inquiries made here to-day of the local police establish the fact that the escaped prisoner is not from this city. The impression here is that he must be from Vancouver and was being transferred to Kamloops on account of the crowded jail conditions at Westminster.

REMARKABLE CO-INCIDENCE.

Earthquake in South Tramples on the Heels of Alaskan Earthquake.—Curious Phenomena.

A remarkable co-incidence recorded on the seismograph at the meteorological office yesterday came to light this morning when the sensitized bromide paper was developed. Yesterday an earthquake at Alaska set the pendulum of the local instrument vibrating at about six a. m. and they were continued for a little over an hour and a half. But before the shock had ceased, before the delicate pendulum of the instrument had gained its equilibrium, another quake, a very mild one, from the other extremity of the continent, that is, in Mexico, once more set the instrument vibrating.

SCHOONER WRECKED

cane estimated at 90 miles an hour, and timbers three-by-twelve and 28 feet long were blown clear as soon as the lashings were cut. Lightened of her deckload, the E. K. Wood rose a little, but she was a beaten craft in this fight against the elements, and soon sank down to the water's edge. The sails had long since been blown away, and then the mizzenmast crashed down. This was followed by the sparker boom, which fell across one of the boats and smashed it up, leaving the crew with only one small boat. The gale shifted to the southwest, and blew the wreck straight for the cliffs of Vancouver Island. The mainmast showed signs of going, and Mate West kept a watch on the weather shrouds. When the last shroud parted he yelled a warning, and the men fought for some shelter as the spar fell across the battered bulk with its tangled snarl of rigging.

It was a solemn time for the crew of the E. K. Wood. To leeward they could see the spouting breakers crashing on one of the most inhospitable coasts in the world. They had not slept for five days and nights, nor had they been dry. Seas swept over them, and, crouching under the lee of the mizzen, the nine men were silent for two or three hours.

"We never said a word. We thought we were finished," said Buckland. As a last resource, and fearing the wreck would break up under them, Captain Helquist ordered all hands into the remaining boat, which with its nine men was dangerously overcrowded. They got her clear and rose to leeward of the wreck, but all the time the cliffs loomed nearer. They were then off Junin Inlet, 20 miles southeast of Cape Cook. They had given up hope. The long exposure to the seas, the cold weather, the mad fight for life, and the death which seemed so close, all had battered the men into a stupor.

Then to their despairing gaze appeared a trail of smoke, and hope awoke again as the staunch Liverpool tug William Jolliffe, now acting as a fisheries cruiser, appeared from Junin Inlet and bore down to the wreck.

"When I made my second voyage to sea in the old ship Killen the William Jolliffe towed us out of Liverpool river," said Buckland. "I was pretty sick at going to sea behind her then, but I never felt so glad as when she came diving through the seas toward us last Sunday morning."

Speedily the powerful two-funnelled tug bore down and soon the men were aboard, but even then their fighting spirit remained and an effort was made to get a tow rope to the schooner. This was actually accomplished, and the William Jolliffe started to tow her to Junin Inlet. But the E. K. Wood was finished. Waterlogged and broken-backed, she was too sluggish a tow in such a sea and the wire parted. Not to be beaten, the men passed another hawser, but this also broke and then all hope of saving the schooner was given up and the Jolliffe hastened to an anchorage, where the shipwrecked men were attended to.

"I have been shipwrecked twice before on this coast," said Mate West, "but never have I received such kind treatment as accorded to us by Captain Newcombe and the others on the Jolliffe."

It was during the period when death loomed very near that Otto Anderson, a Scandinavian sailor, was washed overboard. Buckland, an English seaman, who has sailed the Seven Seas since boyhood, sprang over after him and managed to get his shipmate back on board. But Buckland says very little about this and Anderson's English is limited, and it is from other members of the crew that this brave act was chronicled.

All the men's clothing went with the wreck. They have no money, and they are at the office of Consul-General Wilbur awaiting a passage to Seattle.

MAJORITY WAS 111.

Passage of Resolution on Which Government Was Defeated.

London, Nov. 20.—The new financial resolution of the Home Rule bill was discussed in committee of the House. Austen Chamberlain remarked that if Ireland demanded separation she must bear the burden of her own financial responsibilities. Lloyd George declared that it would pay Britain well to have a prosperous Ireland and a prosperous West Indies and South Africa. Bonnar Law pointed out that Britain did not pay old age pensions in the colonies, and there was no sound reason why she should pay them in Ireland. Ireland, Sir F. Banbury moved to amend the resolution providing that payments for Irish services should not involve any charge on the British taxpayer. This was defeated by a majority of 115. The resolution was passed by a majority of 111.

AIRMAN MARRIED.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20.—Theodore G. Ellison, the navy's crack aviator, has launched out on a long journey with a passenger. The passenger, formerly Miss Helen M. Glenn, of New York, and now Mrs. Ellison, was married to the airman last Friday, but the marriage was kept secret until today.

"I thought you told me you were paying for a motor?"
"So I was."
"I don't see any motor."
"You haven't looked in the right place. Go and look in my green garage."

MINE TRAMWAY WRECKED.

Accident Due to Parting of Cable During Heavy Gale.

Seward, Alaska, Nov. 20.—While a fifty-mile gale was blowing at the plant of the Kenai, Alaska, Gold Company, on Falls Creek, at Mile 26 on the Alaska Northern Railway, the cable parted on the big new aerial tramway and in two minutes the $15,000 tramway was a mass of tangled wreckage.

It is not known just how the damage started, but the most plausible cause advanced is that the high wind got the loaded buckets to swinging and one of the ore cars came loose and started to race on the traction cable until it caught up with the bucket ahead and collided, jamming the bucket in a tower. The traction cable jumped, the strain parted the wire rope, and then the loaded buckets pulled the line through the upper terminal at racing speed and piled up the mass on the hill just above the mill. The broken cable ran down the hill and coiled and kninked until a careful examination shows that there is at least 2,000 feet of it that will be absolutely worthless and will have to be replaced with new cable.

Superintendent Hayden has a crew of men at work getting the cable out of the snow and will attempt to patch it up pending the arrival of new material and will try to fix up to run enough ore down to keep the mill going pending the arrival of new supplies.

TWO MERCHANTS KILLED.

Manitoba Men, Riding on Hand Car, Hit by Train.

Winnipeg, Nov. 20.—While riding on a handcar near Whitemouth, Man., at 7 o'clock this morning, two prominent residents of that town, Chas. Newles, merchant, and F. E. Nex, secretary-treasurer of the municipality, were killed, a light engine striking the car and demolishing it.

NEW POLICE CHIEF.

Vancouver, Nov. 20.—The police commissioners, at a special meeting yesterday afternoon, decided to offer the chiefship of the Vancouver department to Charles Mulhern, at present deputy chief constable. The deputy is at present on a visit to California. Deputy Chief Mulhern, who is by birth an Eastern Canadian, has been connected with the Vancouver police force in various executive capacities since 1897, and has during that time shown himself a most able officer and energetic organizer, also being very popular with his men.

IT CAN BE DONE.

"Even a policeman can't arrest the flight of time," said the funny man. "Oh, I don't know," rejoined the matter-of-fact person. "Only this morning I saw a policeman enter a hotel and stop a few minutes."

LOCUST RAID IN NATAL TERRITORY

How Warning Message is Sent From Point to Point

A message comes flashing along the wires from the northern territories. It is "taken off" at each telegraph station along the line and posted up on the windows of the office. It reads: "Swarm of locusts travelling down wards." The tidings, like most other bad news, travel fast, and all who are interested in the matter, and this means every one who possesses anything in the shape of vegetation, hastens to do what he can to safeguard his property from the approaching enemy. The northern territories are hundreds of miles from the coast line of Natal, and the telegraph message has taken the merest fraction of time to reach here, but the locusts travel with the wind, and the speed with which they cover distance is only equalled by the celerity with which they can transform a field of vegetation into a bare patch, and no time must be lost. Down here in Natal the coolies, who are the market-gardeners of the coast, hear the dread news with apprehension, for a temporary ruin stares them in the face. They crowd into their temples, carrying offerings to their gods, which they lay before him as a supplication for help in this dire emergency. Then they turn to more practical ways to save themselves. They collect quantities of damp wood and brush and stack this up in heaps round their gardens, and load the old blunderbusses with powder and shot, and search for the "tom-toms" and other musical instruments, so-called.

Locusts the Pest.

Messages follow each other quickly from district to district as the locusts travel on, each telling of devastation, and, with each wire notifying the nearer approach of the scourge, the coolie's heart grows more and more sad. Will the wind change? Some others will, of course, suffer if it should do so, but self-preservation is the first law of nature, and the threatened people think only of themselves, but the probability of the wind changing is very small. Will their gods help them and cause the locusts to pass by their own individual gardens? He did not do so last time. They remember now, with sorrow, that on this occasion, in their wrath at their loss, they removed the presents they had left at the foot of the gods instead of allowing them to remain there until they decayed or withered away. They wonder if he will remember this now and punish them for their contumacy.

Swarm Advances.

The swarm is travelling steadily on. It is a hundred miles away, and a hundred miles is nothing to this scourge. It is here at last, and the boys on the hills near by, who have just described the white cloud in the distance, appearing from where they stand like a heavy snowstorm, fire off the signal. The coolies rush to the heaps of fuel and set light to the dry straw that surmounts it, and the clouds of smoke ascend into the air. The women and children seize the tom-toms and beat them until their arms ache. The men fire off the guns. The noise is deafening, and the canopy of smoke adds to the inferno. But the locusts come on—they are with the wind, and cannot change their direction. Hundreds of thousands may perish in the smoke, but there are millions in the swarm. They settle on garden after garden, for a few moments, and then rise again and continue their flight to their inevitable destination—the open sea; but they leave ruin behind. The men are cursing and bewailing their misfortune, and the women and children are shrieking with grief and anger. But they soon bow to the inevitable. It is past; nothing can be done now but set to work again, and hope for better fortune with the next crop. — Christian World.

DRUNKENNESS CAN BE CURED.

Old Fallacy That Drunkenness Cannot Be Cured Exploded.

Many men drink who desire to stop the habit. Whiskey, however, has undermined the constitution and created a craving that is not to be denied and the man must have whiskey or something that will remove the craving and build up the system and restore the nerves.

Samaria Prescription stops the craving, steadies the nerves, builds up the general health and makes drink actually distasteful and nauseous. It is tasteless and odorless and can be given with or without the patient's knowledge, in tea, coffee, or food. It is used regularly by physicians and hospitals. It has cured thousands in Canada, and restored happiness to hundreds of homes.

Read what Mrs. G., of Hull, says of it and what it did for her. "It is four months to-day since I started to use your remedy. I followed the directions and had the best of results. One week after I started using your remedy the patient stopped drinking and has not drunk a glass of liquor since. I hope you will accept my heartfelt thanks. Hoping God will bless your remedy wherever tried, I remain, Mrs. G., Hull, Que."

(Name withheld by request). Now, if there is anyone in your town who needs this remedy, tell them of it. Practical philanthropy can take no better form. If you have a husband, father, brother or friend who drinks, help them help themselves. Write to day.

A FREE TRIAL PACKAGE of Samaria with booklet giving full particulars, directions, testimonials, price, etc. will be sent in a plain sealed package to anyone mentioning Correspondence sacredly confidential. Write to-day. The Samaria Remedy Co., Dept. 75, 49 Colborne St., Toronto, Canada. Also for sale at Hall & Co's Drug Store, Cor. Yates and Douglas Sts., Victoria, B. C.

THE VINTAGE OF MONTMARTRE.

All Montmartre, home of artists, artists and cabarets, is celebrating a great event, an event which is celebrated each year in October and in times gone by with much more fervor than nowadays. The Montmartre vintage of 1912 is being gathered and the Butte goes about it just as they do in Bourgoigne or Medoc.

Modernism, just as it has pushed over the ancient mills one after another has desecrated the once famous vineyards of the Butte until now only one vineyard is left, that belonging to M. Maurice Neumont, an artist. It is very small and clings as it were to the side of the hill. The owner fears that it will not survive many more seasons. Along with the vineyards of Argenteuil and Suresnes the vineyards of Montmartre long ago enjoyed a wide reaching fame, for the wine from Montmartre was always sent to the King. The King's portion was called the Goutte d'Or, and this name is found to-day belonging to one of the sections of Clignancourt, just north of Montmartre.

Paris in the twelfth century was a vast vineyard belonging to various religious sects, but in place of them to-day are modern apartment houses of five stories, the Paris skyscrapers. Among the old vineyards some of the most famous were those of Saint Germain des Pres, Saint Victor, Sainte Catherine, the Temple, Saint Lazare, the Courtille and the Filles-Dieu. The Montmartre vineyard belonged to the Saint Benoit monastery and in its place now stands the Red Mill, a rather infamous cabaret.—New York Times Paris Correspondent, October 3.

Subdivision Acreage OF PROSPECT LAKE WATERFRONT $265 PER ACRE

This property lies within a quarter of a mile of the electric car line.

A good motor road right down to the lake front is built through it.

Waterfront lots of the same quality of land, 50x150 ft., on the lake sold last summer at $500 each. Note that we can deliver this land at HALF that price per ACRE.

While there is a considerable amount of tree covered rock, this tract would subdivide splendidly into one to five-acre blocks and 50x120 ft. lots for summer homes on and near the waterfront.

A glance at the map will show how close it is to the city via the electric railway.

Will you let us show you this in the morning?

BIRTHDAY CALENDAR

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY

Do whatever falls to your lot with care and patience. The best way is steady perseverance, but do not allow spite or dull routine to take the place of studying plans for your own advancement.

Those born to-day, though careless and wasteful, will have fine minds. Their worst faults will be cruelty and passion. With these handicaps comes the strength to win in spite of them, and future greatness is in store for them.

A SCOTCHMAN'S VIEW.
Sir Archibald Geikie, the famous geologist, tells a story of a Scotchman who, much against his own will, was persuaded to take a holiday.

He went to Egypt and visited the Pyramids. After gazing for some time at the Great Pyramid, he muttered: "Man, what a lot of mason-work not to be brought in any rent!"

Have you never in great assemblies, experienced that poignant sensation of nothingness, that atony feeling, as if you were a negligible grain of dust in a mighty heap?

"Have you ever," asks Bagshot, "stood outside a public meeting and heard the applause but not the speaker? How absurd and meaningless it all sounds! There are moments when one stands outside of life in just such a way. One hears the noises, but one has no clue to the meaning."

PRESIDENT-ELECT IN BERMUDA.
Hamilton, Bermuda, Nov. 19.—President-elect Woodrow Wilson declared to-day that he was beginning to forget politics. Mrs. Wilson and the other members of the family have been busily engaged in unpacking. The injury received by Mr. Wilson in an automobile accident before the election does not trouble him any more. The plaster covering the wound on his head came off to-day, showing that the abrasion had healed.

BETWIXT AND BETWEEN.
"I see you have my pamphlet on your desk," said the economist. "What do you think of it?"

"It's betwixt and between," answered the heartless friend. "It's too light for an argument and not heavy enough for a paper-weight."

IDEAS OF A PLAIN MAN BY DR. FRANK CRANE

In it, but not of it: Have you never had that feeling about the whole world?

Have you never, at a merry-making, had a moment in a corner aside when you looked upon the whole company as in a dream, as if it were a vision and you were only a stanger and an onlooker?

Have you never, in a city, had that bitter-sense of isolation, as though it were all a huge machine rolling on with utter indifference to you?

Have you never, even in your family, felt, perhaps on a winter night, while all about you your own people were sleeping, that somehow the whole company were distant from you, as if a ship of souls sailing through the sea of night, leaving you alone upon an island?

Have you never in great assemblies, experienced that poignant sensation of nothingness, that atony feeling, as if you were a negligible grain of dust in a mighty heap?

"Have you ever," asks Bagshot, "stood outside a public meeting and heard the applause but not the speaker? How absurd and meaningless it all sounds! There are moments when one stands outside of life in just such a way. One hears the noises, but one has no clue to the meaning."

ARMY IMMIGRANTS ARE OF THE BEST TYPE

Provincial Minister Praises the Settlers Brought Here by Salvation Army

The minister of agriculture was waited upon yesterday by Commissioner David M. Rees, of the Salvation Army, who came to discuss with him the work which is being done by the Salvation Army in bringing immigrants into this province. The Army receives from the province a considerable annual subvention and in return brings out west domestic servants and farm laborers.

According to the minister the helpers brought out so far have proved eminently satisfactory; the only drawback being that there are not enough to supply an apparently insatiable demand. Seventy servants who landed recently in Vancouver all obtained immediate employment in that city while Victoria is still complaining that she cannot get enough.

Hon. Price Ellison speaks with praise of the families brought out to Vernon some time ago by the Army agency. These people have proved themselves to be most desirable citizens and in many cases have already become holders of property. The arrangement with the Army provides just the right kind of settlers at comparatively insignificant cost and the establishment of immigration machinery on any other scale for the attraction of settlers would cost infinitely more and bring forth in all probability, inferior results.

SOME UNEARNED INCREMENT.

London, Nov. 20.—The vested interests of the great landlords of South St. Pancras were strongly attacked by the progressives in the recent elections. It was stated that land which in 1774 was rented at $25,000 is now rented at $10,500,000.

Nurse (to young doctor)—Your practice is waiting, sir. Shall I show him in?

ATTORNEY-GENERAL IS BACK FROM THE EAST

And Reports a Successful Trip—Sir Richard Comes Few Days Later

Hon. W. J. Bowser, attorney-general, returned to the city yesterday from Ottawa. D. N. McIntyre, assistant commissioner of fisheries, and Lawrence Macrae, private secretary to the Premier, are also back, but Sir Richard is not expected until the end of the week, having remained in Los Angeles.

The attorney-general reports a successful trip. He has nothing to say regarding the reported settlement of the Songhees reserve difficulties, as he has no knowledge of the details of whatever arrangement has been made.

These will be given out by Sir Richard McBride upon his return.

Practically all the information obtainable from Mr. Bowser has been published in the local press telegraph dispatches, including the impending appointment of a federal royal commission to inquire into better terms, the drill hall site, military reserve at Point Grey naval reserve at English bay, appointment of a commission to inquire into Indian reserves, and fisheries question.

PARLIAMENT TO OPEN TO-MORROW

RT. HON. R. L. BORDEN, PRIME MINISTER OF CANADA.

ST. JOHN'S OLD CHURCH.
Tenders Called For Removal of Old Iron Church on Douglas Street.

The trustees of St. John's Anglican church have called for tenders for pulling down the old church at the intersection of Douglas street and Flanagan street, and this will be done shortly.

According to the statement made at the annual court of the governors of the Hudson's Bay Company no steps will be taken to build their departmental store on the site till spring.

This church, which is now to be removed, with the advance on construction of the new place of worship on Quadra street, is the iron edifice which was consecrated in September, 1860, and was brought out from England in parts by Bishop Hills. It was found not to be in a suitable condition for removal when examined. The memorial to be removed to the new church, upon which Parfitt Brothers have made good progress.

SPRAYING FRUIT TREES.

To the Editor: In your edition of the 15th there appeared another letter from Mr. James Simpson in which he uses many words and says nothing worth while. He wishes the government to start an experimental orchard on spraying and non-spraying. It must be conceded by every thinking man that all departments of the British Columbia government are badly in need of reform, but the men in control of the Department of Agriculture are not so utterly foolish as to waste money experimenting on what has already been abundantly demonstrated. It would be just as sensible to ask that expensive experiments be made to prove that the power of steam can be practically applied.

Mr. Simpson wants to know where a single clean orchard can be found in Canada. Probably absolute perfection has not been obtained, but, thanks to careful spraying there are many orchards very nearly perfect. Perfection is an impossibility in this world, which is a good thing, as otherwise we would have nothing left to strive for. The Scripture says, "There is none righteous, no, not one," but yet we meet some fairly decent fellows as we go along.

Mr. Simpson argues that because he won a few prizes at a flower show he is, therefore, a skilled orchardist. If he can convince others of that, there is many a good position open to him, but so long as he persists in stating that black is white he will gain but few golden opinions.

Unfortunately there are many orchards, particularly on the coast, which are sadly neglected, and often where spraying is done the work is performed so indifferently that little good is effected, but in every case where the instructions given by the Department of Agriculture have been conscientiously carried out remarkable results have been obtained. In some cases orchards which had not produced a saleable apple for years are now yielding abundant crops of No. 1 fruit.

An addition to the anecdotes about Lincoln is contributed by Madame de Hegemann-Lindencrone, whose book of memoirs, "In the Courts of Memory," has just been published. At the Sanitary Fair held in Philadelphia in 1864 Mme. de Hegemann-Lindencrone, then Mrs. Moulton, was asked to sing

Importation of Gold Would Have Beneficial Results in Market

New York, Nov. 20.—The news from abroad was more reassuring, it being said that hostilities had ceased and an armistice arranged, and London and the continent were credited with having bought American issues moderately. Foreign exchange has nearly reached the level at which gold imports could profitably be made, so that the foreign news to-day was scanned rather closely.

Should the yellow metal be obtainable in quantity in the near future the same would do much towards benefiting domestic monetary conditions.

WHEAT MARKETS STILL SHOW UNCERTAINTY

Chicago, Nov. 20.—Action in wheat to-day was something of a surprise to a majority of the wheat trade. News was of a moderately bearish character at the outset, and prices dropped off. Near the close there was a temporary rally about yesterday's close. It was helped by a direct Argentine cable claiming too much rain in Buenos Ayres. Winnipeg has reported an embargo against further shipments of wheat to Fort William because of the quantities of grain piled up there. Stocks are accumulating in Chicago, and at all other centers with no adequate milling demand, and no hope of export business because of the under selling by Canada, Russia and Argentina. Without a calamity to the Argentine crop which is not now in sight, bull features are lacking. The demoralized break in cash corn prices in southwest markets is simply a readjustment of that property in line with the break which has occurred in corn futures in Chicago. Shorts in December corn indulged in a buying spree the first hour. Most of the fractional advance was held. Oats were firmer.

SEVERE SENTENCE.

Montreal, Nov. 20.—Nine lashes with the "cat" as soon as he enters the penitentiary, was the sentence imposed in the court of the King's Bench to-day on Alfred Beauchamp, a special constable, who has been found guilty of assault. Beauchamp had already been sentenced to four years for robberies, in which he had made use of his constable's badge to gain entrance to houses.

BUILDINGS MAINTAIN FIGURE.

High School Permit Will Be Issued This Month—New Methodist Parsonage.

The building permits were issued this morning to Lemon, Gonnason and Company, Ltd., for the compressed fuel factory on George Road near Garbally Road, and the new Methodist Parsonage at Victoria West.

In the former case the building will cost $7,000, and its purpose was fully explained to the city council on Monday, when the application was forwarded to the authority by the inspector. The industry will manufacture the refuse of various kinds from the sawmills for fuel purposes. Machinery to the value of $20,000 will be installed. Smith and Adams took out the permit for the parsonage at Victoria West. It will be located on McPherson street, and will be an accessory to the new church rapidly approaching completion, which is to be opened by Dr. Chown next month. The cost of the building is $3,700.

Mr. Northcott said this morning that he expected to issue the permit for the High School, for which application has been made by the architect, during this month, and together with the Dominion theatre, for which plans had been deposited, it would carry the total to seven and a quarter million dollars by the end of next week. This theatre on Yates street would represent an investment of $60,000, and would swell the permits for November, which stood at about $220,000 to date.

PETITION MINISTER FOR CONNECTING ROAD

Minister of Public Works Requested to Build Road From Cowichan Lake to Alberni

For some months agitation has been on foot among the inhabitants of Cowichan, Alberni and Port Alberni for the building of a road between Cowichan lake and the Alberni canal. Various public bodies in the towns named have not with the object of consolidating on this point and their joint conferences have resulted in a petition to the Hon. Minister of Public Works.

The exact wording of the petition is as follows:

"Whereas there is a large tract of good land between Cowichan lake and the Alberni canal;

"And whereas a wagon road about thirty miles from the lake to the canal would open up this district for settlers, and could readily be extended into the Bamfield district and the Alberni valley;

"And whereas the proposed road will be part of a belt highway connecting the roads to Long Beach and to Strathcona park with the main Island Highway near Duncan, thus giving an alternative tourist route passing through valuable land and also through country of scenic magnificence.

"And whereas the contractors for the building of the Canadian Northern railway are willing to share the expense of the said road;

"We, the undersigned, respectfully request that an engineer be sent immediately over the proposed road to report on same and that, if the road is found practicable the government assist in building the said road forthwith."

Considered Matters of Interest in Daughters of Empire Work.

The regular monthly meeting of the Florence Nightingale Chapter of the Daughters of Empire was held yesterday afternoon at the Alexandra Club, the regent, Mrs. Hasell, presiding. In addition to the reading of the treasurer's report, which showed a balance of $68 in hand, a number of letters were read, one from the Gonzales Chapter, thanking the chapter for their hospitality on "Trafalgar Day," when Dr. Home and Rev. E. G. Miller gave address, and the guests entertained to tea. A letter was also read from the Lady Douglas chapter, reminding the members of the demonstration of dancing which is to be given on November 28, by Miss Swepstone, between the hours of 4 and 6.

The National Chapter wrote a letter of greeting and suggestions, and a letter was read from the Victoria League in which nurses coming to this province from England were commended to the attention of the members. Suggestions were thrown out regarding the financial part of the work, and one of these, that a nurse should be trained for the work in India, was seriously considered, another suggestion being that of the endowment of a bed to be known as a Daughters of Empire bed for one of the Indian hospitals. Four new members were welcomed: Mrs. Oliver, Mrs. E. V. Heaton, Miss Sylvester and Miss Ruby Sylvester. A committee of three, consisting of Mrs. W. A. Jamieson, Mrs. H. Catterall, and Miss Gossman, was appointed to look into the possible field for doing Christmas work along the lines which the chapter has specially assumed.

PRICE OF RETAIL MEAT WILL BE STEADY

Opinion of Rancher From Lillooet District—Breaking Up of Holdings

In the opinion of J. S. Place, a well-known rancher of the Dog Creek district, the price of meat to the retail trade will not see much diminution in the next few months.

Mr. Place, who is at the Dominion hotel on business, said that the transportation problem had a considerable effect on the price of meat, and probably with the opening of the railway now under construction by the Pacific Great Eastern Company the ranchers would be able to get supplies to market in excellent shape. At the present time they had to drive stock 100 miles to Ashcroft to be shipped, and it had a material effect on the price "on foot" paid at point of delivery to the vendee's cars. When they had rail transportation the ranchers of the Lillooet would be able to ship more readily to the Coast, as well as be benefited by the opening up of central British Columbia.

The reason why he expressed the opinion that the retail price of meat to the consumers was expected to continue was the fact that many of the Alberta and Saskatchewan ranches had been divided into farms, and there was not the cattle in the country there had been in the past. The stock shipped to Chicago and other American markets always paid the rancher better than the Canadian purchasers were willing to do.

The cattle principally raised around him were Herefords and Durhams, cross-breeding of these varieties providing a class of hardy stock suitable for

DEFENCE CALLING ITS WITNESSES

PROSECUTION CLOSES MANSLAUGHTER CASE

Magistrate's Comment on Evidence Discovered but Not Presented at Inquest

Continuing the case for the prosecution in the preliminary hearing of the manslaughter charge against John A. Rithet yesterday afternoon, Dr. H. J. Wasson gave evidence of the cause of death of Jim Soon, repeating his statement made at the inquest the previous afternoon. The case for the defence, with J. A. Alkman and A. P. Luxton, immediately commented on the fact that the prosecution had not called the men who were in the machine with Mr. Rithet when the accident happened.

Mr. Maclean said it was remarkable that as the men were in court, the prosecution had not called them, and went on to ask for a dismissal on the ground that there had been no actual eye-witness of the accident produced. He further held there was absolutely no evidence of negligence by Mr. Rithet.

There was no wound on the man's body, continued Mr. Maclean, and no evidence that the automobile had struck the deceased. Dr. Wasson had said death was due to a wound on the head. If a man on the street had suddenly jumped back on being surprised by an approaching automobile and had fallen backward striking his head and cracked his skull, the driver of the automobile could not be held guilty of manslaughter, Mr. Maclean contended, and said there was nothing in the evidence given that would show anything different had occurred to a rupture of a blood vessel which may have taken place before the automobile reached him. The evidence, he held, was trumped up and was not supported by evidence of reputable men who were in the car and attending the court who could be called as witnesses. He said the case for the crown was the wildest conjecture.

Before asking if the defence had witnesses to call, Magistrate Jay said he was conducting a preliminary hearing and not a trial. He had to see if there was evidence to justify a trial being held. He read the statement the accused had signed in the police station, and said that as far as the hearing had gone he was of the opinion there was sufficient to justify him sending the accused up.

The statement signed by accused and read by the magistrate was as follows: "I ran into a Chinaman and knocked him down. This Chinaman appeared to me to be in a dazed condition as if he had been using some dope."

The dazed condition, said Mr. Jay, must have been that of the Chinese before the machine struck him. Then the accused must have seen the Chinese before he knocked him down. In addition, said the magistrate, there is the constable's evidence regarding Mr. Rithet's condition. "I would be pleased," he added, "to learn the statements are incorrect, but subject to what evidence the defence may submit, I now think there is evidence to send the case up."

car went on he saw the Chinese evidently in deep thought with his hands in his pockets. The cover of the car was up. There was no collision. He heard a "clap" and thought it was when the man's head struck the sidewalk. When he went back Mr. Stevenson found the man lying with his feet to the car track and at a right angle to the path the car had taken. Witness was the first man there. It would be ridiculous to say the car had passed over the Chinese, for he was never in the light.

Through cross-examination Mr. Harrison learned that Mr. Stevenson had met Mr. Rithet and other men at the Pacific Club about 6 o'clock on Friday night, and that they drank champagne. The men in the party were Rithet, Crowe, Gowen, Bone, Watson and witness. Mr. Gowen did not drink. Mr. Stevenson said he had a couple and could not say how many Mr. Rithet had. It might have been four. The party went to the New England from the club at 12.55 a.m., where another bottle of wine was shared between Rithet, Crowe and Watson. They were going home when they met Mr. White on the sidewalk and he assisted in starting the machine. Mr. Rithet told him to jump in and he would take Mr. White home. They were proceeding to Mr. White's home when the accident happened.

Mr. Harrison tried to ascertain from the witness the speed the machine was making. The witness said 10 to 11 miles, and when it was put to him that he could not be certain the machine was not going at 14 miles, he admitted it was impossible to say the exact speed, but would nevertheless say he did not think it was exceeding 14 miles an hour. He said he called to Mr. Rithet "look out," when he saw the map on the road, and that Mr. Rithet did not alter his course or apply the brakes, because he did not have time. The lights were burning brightly, he thought, but was not sure.

BRITISH PICTURES.

Old Country Films Are Being Exhibited at the Victoria Theatre.—Great Variety.

A series of All-British films is being exhibited at the Victoria theatre this week and is attracting a good deal of attention. The pictures cover a wide range of subjects from the "Mighty Atom" dealing with an episode in the frontier wars, most realistically portrayed, to a film depicting Professor Loxhite's beetles. The latter film is a marvelous reproduction of the life in the minute world and is pictured with the marvelous detail that only the latest microscopic photography can portray. Other pictures were equally successful and the entire program was hugely enjoyed. Another film displayed the glories of Scottish Highland scenery and one or two comic selections added to the enjoyment of an all round program.

All the pictures are of British make and performances will be given every afternoon and evening throughout the week.

NOTED AIRMAN IN CITY YESTERDAY

R. F. E. Wickham, Pupil of Grahame-White, May Fly From Victoria to Seattle

R. F. E. Wickham, one of the twenty certified airmen of the British Aero Club, was in the city yesterday trying to make arrangements for exhibition flights round the city and accounts with a passenger from here to Seattle. His idea is to build a floating hangar and make trial trips across the harbor before attempting to make the first flight across the straits. Mr. Wickham has had many experiences and hairbreadth escapes during his comparatively short span of life, his most notable escape being when his machine buckled up during a flight at Nice in the Riviera, the intrepid airman managing to fall clear of the engine.

A pupil of that prince of aviators, Claude Grahame-White, Mr. Wickham has made many flights in the south of France, in England and in other parts

HENRI BOURASSA AND HIS POLITICAL "CREED"

Before the members of the McGill Canadian Club recently, Henri Bourassa explained why he was against colonial aid in Imperial defence by direct contribution of money or ships; and expressed his doctrine, to the effect that the best help Canada can give the Empire is to strengthen herself. To do that, he said, she should develop a strong militia, rather than one which was the laughing stock of the experts of Europe, should fortify her sea ports, and should turn all her energies towards the development of her own resources. It was one of the most complete pronouncements of his policy Mr. Bourassa has ever made, and, arriving at the present time, was of especial interest.

His speech in addition to being an expression of his creed, was a demand for the right to hold the opinions he holds without being accused of being a demagogue and a traitor, and he quoted at length from the statements of Sir Charles Tupper, which, Le Maitre said, expressed his own sentiments exactly. Sir Charles Tupper had not been considered a traitor because he harbored such views. He called upon the students not to allow it to be said that in Quebec a French-Canadian had not a right to express himself freely and frankly on affairs of this kind, without receiving the same treatment as an English Canadian expressing similar views.

The Relations With Britain.
"You cannot expect a French-Canadian not of the British race to approach this from the same standpoint as an English-Canadian," he said.

There were two aspects to the question. First: Must we contribute to Imperial defence? Second: If so, in what form?

To decide these questions, the first thing to know was the real relations between Great Britain and the self-governing colonies, the principles underlying the Imperial fabric.

He discussed this question, pointing out that while the right of the colonial community to self-government was unquestioned, there were certain restrictions which were strongly insisted upon.

For instance, a foreigner could not become a naturalized British subject by residence in Canada. Neither Sir Thomas Shaughnessy or Sir Wm. Van Horne, much as they had done toward building up Canada, were British subjects unless they got their rights by residence in Great Britain, and from the British government.

There was no Canadian copyright law recognized in other countries, and the British government had always refused to grant it.

Canada could not extradite from any country with which Great Britain did not have a treaty.

She had no merchant ships, and, "You hear," he said, "that Canada should help the Imperial navy because it protects the Canadian mercantile marine on the high seas. Canada has no mercantile marine on the high seas. The moment Canada's ships get three miles from shore, they are no longer Canadian ships, but under the absolute control of British shipping laws, and at the last Imperial Conference, it was made clear that Great Britain wanted to retain this right."

Where the Difference Lies.
No representative of Canada in a foreign country dared put the Canadian coat of arms on his door. He recalled the scandal that was caused when this happened in Antwerp, and after extensive government correspondence, the insignia had to be wiped off.

"I don't give you these facts to develop any feeling of grievance," he said. "I don't feel any myself." (Applause.)
"As long as the British government is responsible for the foreign policy of the Empire, it is right that it should be known that there is only one authority."

"But when we are told that Canada is a nation, and should partake of the burdens on the same footing as the inhabitants of the British Isles—I call your attention to the fact that a slight difference exists."

He went on to point out the sovereignty that Great Britain holds over India with her three hundred million people, and forty separate nations, and indicated that a great deal of her foreign policy was directed toward the protection of that immense section of the Empire.

"And are we, who are not yet put our own house in order, to be asked to rule that Empire, to save it from disruption?"

"When was Canada ever consulted on the German menace—or any other big foreign question?"

The German Menace.
"If there is a German menace it is a fabric built up from the foreign policy of British statesmen for a century, and in the carrying out of that policy, Canada has never been consulted."

Hon. Richard McBride wants a fleet in the Pacific to protect the west coast of Canada from Japan.

"It was largely due to Great Britain that Japan became the Great Britain of the South," said the speaker, "and if there is a threat to Great Britain on the sea, it will come, not from the North Sea, but from the South. Canada was never consulted in the policy that brought that situation about."

"I do not say these things to stimulate prejudice," said Mr. Bourassa, "but I say that before the Canadian people put their hands in their pockets to throw a few millions into the British exchequer, they should consider these things."

"Great Britain never pays a farthing for the defence of Canada or any other of the self-governing colonies. She keeps up her army and navy for the protection of her Crown colonies and her own British islands. She is bound to have a fleet big enough to keep the seas open in time of war, to get the corn necessary to feed her people, who would starve in six weeks if the supply from outside was cut off. Should Canada to-day be detached from the British Empire, she could not spare a single ship or a single gun."

Canada Doing Her Duty.
He quoted from Hon. C. J. Doherty, who had declared that Canada had no obligation, legally or constitutionally speaking, to contribute to Empire defence. He also quoted from Sir Charles Tupper when the latter denied that Canada was a burden to the Empire, and declared that were Canada to be cut off to-day, Great Britain would at once have to increase her ships and men; that there was not a pound of British money spent in Canada for Canadian purposes; and that Canada was discharging her duty to Great Britain loyally and well.

"If it is to-day disloyal and cowardly for me to say these things, why was it not so for Sir Charles Tupper?" asked Mr. Bourassa.

"But must we contribute? Yes, we must, in the most effective way possible, and in a way to appease the passions aroused by yellow journals interested in profits from the sale of gun mountings."

He quoted from a memorandum which he said had been distributed secretly in England, written by Col. Nathan, the effect of which was that Great Britain wanted to keep the navy to herself, and the colonies should organize their own defences.

Must Improve Militia.
"In Canada," said Mr. Bourassa, "the first thing to be done is to make our militia something more than the laughing stock of the experts of Europe. I do not say that in disparagement of the brave men seriously interested in its welfare, but because for fifty years it has been used as a means of political favor."

"General French, in polite terms, intimidated to Canadian authorities that the Canadian militia was a farce. 'Let us start at the beginning and make of the militia a real defence force. Then organize the defence of our ports. Is it not ridiculous that a country which has yet hundreds of millions to spend on her own self-development, should have boats in the North Sea when her ports through which the grain goes to feed the British Empire remain unprotected from the smallest American submergence? British authorities have indicated that the port of Halifax is all right, except that it is about twenty years behind the times.'

Federal Taxes High.
"The people of Great Britain pay the price of their sovereignty in their military taxation. But it must be remembered that in Canada we pay more federal taxes than are paid in England, Scotland and Ireland combined. The reason is that public works in England are practically perfect. Here we have still everything to build. And in order to do this work of development, we have to borrow from London bankers—who do not reduce the rates of interest one farthing because we are a colony."

"They tell us now that the English market is glutted with Canadian securities—yet they ask us to go over there; that thirty-five million dollars worth of bonds, then go down Fleet Street and through the money into the British Treasury; I have no English blood in my veins, but if I had I would be insulted if I were told that the settlers of Canada must give England $55,000,000 to save her from the German peril."

He went on to discuss the German peril, and declared that it was inspired by members of the Admiralty and newspapers who had an interest in the profits of the Krupp firm, builders of the German navy. He quoted from Lord Bessborough's book, "The Betrayal," and other authorities, and declared:

"I refuse to ask the Canadian people to fall into the delusion, into which the firm of Krupp, in collusion with corrupt members of the British Admiralty and English shipbuilders, have led the people of England."

The Laurier naval policy had been passed on the declaration of Asquith and McKenna, that Great Britain was in immediate danger from Germany. McKenna had afterward admitted that he had deceived the people. Winston Churchill, his successor, had said that England could meet Germany with ships, two to one, and Asquith had said Great Britain could face any combination it was reasonable to expect.

Roberts and Conscript.
"But you say: 'What about the alarm of Lord Roberts?' I heard him give the same alarm eleven years ago, but it isn't. Dreading nothing, he wants it's conscription. Asquith, Grey, Russell, Churchill and Bessborough may all be here, but I have formed the habit of thinking that the men who are ruling the British Empire are among the most worthy and trustworthy of the world."

"Not for a moment," concluded Mr. Bourassa, "do I think that the young men of Canada should have to choose between their rights and duties as members of the British race, and their rights and duties as Canadians. But it seems to me not unworthy that we should ask all Canadians to join hands to first make of Canada the strongest part of the British Empire, financially, morally and physically."

"That is far better than trying to make false sentiments of Imperial unity, regardless of geographical and other conditions."

The development of a Canadian sentiment would guard against the penetration of American ideas and methods, which I do not despise," he said, "but which I dread as against the best ideal of British citizenship."

"We have in Canada differences of race and religion. We will have more of them with the increasing influx of foreigners. You cannot develop in the foreigner the same purely mental attitude toward Great Britain that you have, but what you can accomplish is to create among the people a common sentiment for this portion of the Empire, and in that way we will make Canada the strongest portion of the Empire."

UNCONVENTIONAL STUDY OF THE TURKISH CAPITAL

Despite four years of alleged constitutional government, Constantinople remains very much what it was in the days of Abdul-Hamid. The dogs have nearly all disappeared. A new bridge has been built over the Golden Horn. But the city remains millions of miles behind the states of the civilized world in Europe, and, under its present rulers, no considerable progress need ever be expected from it.

The Fate of Art. . . . The Grandé Rue de Pera and its contributions to the north enable one to understand the Macedonian question. The trouble in both places is not so much misrule as absence of rule. Imagine an Eng- in which all the component elements lived together, speaking different languages, and having different customs and different religions. You have the Ancient Britons plundered and the British sold as slaves by their captains, and the Danes, Celts, Romans, Picts, and others by their respective leaders. At the head of all you have the soldier. Normans dominating the country, not by just and regular laws, but by constant exceptions and periodical massacres.

great church: on one remains, the wonderful cathedral of Santa Sofia; but, even if the Turks are now driven out of Europe, their conquerors may be too late to save this precious fane, which received such injuries in the last great earthquake, that, if not repaired soon, it will be for ever beyond repair.

The Chaos of the Street.

All this does not, however, affect the question of the Turk's desirability as a citizen of Europe. What does seriously matter is the inability of the Ottoman to rule and to keep order. I shall not go into the details of this matter; I shall go further than the Grande Rue de Pera. This street is the most European in the Ottoman dominions; nevertheless, it is a striking example of the fundamental defect in Turkish rule, namely the principle of not ruling if it wants money or when it suspects discontent. That is its only idea of rule. With inconsistency with the complex problems of economy, the Turk seems constitutionally unable to grapple. In educational establishments here, Turkish boys sometimes learn our Western text-books by heart, but they afterwards seem to be as incapable of applying our theories in practice as we are of applying our theories to the Oriental mind. Most of the Turkish captains and law-givers in the past were entirely of foreign blood.

at all, but just letting things drift. Imagine a street with the traffic of the Strand, but only half as wide. The sidewalks are broad enough for two people, not lot broad enough for two, or, at any rate, for two persons accustomed to the illimitable space of the desert like most of the natives one meets here.

In the variegated crowd of unassimilated nationalities which congest it at all times, half a dozen different languages are represented, and now in any one group take the trouble to learn the language of any other group. Since the Tower of Babel there has never been such a 'linguistic mix-up,' and the poorest of the languages, from a literary and philological point of view, is the Turkish. Strange as it may seem, no two people who try to pass one another in the Grande Rue de Pera have the same rule of the road, with the result that bumping and colliding is the order of the day. One man opens an umbrella or, to carry a stick. Down the middle of the street runs a broken-

The Men of War.

For on thing, however, the Turk is well suited—for war. And during these days we are having a stupendous proof of that one fell capacity. For months at a time you do not see a Turk in Pera. He is in his little konak on the Bosphorus: He is in his government office at Stamboul: He is in his barracks at Taksim. But he is here now with a vengeance: Day and night the hordes of Asia Minor are pouring through Pera and Galata and Stamboul on their way to the front. The warlike old Sultans decided to desolate Hungary or to besiege Vienna, they ordered the banners to assemble outside the Adrianople gate. The banners are assembling there to-day, perhaps for the last time. As tent flags are taken from leather cases, sable silk flags with golden tinsels on the Koran embroidered in it. They may have saved the fields of Adana and the banks of the Euphrates, but he Da'ud' and the Nile.

easily save himself from a watery grave by simply throwing a portable life insurance policy into the sea. With a handy life insurance policy of this kind to be obtained at the price of a little effort, it can be understood that the struggle for the pole is a distinctly strenuous one.—Wide World Magazine.

Victoria Had Romance Before Marriage Just Like Ordinary Girls

London, Nov. 11.—Queen Victoria's "Girlhood," as the two volumes of diaries from 1830 to 1840 published this week are entitled, show that the young Queen had, as most girls have, a romance before her marriage.

It was a very pleasant almost an idyllic one. The young Queen's girlish imagination was undoubtedly improved by the personal charm of her minister, Lord Melbourne, who was a longer young but, neither was he old. Her Majesty thought him "the finest specimen of manly beauty in the meridian of life I ever saw."

The fatherless girl was thrown into the daily society of the wifeless and childless man. The young Queen, who had hitherto been brought up almost exclusively a woman and whose opportunities for intercourse with the leading men of the time had been very few, had now the daily society of one of the most accomplished, charming, and experienced of all the group.

Between sovereign and minister was the relationship of affectionate regard and admiring respect on one side and of paternal solicitude and tender care, touched by chivalrous emotion on the other, to which every page in the Queen's journals bears witness. The excellent instruction which the minister gave her in history and the practice of the Constitution is generally known, but the journals show with how much tact and geniality it was imparted with a thousand intimate touches which reveal the relationship in which the minister stood to the girl, who at once was his pupil and his sovereign.

HANDY LIFE INSURANCE.

A curious festival takes place annually in the village of Inocho, in the southern province of Japan. The festival is called the Omata, and attracts large crowds from the neighboring districts. The young men, stripping off their clothing, take their position in a rice field, where they struggle violently with one another for the possession of a decorat bamboo pole. The man who succeeds in pulling the pole down promptly cuts it into pieces, which he distributes among his less fortunate competitors, retaining a portion for himself. It is believed that if anyone meets with a storm out at sea he can

STRIKE RIOTS IN VIRGINIA.

Charleston, W. Va., Nov. 13.—Armed men fired into the town of Standard on Paint Creek, this afternoon and while the shooting continued for some time, no one is known to have been wounded. Later a train loaded with strikebreakers was fired on and a squad of militiamen on board replied. Twenty-five arrests were made to-day in the martial law district. Among the prisoners are three women.

GOOD-LOOKING SCHOOL DRESS.

The favorite combination of blue serge and red trimmings is used for this dress. The design is quite new, though, and has several good features.

The closing is made all the way down with white pearl buttons, and two roomy pockets are stitched on the skirt. The enamelled leather belt and the satin tie are black.

PROPOSED CHANGES IN BRITISH LAW

REPORT OF ROYAL DIVORCE COMMISSION

Attracts Much Attention in the States—Views of Prominent New Yorkers

Woman to have the right to sue for divorce on same grounds as man.

New grounds—1, infidelity; 2, desertion for three years; 3, cruelty; 4, incurable insanity; 5, drunkenness, and 6, imprisonment under a commuted death sentence.

Cases to be heard elsewhere than in London, enabling poor to get justice nearer home without facing prohibitive expenses of travel and lawyers' fees.

Widespread interest in the report of the Royal Divorce Commission, as reported in a special cable dispatch from London to the Herald, was evinced by lawyers, clergymen, women suffragists and others prominent in the life of the city and nation yesterday, says the New York Herald.

The recommendations are admirable, and their enactment into law would constitute one of the most intelligent things parliament has done in a long time, and one of the most humane. There is no greater crime than to bring children into the world, if there be insanity or habitual drunkenness on the part of the parent. These are of greater importance than personal infidelity, for this last may or may not affect future generations.

"In looking over the grounds for divorce, as recommended, every one is rational—cruelty, incurable insanity and habitual drunkenness. In my opinion, the person to be considered is not so much the wife as the children. There is no greater crime than to bring children into the world, if there be insanity or habitual drunkenness on the part of the parent. These are of greater importance than personal infidelity, for this last may or may not affect future generations.

"Certainly no fair person can think it just to give a man a divorce on grounds which would not be good for a woman. Personally, I am not disturbed over easy divorces. The difficulty, in my opinion, is to make marriage permanent."

"As a physician I learned years ago that children born into the world, often, when their parents bitterly hate each other. It is no wonder that we have criminals. As long ago came to the conclusion that these problems cannot be solved until woman is relieved of the stigma of disfranchisement. She can assert herself when she has the proper tool for so doing—the ballot."

Like Conditions in America.

Justice James W. Gerard, of the Supreme Court, said: "These recommendations tend toward conditions already prevailing in this country. For example, poor persons do not have to travel long distances; they can have their cases heard in their own county. The equality of the sexes is recognized in divorces over here. Although I am not a Catholic I think the Roman Catholic church's position on this question is right. I am an Episcopalian. I am not in favor of letting down the bars. Divorce makes life harder for the children you see it every day in court. Domestic difficulties usually can be patched up."

Justice Samuel Greenbaum said: "So far as a comparison of conditions in England with those here is concerned, there is sex equality in divorce actions here."

"William M. K. O'Connell, formerly district attorney of New York county, and judge of the city court: 'I am heartily in favor of equal divorce laws. I also favor further and other grounds in New York state than the present law affords. Habitual drunkenness, habitual ill-treatment, desertion and habitual non-support where the female has not means of her own—all these should be grounds for divorce. So far as my ideas appear to be those of the majority of the Royal Divorce Commission, I believe its suggestions wise.'"

Rev. Dr. W. D. Bliss, editor of the Encyclopedia of Social Reform, said: "In general, I favor the recommendations of the commission. But I believe the marriage question more important than divorce. The main economic question to-day is that of the divorce of marriage and the increase of divorce. At the same time, progressive legislation is desirable."

Rev. Dr. Josiah Strong, president of the American Institute of Social Service, said: "The recommendations of the Royal Commission indicate a more liberal attitude. The acknowledgment of a single standard of morals is exceedingly important, also the provision permitting poor persons to have their cases heard near home. Personally, and not speaking for my organization, I interpret the New Testament teachings of Jesus as confining divorce to one ground, I know that some Protestant clergymen do not. I do believe in legal separation on other grounds, as, for example, for habitual drunkenness or life sentence for crime."

"Denying divorce for any but the one ground may seem a hardship, but not necessarily an injustice. But there is not any law which does not work hardship to some persons; the law is best which works best results for the greatest number. To multiply legal grounds is to increase divorce. The recommendations of the Royal Commission seem good, except those increasing the grounds mentioned as good for legal separation."

Rev. William Sheafe Chase, rector of Christ Church, Bedford avenue, Brooklyn, and a canon of the Episcopal church at Garden City, said: "I am particularly interested in the news from London, because I happen to be chairman of the Long Island Diocesan Social Service Committee, which, upon its own recommendation, was authorized by the Diocesan Convention last May to inaugurate a movement to obtain an amendment to the constitution of the United States such as will permit Congress to pass a divorce law for all the states of the Union. Uniformity of this kind is certainly desirable."

CONSERVATION COMMISSION.

Volume of Important Information on Sea Fisheries of Canada Now Issued.

The Commission of Conservation has just issued a well-illustrated, cloth-bound book entitled, "Sea Fisheries of Eastern Canada." The volume records the proceedings of a meeting of the Committee on Fisheries, Game and Fur-bearing Animals of the Commission, which was held in Ottawa on June 4 and 5 last.

The contents consist of papers given by experts on various branches of the fishing industry, and of discussions based on these papers. Prof. Joseph Stafford, of McGill University, in a paper on the "Conservation of the Oyster," outlines the results of several years of biological study of the oyster and announces an important discovery of his which promises to revolutionize oyster culture. M. J. Patton, assistant secretary of the commission, in an address on "White Fish in the Great Lakes," shows how the catch of white fish in each of the lakes has increased or decreased, according to the number of fry the government has planted. "The Lobster Fishery of Canada" is treated by W. A. Found, superintendent of fisheries for Canada, who also describes what the Dominion government is doing in the way of fish culture.

Frederic J. A. Matheson, in an address on the "Oyster Fisheries of Prince Edward Island," outlines what his government contemplates doing in encouraging oyster farming, and Dr. Howard Murray, of Dalhousie University, makes a plea for a deputy minister of fisheries and a system of government inspection and marking of packages containing fish. The history of the various Atlantic fisheries is briefly traced by J. J. Cowie, of the Department of Marine and Fisheries, who, in the course of his remarks, outlines an important scheme that the government is likely to adopt to raise the standard of packing of Canadian fish. Prof. E. E. Prince, commissioner of fisheries, contributes a paper on "The Shad Fishery of Canada," in which he describes the steps now being taken to hatch shad in the Maritime provinces.

There are several appendices which contain important information for the student of the fishing industry. These include the Dominion act giving the provinces the right to lease their own oyster areas, statistics of the catch of white fish and shad from 1868 to the present time, and a table showing how many white fish fry have been planted in each of the Great Lakes since 1876.

A feature that adds a good deal of value and also of interest to the report is the discussion of the various addresses and the cross-questioning to which the different speakers were subjected by the members of the committee. The volume is very attractively gotten up from a typographical standpoint, and the information it contains on the sea fisheries of Eastern Canada can be had nowhere else in such succinct and popular form.

TRADE IN CHILDREN CHECKED BY POLICE

Some Pass Through Several Hands Before Reaching
Final Purchasers

The Hongkong police recently, says an issue of the Shanghai Mercury to hand on the Panama Maru, made another good haul of kidnappers and their victims as they were on the point of sailing for the southern coast by the I. C. steamer Kwong-sang.

Earlier in the day Detective-Sergeant Killoh and Detective Solly received information that a large number of young kidnapped children had arrived in Shanghai from the river ports and were about to be taken south to Swatow and Canton by an Indo-China steamer for disposal. The detectives with several of their native assistants at once instituted inquiries, and on going on board the I. C. steamer Kwong-sang they were led below to the hold, and there they found fourteen children, ranging in age from four to ten years, in the custody of four old women who said they were widows, and a man.

The women on being questioned first gave evasive answers but later on said they had bought the children from their parents in the family districts up river. The women were able to produce papers accounting for some of the youngsters, some of whom had passed through the hands of three or four child brokers before falling into the hands of their present owners. The women and man along with the children were taken ashore to the station and detained, and as a result of further inquiries four other women, also widows, and another man, who made a business of procuring children, were arrested. The whole crowd were later on taken to the Mixed court and detained, and later they were charged at the same court. After considerable evidence had been led, the men were ordered to be released as there was no proof against them of being concerned in the business. The women were, however, found guilty and one of them was sentenced to six months, two to three months and three to two months imprisonment, the remaining three being fined $30 each. Some of the children were handed back to their parents, who were warned not to sell them again. The remainder of the children were handed over to the Door of Hope to be cared for until their parents could be found.

THE CHURCH AND AMUSEMENTS.

To What Extent Shall It Assume to Direct the People's Recreations?

A speaker at a recent church congress in England called attention to the increased and increasing demand for exciting amusements, and the consequent decline in the use of leisure hours for serious purposes. He followed up his diatribe by asking what the church was doing about it, and proceeded to answer his own questions by saying that, with rare exceptions, she was doing nothing but deny things of which vast numbers of the clergy were ignorant, says the New York Evening Post. He was good enough to be specific. There was the theatre, for instance. Many of the clergy—the speaker was not a clergyman—did not realize the change that had taken place in the last twenty years or so, a change that rendered any wholesale condemnation of even the music halls as ill-advised as it was unjust. Other speakers contributed up-to-date information regarding the actor's profession, betting at football matches, six-penny illustrated newspapers and such like popular amusements, until it was plain that the clergy would not have to go far to find abundant means of obtaining enlightenment upon the mysteries which they were being accused of condemning without knowledge.

It was not the idea of any of these earnest laymen that the Church should attempt as an institution to "find the people their amusements." Yet it may be said for this notion that nothing could be more entertaining than an endeavor to carry it out. Nor is it necessary to hark back to the Middle Ages to come upon a time when in part it was actually accomplished. There must be hundreds, there are more probably thousands, of towns and villages in this country, however it may be in England, to whose inhabitants the Sunday school picnic, and the church sociable, lawn festival, supper and bazaar are still powerful rivals of the travelling stock company and the peripatetic medicine dispenser as modes of relief from the weariness of the day's labor and as warders-off of the curse of monotony. In such places the Church, or, rather, the churches, are very definitely looked to for a substantial portion of the homely joys that form no inconsiderable fraction of the life of the community. At such times, sectarian jealousies are laid aside, perhaps a little ostentatiously, as Brother Jones, of the Baptist Church, makes his smiling way to a prominent seat at a well-filled table in the edifice that echoes every Sunday morning to the thunders of Brother Thompson, of the Methodists. But it must be conceded that this ingenuously furnishing of recreative opportunities is not exactly the same thing as solemnly setting out to "find the people their amusements."

The more modest task proposed for the Church by the English laymen was that of aspiring to "direct" the people's amusements. To achieve this, the clergy must stop frowning upon the stage, and, instead, make friends with it. If, for instance, you happen to be introduced to an "artist," don't automatically freeze into an icicle as if your new acquaintance was a leper. Inquire where he or she is stopping during his engagement in your parish, and pay him a call. In particular, cultivate the friendship of the "lion connoisseurs," the imperious, the monologue stars—in a word, what we Americans call the headliners. You will, if you are a clergyman, thereafter wear a happier countenance, and at the same time have greater sympathy with the members of another profession, which, on account of its surroundings, has many drawbacks. Then get rid of the habit of avoiding the theatres and music halls in your province, although you go to all you can afford the time and money to see when you are in London. Most effective of all, walk out of the house whenever you see anything improper, and complain to the management about it. If this is not sufficient, appeal to the licensing authorities. Preach about good plays, just as you do about good books and pictures. Arrange a "bright" service for Sunday afternoon when a theatrical company is in your town, for the special benefit of its members.

We do not anticipate any overwhelming response by the English clergy to this programme of social intercourse with members of "the profession." Indeed, it is a question which of the two parties to such an arrangement would suffer more, as actor and clergyman molested their lips in vain effort to hit upon some topic which they could both talk about. Such a rapprochement is rather a sensational project than one promising much in the elevation of the stage. One might as well attempt the purification of the press by parlor conversations with reporters. But there has been a serious and successful endeavor in our own country, not merely to "direct" the people's amusements, but in some degree to "find" amusements for them.

HIS PROCLAMATION OF INDEPENDENCE.

The sense of nationality has grown wonderfully among the Bulgarians of late years. In 1908, when the Turkish army was engaged elsewhere, Prince Ferdinand publicly proclaimed Bulgaria an independent kingdom. This declaration was read aloud by the king in the Church of the Forty Martyrs at Trnovo, the ancient capital of the Bulgarian empire, and in the following spring the independence of Bulgaria was recognized by the powers. Last year the Grand Sobranje confirmed the title of "King," which his Majesty adopted.

A Lover of Beautiful Things.

King Ferdinand is a skillful painter; he surrounds himself with beautiful pictures and rare plants and flowers; he has a passion for precious stones; one day, a foreign diplomat, who called to see him without appointment, found him in a marvellous aviary, where the monarch has a wonderful collection of the most beautiful birds. In the spring of 1903, Ferdinand married Princess Marie-Louise of Bourbon-Parme, who bore him two sons and two daughters and died in 1908. His present wife, whom he married in 1908, was Princess Eleanor, of Reuss-Kostritz.

MODERN LANGUAGE MOST IN FAVOR.

The Mercure de France has been making some inquiries as to the respective popularity of the various modern languages in the schools of Europe, and it finds that French is still far ahead of all competitors. It says that in England German finds less and less favor, and that pupils who have any option in regard to a modern language always choose French. In France, however, since 1870, German has perhaps secured a preponderance over English in the Lycees. In Germany the study of French has progressed to the detriment of English, but the government has intervened in order to develop the teaching of English, which it regards as of great importance in commercial matters. French is now taught in Italy more than ever before, but German is also gaining some ground, especially in the north. In Spain French has more pupils than any other foreign language, and English comes next.

FUR-TRIMMED TAILORED SUIT.

The favorite taupe gray cloth was combined successfully with brown fox in this suit, which consists of a long-sleeved, draped dress with coat to match.

The vest front is with the coat, and is made of amber yellow velvet, as are the square lapels. Gray pearl buttons, circled by amber, ornament the coat. The hat exactly matches the fur in color, and bears an amber-colored plume.

PERILS AWAITING PRESIDENT'S FAMILY

INQUISITIVE NEWS

GATHERERS WARNED

Details in Lives of Wilson's Family Should Be Respected, Not Published

One of the minor blessings of the Taft administration has been the sanity with which the members of his family have borne their semi-official relations with the public. The members of the president's family cannot escape a certain amount of publicity, because public interest is certain to centre on them to a great degree. Much of it is no doubt trying to persons of domestic tastes and with a relish for privacy, but greatness has its unescapable penalties. Still there are limits which should not be exceeded.

It is to be hoped that the public will show the same consideration toward the members of President-elect Wilson's family, to the end that there may be no repetition of the misadventure and social chronicles which once bored the nation almost beyond endurance. The president's wife, as the first lady in the land, is a subject of legitimate public interest, and the president's sons and daughters naturally stand conspicuous in a reflected light, yet the canons of good taste are not suspended by the outcome of any general election. If the president's youngest son hurls his knuckles playing marbles, or the president's oldest daughter wears a Ropesier collar, these circumstances are not matters over which a nation should stand agog.

The gossip-mongers and retailers of small talk will be sorely tempted by the Wilsons' three charming daughters, who have heretofore stood in the public mind as fair types of American womanhood. They will harry them and make life generally miserable for them in their efforts to procure salable "copy." So far these young ladies have conducted themselves so unresponsively as to win the gratitude and respect of the public, and there is no doubt but that they will continue to do so, for they possess both breeding and brains.

A proper respect for the president should include a submission to the wishes of his family regarding their personal privacy of conduct. Their news value should not be obtained by the outcome of any general election, until the public grows weary of reading about them and their daily doings.

George Renwick, the well-known war correspondent now at the front, sent the following account to the Daily Telegraph recently. In an illuminating interview with a cousin of the Serbian monarch, the Prince tells a story of feminine heroism unequalled in modern history:

"I am glad to meet an English journalist," said the Prince, "for it gives me an opportunity of expressing my appreciation of the sympathy which England extends to us in our national aspirations. That sympathy has been much prized by Serbians for many years."

"If I were not a Serbian," his Highness, who speaks English perfectly, continued, "I would prefer to be an Englishman."

Like many of his countrymen who live abroad, the Prince returned to Serbia to fight on her behalf.

"I have," he told me, "never served in the army before, and now at the age of 45 I have come back to learn soldiering. I suppose I must be the oldest recruit in the world," he added laughingly.

The Prince is in a cavalry regiment, and is sharing the privations of the private soldier while learning his business in the squadrons.

Seaport Wanted.

His Highness told me that Serbia was pleased and grateful at the response which foreign countries had made to their appeal for Red Cross help, and he asked me to forward an appeal to England to send out as many competent surgeons as possible. This request he made on behalf of the King.

When I ventured to ask him about Serbia's ambitions, the Prince replied: "I am a simple soldier in the ranks, but the country is fighting desperately for fresh air and a window looking out into the world—a seaport."

I have had the opportunity of speaking to many of the wounded Serbians who are in the hospital here. One of them told me a touching story of a Serbian Joan of Arc—a beautiful Belgrade girl of nineteen—Sophia Yevanovitch, by name.

Stirred by the wave of patriotism which was sweeping through the country, she dressed herself in man's clothing and joined a band of volunteers near Merdar.

Retained as Nurse.

Her sex remained undiscovered until after the first battle, in which she fought with heroic courage. "We thought she must be a woman because she was so tender to the wounded," my informant said simply. "And now she has been allowed to remain with the band, not as a soldier, but as a nurse."

As an indication of the Serbians' enthusiasm for war against the Turks, I may say that large numbers of men who were told they were not required for active service are following the regular forces. They have no arms, but a comrade is killed or wounded there is eager competition for the relinquished rifle and ammunition, and the man who gets the prize takes his place in the fighting line.

Nearly all the young women of Serbia have joined the Red Cross service, and are everywhere showing magnificent devotion to their country and their men.

Serbia is writing history in blood, but it is being written without tears.

Timber from forests belonging to the Prussian state bring in an annual revenue of $20,000,000.

Five years in the service will be entitled to insurance against death in an equal sum to six months' wages, when the term of employment has been five to ten years, and to one year's wages when the term of employment has been ten years or more, with a maximum of $2,000 in either case.

THE WORLD'S CHAMPION COW.

"Roanoke" of Old Basing, a thoroughbred Jersey, owned by C. A. Julian-Sharman, of Red Deer, Alta., was the absent guest of honor the evening of October 16, when the Red Deer Board of Trade entertained a hundred representative men from various parts of the province, and visitors from neighboring provinces at a banquet in the town hall on the occasion of the annual winning the title of champion dairy cow of the British Empire.

Roanoke's performance, which is without a parallel in the British Empire, was made under an official test. The figures follow:

Highest milk yield in one year, 52 lbs. Highest milk yield in one year, 15,700 lbs. Milk yield in three years, 37,547 lbs. Average butter fat test, 5.18 per cent. Butter production, one year, 1,631.89 lbs. Butter production, three years, 2,504.39 lbs. Actual money value of products in three years, $1,007.50, and three calves, for which the owner has refused $2,000.

Roanoke was bred and raised near Red Deer.

IS GUN-A-NOOT WANTED?

It looks as if, should Attorney-General Howse's absence in Ottawa prove long continued, the operation of the whole legal machinery of the province might be suspended. Nothing can be done without him. Prisoners in the upper country, accused of criminal acts, are released, at his command conveyed by wire, without even having undergone the form of a trial. Offenders convicted in Vancouver are liberated at the prison doors, by officials acting under his instructions, and are sent back to prey upon society.

It is evident that this course pursued by Mr. Howse has got upon the nerves of his colleagues and department officials just as it has upon the nerves of the public. Hon. Mr. Howse is acting attorney-general while Mr. Howse is away, and, as a lawyer and a statesman, he might be expected to know how to act when called upon, especially in a matter affecting the welfare of the public. But Mr. Howse is so manifestly alarmed lest he may do something of which Mr. Howse is not approve that he does nothing at all.

Intelligence was received by the department from the North that the Indian murderer, Gun-a-Noot, has recently been seen among the tribe at Mud River in Alberta. Although efforts of a most strenuous character, especially for the present British Columbia government to put forth, have been made to capture Gun-a-Noot, and something like twenty thousand dollars have been spent in tracking him, the authorities now in Victoria are not taking any advantage of the present opportunity. All that Hon. Mr. Howse has to say is that the information received would be brought to Mr. Howse's attention as soon as he returns.

And who can blame Mr. Howse? Why should not Mr. Howse order the release of Gun-a-Noot as well as of untold prisoners at Grand Forks and convicted offenders at Vancouver? No doubt this enterprise is native, degenerate, who very likely keeps himself well informed concerning what the attorney-general is doing, and the provincial police are doing, has decided that since crime is being encouraged, and criminals protected by the provincial authorities there is no longer any necessity for him to remain in hiding.

It would appear, too, that he is right since nothing is being done to capture him. An excuse is sought to be given for this failure to act. The case of Gun-a-Noot, the government press correspondents at Victoria tell us "is one of the nightmares of the provincial police service, there having been from the first a very general opinion that no evidence could be secured to convict in the event of this elusive native being eventually captured."

All this, however,

ELECTORAL COLLEGE AND ITS MEMBERS

Complicated Process of Presidential Elections in United States

A correspondent asks: The Mail and Empire to explain how a president is elected in the United States. He has read several accounts of the method pursued, but it is not yet quite clear to him, and he believes that many other readers must be in the same position. This information has already been given more than once in the fourth column, but some of the chief points may be repeated. In the first place, it ought to be understood that the president and vice-president are elected by an electoral college. The college is elected by the people at large. It consists, at the present time, of 531 members, each state being allowed representatives in the electoral college in proportion to its representation in congress, which, in turn, is decided on a population basis. Therefore, it may be said that according to its population a state has more or less representatives in the electoral college. For instance, New York, the most populous state, is entitled to elect forty-five members of the college, and Pennsylvania, the next most populous state, is entitled to thirty-eight members. Rhode Island has five, New Hampshire four and Nevada three.

When a New York voter went into the polling booth last Tuesday he received a ballot on which was printed the names of forty-five men, in a column, at whose head were the names of Taft and Sherman and the sign of the Republican party. There were another forty-five names under the name of Roosevelt, and another forty-five in the Wilson column. Though the names of the candidates appeared on the ballot, and although, as a matter of fact, the people were voting for Wilson, Roosevelt and Taft, they were, according to the Constitution, choosing forty-five fellow citizens to whom they were willing to entrust the duty of electing a president. The theory of the American Constitution is that the ordinary mob of voters has not the necessary judgment to choose the ablest man in the United States to be president, but that they were acquainted with the ablest men in their own district, and that they were competent to designate them. The idea was that the ablest men from each state should assemble, and that the sum of their wisdom would designate the ablest man of all, not a member of the college. The ablest man of all was to be the president.

The members of the electoral college, however, are only placed on the ticket after they have been pledged to vote for one of the candidates. They are, in fact, chosen for the ticket, not by the people, but by the party. They have no choice in the matter, for we may be sure that if a man presented himself as a candidate for the electoral college and informed the public that he was a man of independent thinking, and would exercise his own judgment in choosing a president, he would be laughed at, and some one would be put on in his place who would do what the party wanted. Theoretically the electoral college can choose any man for president. It is possible for the college as at present constituted to elect William Taft president, or Charles Murphy, or Tammany Hall, or George Ade, or any other American citizen born in the United States who has never been convicted of felony. Should the college determine to do any of these things the Constitution provides no redress. The man chosen by the college would have to remain president until he was impeached or removed from office for some sufficient cause.

Each state having chosen its electors, it is their duty to meet and to decide on the man best fitted to become president. The theory is that the members of each state delegation debate among themselves and finally cast votes on the question. The practice is that in a state that has voted for the Democratic ticket the Republicans and the Progressives will save themselves the trouble of attendance. They have an inkling of the truth that all their arguments and all their eloquence would not change the opinion of the infatuated Democrats, and so they do not waste their efforts.

The Democratic electors, however, meet and fill out a long form with particulars as to the vote for president, and this is mailed to Washington, addressed to the vice-president. On a given day all the envelopes are opened, and the senate goes through the formality of counting the votes. It is necessary that a candidate shall receive a majority of all the votes cast by the electoral college. That is to say, in the present case Wilson must receive at least 266 votes. A plurality is not sufficient. It ought to be understood that all the electoral votes in a state go to the candidate having the most votes at the general election. There is no splitting of a state vote. The members of the electoral college are elected in a body, the contest not being between forty-five individual electors in favor of Wilson and another forty-five in favor of Taft. If Wilson received only one more vote in New York state than Roosevelt he would still be entitled to the whole forty-five electors in the college. So it will be seen that the election of a president works out in a manner not dreamed of by the framers of the Constitution. Had one of them lived to see it he would probably turn over in his grave.

EXAMINING TIMBER FOR FOREST RESERVE

C. H. Morse Makes Trip Northwest From Prince Albert on Behalf of Forestry Dept.

The forestry branch of the Department of the Interior has again, during the past summer, had parties out examining the timber on some of the regions still in the hands of the Dominion government, with a view to reserving from settlement lands more suitable for forest growth than for farming.

C. H. Morse made an examination of a district northwest from Prince Albert lying between the Shellbrook branch of the Canadian Northern Railway (on the west) and the third Dominion meridian (longitude 104 degrees) and recommends that the tract between the meridian on the east and the Sturgeon river on the west should be made a forest reserve. This land is not pure sand, but has some stretches of sand among lands of better quality; none of it, however, can be classed as good agricultural land. At the present time this tract carries, in places, a good stand of spruce, as good a stand as will be found anywhere in the country. The reproduction of the forest is good, and this should make one of the most valuable forest tracts in the West. The rate of growth is good. As it is calculated that the present stand of timber, which is held under license, will be cut out in ten years, it will be seen that the necessity for looking for a future supply is close at hand.

MRS. WOODROW WILSON AND HER DAUGHTERS

Princeton, N. J.—Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, with her daughters, went for a long automobile ride the afternoon of her husband's election through the country near the university village. While the whole nation was holding its breath the first hour after the polls closed to catch the first returns, Mrs. Wilson was as calm as if her family were not concerned vitally in the decision about to be announced.

The composure of Mrs. Wilson and the Misses Wilson did not indicate indifference. Rather it was evidence of their thoughtfulness and their ability to meet the situation without displaying nervousness.

Mrs. Wilson said she did not wish to comment on the campaign, her sensations on election day or her expectations for the future.

Keeps in Background.

Mrs. Wilson's attitude to-day is exactly the same as it has been every day since the Baltimore convention. She kept modestly in the background, running the machinery of her home for the comfort of her husband and daughters. That was the first business of the day. During all the summer months she said the Misses Wilson went about their occupations, displaying deep interest in the fortunes of the governor, but never excitement of the slightest wish to get into the light of publicity.

The first impression one receives when he enters the Wilson residence is its homeliness. It is hard to think of it as a political center, even in the library, which has been the governor's headquarters for several weeks.

Each member of the Wilson family has his or her own occupation. In addition to being housekeeper, Mrs. Wilson has a wide field of social activity. She is a woman of personal charm in manner and possesses talent of an unusual order as an artist. She is not a dabbler, but an artist with big conceptions and marked originality in execution. With the work of rearing three daughters and managing the home she was compelled for years to neglect her art.

Another of Mrs. Wilson's talents is landscape gardening. The attractive English home of the Wilsons on the hillside west of the village shows evidence of her skill in this line, as does the homestead of the president of Princeton on the east side of the campus, where she worked for ten years making a garden that is one of the attractive features of the university.

Musical Daughters.

Three interesting daughters make up the family group. All have some musical education, but Miss Margaret Woodrow Wilson excels in this branch and is now studying voice culture in New York. The governor possesses a fine tenor voice and the Wilson musical evenings at home are of high order.

Miss Eleanor Randolph Wilson inherits her mother's artistic gifts, and is now a student in Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts in Philadelphia.

Miss Jessie, who is blonde, is interested in sociology and spends much of her time working among the poor. She is an assistant in settlement work at Kensington, Philadelphia. The five members of the family have similar domestic tastes and spend much of their time at home. They never have been devoted to club life nor have they appeared to aim for social leadership.

The governor's position for many years has carried with it social responsibilities, but this has been accepted as a natural course of events. Washington naturally is wondering whether there will be great social activity in the White House for the next four years. With three attractive and unmarried daughters to assist Mrs. Wilson in entertaining, it is a safe prediction that there will be plenty of activity.

ANOTHER PLOT TO KILL COREAN GOVERNOR

Political Conspiracy Under Guise of Religious Organization

A Korean named Pak Chaitu, who is credited with having founded a new religion, was arrested, with his disciples, some ten in number, recently, say Japanese exchanges, on hand on the Awa Maru, at Munwi district, North Choochong province. According to a dispatch received by the Kells Nippon, Pak is a boy of 18, but he has a very imposing look and behaves in so dignified a way that he has been looked up to with something akin to awe by persons around him. He either dreamed, or pretended to dream, of having had a visitation from heaven, when a religious truth was communicated to him during November of 1910. Soon after the boy founded a new religion and gave to it the name of Whaak Kyo, and began to preach publicly in March of last year. Immediately after he was joined by a certain Pak Simuk, aged 41, who was formerly a powerful member of the Toughak party, a defunct secret fraternity of Chosen. Kim Tongak, formerly a sergeant-major of the Korean guards at Cronghu, also joined him. With the assistance of these two disciples the preaching of the boy rapidly spread among the local people. In July of last year, Pak posted a memorial to Count Terauchi, governor-general, saying that the contents of the memorial were communicated to him by heaven. Pak gradually obtained a number of adherents, by whom a dangerous plot was conceived under the guise of the propagation of the religion. But their movements had already attracted the notice of the police at Pootu and Chongchi, and their wholesale arrest was effected on the 2nd inst., before their plot had matured. They will probably be punished according to the law of the maintenance of public peace. It is said that most of the adherents joined the fraternity on the belief that the recovery of the Korean sovereignty would be carried out by them in the course of one month.

TYPICAL OF THE AUTUMN DRESSES.

This is one of the dresses which are so well liked this fall, and is at the same time decidedly new and becoming. The material is navy blue sponge cloth, with trimmings of silk. The tulle is smoked pearl, and are buttoned through holes bound with the silk.

COMFORT IN CANOES.

"It's the 'know how' that counts most in making a trip into the woods a success," said a veteran woodsman. "Once I met a Pittsburg man who was 'enjoying' his initial trip into the Canadian woods with a companion. These people were having a bad time of it and their two Indian canoe men and guides were in a state of mutiny. The hunters had brought with them enough supplies to outfit a dozen. Among other things, there was a case and a half of eggs; fully a hundred pounds of canned stuffs; two cots, with the kind of mattresses you would never go into the woods without; three changes of clothing; a two-gallon jar of pickles, and other weighty sundries too numerous to mention. The canoees were jammed. When I met the Pittsburg man again, a year later, he had learned by experience, and his whole outfit could be toted in a single pack. His grub consisted chiefly of flour and prunes. And he and his party were happy."
